FIRE AT TWEED.

Lively Blaze at Home of John Kelly.

Tweed, Feb. 28.—On the afternoon of Thursday, 24th inst., about 1.30 o'clock, the dwelling of John Kelly, living on the Bridgewater Road, caught fire, in some mysterious way, in the roof, and as there was a heavy gale blowing at the time, from the west, nothing could be done to stop the progress of the fire. For a time it was feared that the outbuildings would also share the fate of the dwelling, but luckily the wind suddenly changed round a little to the north-west, and the barn and sheds escaped.

Fanned by the high wind, the flames completely enveloped the dwelling in a few minutes, so that very little of the household effects could be saved. The dwelling and contents were practically a total loss. There was only a small insurance on the dwelling, and contents, about $350, and Mr. Kelly's loss is a heavy one. Much sympathy is felt for himself and family.

Miss Loretta Woodcock arrived here, on Saturday morning, from Boston. She will remain for some time with her grandmother, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Wm. Bartlam, left on Monday morning, for her return trip to her home in British Columbia. She will stop over a few days in Toronto.

One leg held, and was considerably injured. A number of Tweedites attended. Dr. and Mrs. Burrow's euchre party, in Marlbank, on Friday night, 24th inst.

ROYALTY TO GET JEWELS.

Examination of Chambers at Lisbon Reveals Wealth.

Lisbon, Feb. 28.—The minister of public works has made an inspection of the treasure chamber in the vaults at the royal palace of Necessidades, in which are deposited the crown jewels and personal valuables belonging to the deposed royal family. In the inventory taken are a unique table service of silver, weighing more than a ton, King Maria's crown and sceptre of solid gold and studded with precious stones, and several blocks of virgin gold, the largest weighing forty-four pounds. The gem of the collection consists of a safe full of jewels, among which is the diadem belonging to the late Queen Amelie, and a necklace given her by her father, the Count of Paris. The necklace is valued at $200,000, and the whole contents of the treasure chamber have an estimated value of $3,500,000.

The reason for this inventory is that the British government, through its legation in Lisbon, informed the Portuguese government that King Manuel and Queen Amelie desired to have possession of their own jewelry. The minister of finance authorized the statement that all the valuables which are proved to be the private property of the members of the deposed royal family will be returned to them, and the remainder, such as the crown and the sceptre, will be placed in the national museum.
