Dying Engineer Closed Throttle.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 28.—His skull fractured by a telegraph pole while he was leaning from the window of the cab, Michael Callaghan, engineer of a passenger train on the Lehigh Valley railway, instinctively closed the throttle of his locomotive when the accident occurred near White Haven. As the train slowed down the trainman ran forward and found the fireman lifting the dying engineer from the floor of the cab where he had fallen.

WAS A BIG SUCCESS

EVENT HELD BY PORTSMOUTH ORANGE LODGE.

Annual Tea and Concert Was Very Largely Attended and Much Enjoyed—A Fine Programme Was Provided—Those Who Took Part.

The annual tea and concert, held on Monday evening, under the auspices of Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 481, Portsmouth, was, without doubt, the best event ever given by this lodge. The hall was filled to the doors, and the tea and concert were all that could be desired. The arrangements were perfect in every respect, and the committee of management deserve credit. The Portsmouth Orange lodge has always held the record for such events, but at the close of this one, it was opinion of all that the members had excelled themselves. The ladies had charge of the tea, and it is needless to say that it was of the finest. When it comes to preparing a tea, the ladies at Portsmouth cannot be beaten.

The programme included songs, recitations, duets and choruses, and the every member receiving well-deserved applause. Edward Bennett was the chairman of the evening, and carried out the duties in an able manner. Before introducing the programme he delivered a short address. The opening number was a chorus by the members of the order, when the ever popular number, "The Maple Leaf," was rendered in fine style. The chorus was strong.

The other portion of the programme included solos by H. Flowers; recitations by Mr. Kelly; solos, Mr. Allely; solos, Miss J. Halliday; recitations, W. McFriedge; duet, Mrs. J. Evans and J. Shaw; solos, Miss Butler; solos, J. Partridge; solos, Mrs. Evans; solos and chorus, by A. Atkins and members; solos, Mr. Shelly.

The accompanists were Miss Halliday, Miss Matthews, Miss Atkins, H. McFaul, J. Butler.

After the programme was concluded, there was dancing, and the happy event was brought to a close at a reasonable hour.

EYE IN BLUE PJAMAS.

Startling "Improvement" of Pictures Ordered "Draped."

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 28.—As a result of the efforts of Rev. J. A. McCaughey, a well-known purist, who recently made a tour through Albany's underworld, valuable oil paintings in a local saloon have been "done over" to conform with the rules of decorum and the mandates of the police. When the owner of the pictures was informed by officers, Saturday, that his paintings must either be "draped, or removed," he hired an artist and put him to work. The result was startling. "Diana at the Bath," said to have been valued at $10,000, is no longer shocking. Diana herself has been clad in a bathing suit of brilliant hue, while her attendants wear suits of rainbow varieties. The man in the painting appears in a convict garb, wearing a silk hat and smokes a pipe.

Another valuable work, "The Awakening of Adam," has been done over so that Eve wears a suit of blue pajamas and Adam a pair of overalls. Both have on boxing gloves.

BUSY BISHOP FALLON

IS DOING SPLENDID WORK IN LONDON, ONT.

His Popularity is Very Great in That City, Where His Stand on the Bi-lingual Question receives Strong Support.

London, Ont., Feb. 28.—Were Bishop Fallon of London judged entirely by the matters in which he has taken the centre of the stage since his elevation to the bishopric of London, in succession to Bishop McEvay, it might naturally be concluded that he was a trouble-maker pure and simple, and it is to be feared that this is the impression that is held of him in some quarters. In his home city, however, there is no such impression and though parts of his diocese are in more or less of a tumult, there is this to be said, that the diocese has already felt the arm of a strong man. Bishop Fallon has now been in charge of London diocese for about nine months and if, throughout his term of office, the advance of his church continues, there will be reason in future days to remember the big Irish bishop who precipitated the bi-lingual dispute.

Bishop Fallon found a diocese that had held its own for years, but that had made little advance. No new parishes had been opened up in a long time, many of the clergy had settled down to a humdrum round and in some cases the congregations were decreasing and smaller parishes were dying out. Of the condition of the schools in the more Catholic parts of the diocese there is scarcely need to speak. Bishop Fallon has made their condition known. Nine months has marked a great change. A new parish has been erected in South London and a second is contemplated for early opening in the north end of the city. The building of a new church in South London is to begin in a few months.

Among the clergy there has been a stirring up that has attracted attention all over the diocese. There were some men whom Bishop Fallon evidently believed would do better work if they were right under his eyes, so into the cathedral they were brought and the men at the cathedral, with the exception of Mr. Aylward, were sent out in their place. It may easily be imagined that not all this was accomplished without a struggle and in one instance it was no light struggle, but the bishop won out and the changes went through.

The bi-lingual difficulty remains, of course, a sore point with many of the French-Canadians in Essex as the recent meeting at Tecumseh in connection with the Gaultier incident showed. It is said that there is a proposal to give all the separate schools in this part of the diocese into the hands of the Ursuline nuns who are located at Chatham and who already do a part of the work.

As a man, Bishop Fallon has taken a prominent place in London. As the guest of the London Canadian Club at their annual banquet last month, he made a speech which produced an ovation. He has shown a disposition to take his place as a citizen of London that marks him out from his predecessors in the diocese. His popularity in London is real and for the stand on the bi-lingual question there has never been anything but support from his fellow-citizens in London.

"THAT'S A DELIBERATE LIE."

Said Bristol to Lancaster—Was Nearly a Fight.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—There was a lively talk in the railway committee of the commons the morning during the discussion of Western Central railway bill. E. A. Lancaster, of Lincoln, said Toronto city had a persistent lobby in the capital for three weeks trying to coerce members of parliament. "That's a deliberate lie," said Edmund Bristol, of Toronto. Mr. Lancaster muttered something about what he would do to Bristol outside. There was more such dialogue. It looked like a fight, but chairman Gaultier stepped in and compelled Mr. Bristol to withdraw.

Spring Medicine

There is no other season when medicine is so much needed as in the spring. The blood is impure and impoverished—a condition, indicated by pimples, boils and other eruptions on the face and body, by deficient vitality, loss of appetite, lack of strength.

The best spring medicine, according to the experience and testimony of thousands annually, is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies and enriches the blood, cures eruptions, builds up the system.

Any preparation said to be "just as good" is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit. Insist on having Fell into the Water.

A man named Clyde had a cold bath this morning while going about his work. He was engaged in cutting ice at Small's ice-yard, near Macdonald park. The plough with which he was marking out the blocks to be sawed turned over sideways and he was precipitated into the water. The plough fell in and was dragging the horse in also when the animal was grabbed by Ernest Kellar and John Roe and pulled away from the edge. Willing hands pulled the man out of the water and he was hurried to a house to get into dry clothes.
