It mildly stimulates nerves and brain—tunes them up for the day's activity.

Best of all it supplies an abundance of real strength and energy. One cup of Suchard's Cocoa is more nourishing than five cups of coffee, or a dozen cups of tea, and has none of their harmful effects.

Start the day right with a steaming, fragrant cup of Suchard's Cocoa, and finish with the same.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

There's a divinity that shapes our ends, Rough-hew them how we will. Hamlet, Act V, Sc. 2.

Shakespeare is frequently spoken of as the supreme mind of the race. This may seem to many an extravagant claim. Some will point to Michel Angelo and give him the palm for greatness as he occupies a high position in four arts, architecture, painting, sculpture and even verse, whereas Shakespeare was supreme in but one, the drama. Shakespeare's exalted position is due to the fact that he concentrated his mind on the life of Mankind—the highest study of man, and Shakespeare, more fully than any other thinker in the world's history, has in a practical way investigated and solved man's relationship to society and to the universe in which he lives. It would be difficult to find a character that has not its parallel in Shakespeare's works; it would be hard to discover a situation that has not its like on his pages.

It is most natural that the minds of thinking men should enquiringly turn to him to find out his attitude towards the Infinite. Was the artist, poet or dramatist? Is frequently asked. The loftiest genius of all times was distinctly a believer in a Supreme Being who was not only the creative impulse in the universe, but is the guiding principle in it and in the lives of the individual inhabitants of even one of the least of the worlds.

Men may rough-hew their lives how they will, but they "are in God's hands." Their ends are shaped by intelligent wisdom. It is only necessary to read Shakespeare's great tragedies to see this principle at work. Vice and virtue are shown in all of them in conflict. Shakespeare invariably makes good triumph. The fate of Macbeth, of Richard III, and Antony are but manifestations of retributive justice.

It is maintained by many that Shakespeare was merely an artist, that he constructed plays to please, that from them it is impossible to form a judgment as to his belief or character. The mental attitude of Scott, George Eliott, Hawthorne, Victor Hugo and Balzac can be arrived at from their creations, and equally it is true of Shakespeare. His pages as a whole show that he was intensely and broadly religious, and utterances of his noblest characters emphasize this. Hamlet was evidently very dear to Shakespeare and the poet has used him to express many of his own points of view with regard to the problems of existence. It is on Hamlet's lips that he puts the words that have

Tips For Farmers

BY UNCLE JOSH.

An acre of land under such cultivation as the average farmer can give may, says O. J. Maguire, in Farm Stock and Home, be made to produce 200 bushels of potatoes, twelve tons of carrots or twenty tons of cabbage. At the prices paid one year with another the acre of potatoes would bring $100 the acre of carrots at 50c. per bushel would bring $214, and the acre of cabbage at 50c. per 100 pounds would bring $200. Four crops devoted to the above crops would bring the farmer $647. This is figuring on paper, but farmers have been known to do even better than this.

HEAVY DRINKER CURED.

Samaria Cured Him and He Helps Others.

A man who has been released from the awful cravings of drink, and whose first thought is to help others, shows the spirit of true brotherhood and philanthropy. Read his letter: "The Samaria Remedy Co., Toronto, Ont. 'Will you please send me book on drink, also circular relating to your valued remedy for the drink habit. I wish to hand these to a friend who is going to quit drinking. I can remember that I have taken your remedy, and I find it all you claim it to be. I never think of taking or using strong drink in any way, as all desire highly of your wonderful remedy. I may use my name in any way you wish in public.'"

H. Lilywhite, Brigidon, Ontario.

Samaria Prescription is tasteless and odorless, and dissolves instantly in tea or coffee, or can be mixed with food. It can be given with or without the patient's knowledge. It removes the craving for drink, builds up the system and restores the nerves. Drink becomes distasteful and even nauseous.

Drink is a disease, not a crime. One drink of whiskey always invites another. The inflamed nerves and stomach create a craving that must either be satisfied by more whiskey or removed by scientific treatment like Samaria Prescription. Samaria Prescription has been in regular and successful use by physicians and hospitals for over ten years.

If you know of any family needing Samaria Prescription tell them about it. If you have a husband, father or friend that is drifting into drink help him save himself. Write today.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet, giving full particulars, testimonials, price, etc., will be sent absolutely free and postpaid in plain sealed package to anyone asking for it and mentioning this paper. Correspondence strictly confidential. Write today.

whole supply and ruining the business.

It seems a great pity that thousands of dozens of eggs must now be shipped into Canadian markets to supply our local needs. Canadian poultry-keepers who have neglected their opportunities are largely losing their industry. Why should the egg market be handed over to the farmers of Russia or China or the United States? If Canadian farmers were organized and were awake to their opportunities in this respect there would be a splendid addition to their revenue.

Seasonable Pointers.

The Farm Stock and Home gives the following seasonable pointers: The check-rein is as comfortable to a horse as the high collar is to a workman.

Better corn means cheapened production, and cheaper production means larger net profits.

Spring's work will soon be here; are the teams being put into shape for their season's work?

When the oil replaces the strapping the bank account will exchange places with the mortgage.

Among the duties of early spring, if the work has been neglected in the fall, is the examination and repair of the machinery.

The sowing of uncleaned oats is a common and a profitless practice by which the sower assures to himself and his neighbors a bountiful crop of weeds.

Consider carefully the matter of outfit for machinery in order that all the machinery on the farm may earn a fair return upon the money invested.

Toward spring corn fodder loses its palatability to a greater or less degree. It should, therefore, be disposed of before the beginning of warm weather.

Keep the horses off the roads in the early spring, partly on account of the roads, more directly on behalf of the teams that must do the heavy seeding work.

A crop that barely pays expenses is a wasteful crop to grow. It is simply an adaptation to the farm of the old-time treadmill—always traveling and getting nowhere.

The plan of sowing two pounds of clover to the acre with the spring crop, is an excellent one; it adds fertility, and gives pasture where the stand is not sufficient for leaving in.

Test the seed corn. For this a shallow box, saw dust or sand, cloths, a little patience and a little work, are the necessary things. Mixed together in the proper proportions they will assure an abundant corn harvest.

From Many Farms.

A farmer who lives near Pannoy, Saskatchewan, was forced to provide food and shelter for his stock.

Early chinooks having thawed the snow, which soon formed in a hard sheet of ice over the range grass, hundreds of cattle have perished on the Blackfoot Indian Reserve, Montana.

Water Commissioners of Guelph, Ont., intend to plant 150,000 trees on their property during the coming summer. Last year they put in 40,000, and 75 per cent. of them lived.

It is reported that eight sheep in factories in the Brockville, Ont., district will abandon cheese-making for 1911, as American representatives have been closing contracts for their cream.

A cow, bereft of her calf, which was taken out of a train at Birmingham, England, broke her rope and ran into a tunnel. Traffic had to be suspended until the animal was captured.

At the Illinois College of Agriculture there has been organized a Chinese Students' Agricultural Club. It has a membership of thirteen students, whose expenses are being paid by the Chinese empire.

The British steamer, Inveric, recently arrived at Boston from Calcutta with boxes containing thousands of bugs from the Orient. They are parasites to be used against insects infesting orange groves.

Prof. Rolin, of Harvard University, suggests that the chemical poisons used as preservatives in food products should be tried on life term prisoners in penal institutions to determine their effect on the human body.

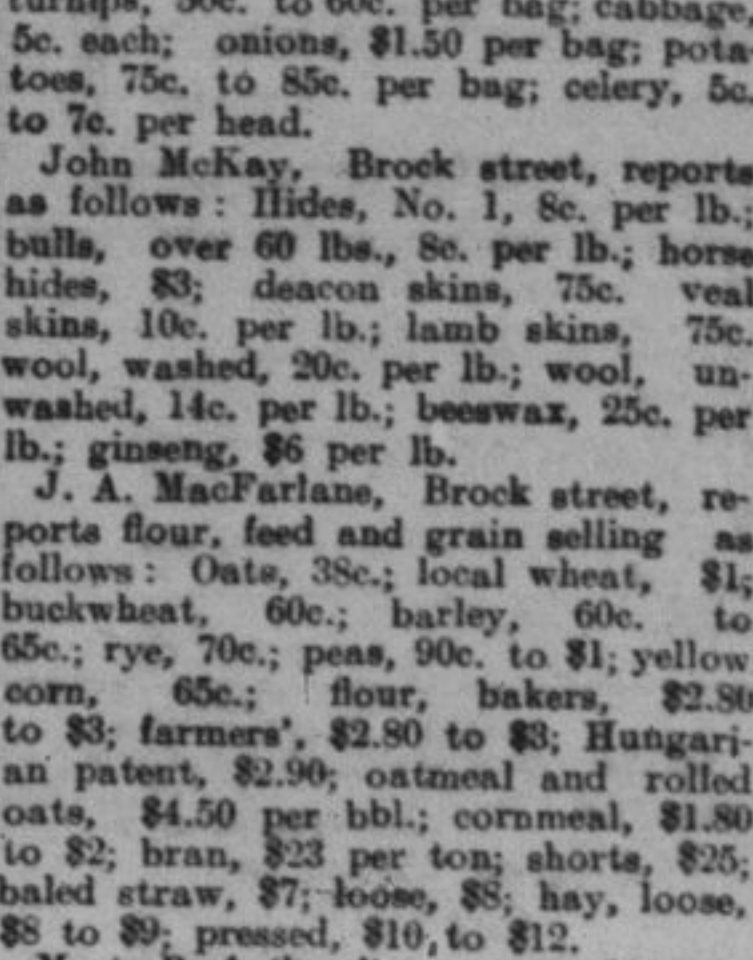

Thieves in Hertfordshire, Eng., who stole a horse and carriage, with two sets of harness, are believed to have tied straw around the carriage wheels and put rubber bands on the horse's feet to prevent noise being made.

An ear of corn grown in Illinois last year and sent recently to the United States Department of Agriculture, is believed to be the only perfect ear of corn ever known to have an odd number of rows of grain.

"It also cured my daughter, who is 17 years old. She took one bottle according to directions. I assure you that no doctor is equal to your book and your advice. I have recommended your remedy to a number of persons."

A Woman's Remedy. Mrs. A. E. Stouffer, Caplona, Kansas, writes: "Peruna has given me health and strength; it is the best medicine that was ever made for women. My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman. I cannot say too much for Peruna."
