RHEUMATISM AND COMMON SENSE
Father Morrissy's No. 7 Eliminates the Uric Acid.

Many treatments will relieve the aches and pains of rheumatism, but there is only one way to cure that dread disease. The common sense method is to remove the cause, and the effects will soon disappear. Rheumatism is caused, as is well known, by the failure of the kidneys to perform their intended work of filtering the uric acid out of the blood and eliminating it from the body through the bladder. When the kidneys go on strike, the uric acid is carried to the joints and tissues, where it causes stiffening of the muscles, and the excruciating pains of rheumatism.

Father Morrissy, the learned priest-physician, after much research devised a prescription which would act directly on the kidneys, and by toning them up to vigorous action, cause them to clear the system of the uric acid. This remedy, known as No. 7, has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Father Morrissy's Liniment will bring relief from the effects of rheumatism, while his No. 7 Tablets will get to work on the cause and in due time cure the disease.

Why suffer from this painful and troublesome affliction, when by using the common sense methods originated by Father Morrissy and successfully followed for years, it is possible to aid Nature to restore you to health?

If you are not yourself rheumatic, you doubtless know of some one who is, and who would be glad to learn of a treatment which has such a consistent record of cures. It is easy to take and sure to benefit and ultimately cure rheumatism. 25c a box, at your dealer's, or from Father Morrissy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Quebec.

MUST CUT OFF DRINK

NO ROOM FOR BOOZERS ON HAMILTON FORCE.
Chief Smith Threatens 'Clean-up' of Men Who are Addicted to Fire-water.
Hamilton, March 20.—Chief of Police Smith fired a sensational broadside at the men when they paraded for the weekly drill. "The day of the boozers on this force is over," he said. "We know most of the men now who are in the habit of going up alleys or to side doors for liquor left there for them by hotelmen, and there is going to be a cleaning up. If this force is to amount to anything, drink must be cut out." The chief pointed out that the commission had decided that no man who drinks will be given a place on the force, and told those who were addicted to the habit to take a warning.

SORROW IN NAPANEE
Over the Death of W. A. Bellhouse on Friday.
Napanee, March 20.—Genuine sorrow was expressed when it was learned that W. A. Bellhouse, manager of the Merchants' Bank here, had passed away. Deceased had been ailing for the past two years with cancer of the stomach. He had been manager of the Merchants' Bank here for the past fifteen years and was universally respected. He leaves a wife and two daughters. The funeral took place Saturday morning. The remains left on the 1:17 train for interment at Hamilton. Deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Andrew Ford left this week for Calgary. Mrs. A. E. Battle and son, Gordon, are visiting friends in Montreal. B. H. Preston expects to leave on Monday with a car load of settlers effects for his farm in the west. Frederick Norris left on Monday to take a position in Toronto.

Grant Dickinson has taken a position in the Dominion Bank. The returns are plentiful.

The Retort Courteous.
Chicago News.
Congressman John T. Heard, of Missouri, was one of the most polite and Chesterfieldian gentlemen known in the national house of representatives. On the day that the house passed a bill opening to settlement the Cherokee strip Mr. Heard voted for the bill and then was leaving the capitol when he met with Mrs. Hechmann, who had been diligently lobbying against the bill. She asked: "What was done with the Cherokee strip bill?" "It has just passed the house, madam," said Mr. Heard, holding aloft his hat and bowing low. "It passed by a vote of 142 to 108."

"So there were 142 railroad thieves there?" Mrs. Hechmann hissed spitefully. "And only 108 cattle thieves, by the official count," replied Mr. Heard, as he passed on.

Display of Temper in Corea.
New York Lippincott's.
A strange way of cussing is that of the Korean. His ordinary swear word is "Oenuma!" or "You hute!" The Japanese have the same partiality for this term of endearment. But the Korean considers himself especially abusive when he calls a person his child or grandchild.

When he wants to call somebody down the Korean demands hotly: "Are you not my child?" And the angry retort is: "What! I your child? You are my grandchild!" Then the first goes a step further and cries, "You are a grandchild of my grandchild!" to which the rejoinder is, "You conceited fellow, have you forgotten that you are a grandchild of a grandchild of my grandchild?"

When their vituperation reaches its climax, the people of Corea at last resort to the Occidental standard of exclaiming, "You grandchild of a dog!"

Oriental Advertisements.
Some Japanese advertisements, quoted in the new review, Japan et Belgique, possess a wealth of imagery unknown to the western advertiser. A Tokyo draper announces that "Our goods are sent to customers' houses with the speed of a shot from a rifle." A grocer proclaims his vinegar to be "more bitter than the gall of the most diabolical of mothers-in-law." And a large multiple store displays a poster inscribed, "Why not visit our shops? We can satisfy every possible want of yours. Every one of our assistants is as complaisant and obliging as a father who seeks to dispose of a dowry's daughter. You will be as welcome as a ray of sunshine coming after a day of ceaseless rain."

A Crack in the Plate.
A hungry Northerner entered a restaurant in London and ordered a chop. After considerable delay a remarkably diminutive cutlet was placed before him.

"Aa sav, waiter," said the customer. "Aa thout Aa told ye thit Aa wanted a chop!"

"Well," replied the waiter, "there it is."

"Wey, Aa'll be blisf, so it is!" the Northerner exclaimed. "Aa'm bothered if Aa didn't think it was a crack in the plate!"—Tit-Bits.

Contingency Unexplained.
A Methodist bishop's wife addressed a meeting of shun housewives on their home duties. The address made the home life seem very ideal. One housewife present, however, said the bishop's wife didn't go far enough to help her. Said she:

"She's all right as far as she goes, but what I'd like to ask her is this—What does she do when her old bishop comes home one day with his envelope empty and a fight'n' jag on?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

SERVED TWENTY YEARS.
Man Wrongfully Convicted for Murder of Fellow Workman.
Pittsburg, March 20.—Andrew Toth was released from the penitentiary here Saturday, after serving twenty years for a crime he did not commit. Toth was accused of murdering a fellow-workman at the furnaces and sentenced to prison for life. Recently it was discovered he was half a mile away from the scene of the crime. Governor Tener promptly signed the pardon.

Didn't Recognize Her.
Utica Globe.
"Bill" Snyder, the famous head keeper of the New York Zoo, was describing the twenty-gallon oil baths that he gives his elephants in the autumn, when the harsh winds begin to "chop their hides."

"These oil baths improve the elephants' looks," he said. "The elephants know it, too. They take to those baths; treatments the same as women."

The head keeper chuckled sardonically. "Women, though, go a step too far," he said. "A young man from the lion house told me that, at a ball the other night, he said to his hostess: 'Who is that pretty little blonde eating lobster salad, ma'am?' 'Why, don't you know her,' his hostess cried. 'She's the pretty little brunette you flirted with last week?'"

In Case of Accident.
Husband: "What! You bought an automobile?"
Wife: "Yes, dear, you see, it was a great bargain, and—"

Put An Extra Stomach To Work
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Do The Work of Two or Three Stomachs—Affords Instant Relief.
FREE TRIAL PACKAGE.
When your food does not digest, when gases form, when you experience that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, when the breath is foul, the tongue coated and that sour taste is in the mouth—take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and watch how quickly every one of these symptoms disappear. All that was needed was to digest that lump of food in our stomach, and the glands, whose duty it is to supply the gastric juices, had simply given out from overwork. So when you took that little tablet you were supplying exactly what was necessary to complete the process of digestion that the stomach had begun but was unable to finish.

If you would continue to take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for awhile, your stomach would have a chance to rest up and get well and strong again.

Try just one box and you will never want to be without the wonderful little remedy for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain an ingredient, one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. They are so entirely harmless because they have absolutely no effect on the system one way or another except to do just the one thing—digest food.

40,000 physicians use and recommend this Nat'l and B'n'dy. Every drug store ever where sells and recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The price is 50 cents per box. A sample will be sent free if you will write P. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Getting "Stung."
Boston Herald.
Josephine, aged ten, has a decided bug. She is also very fond of attending the matinees. One day she was giving a spirited story of the play to Warren, aged nine.

"My mamma says it isn't good for little girls to go to the theatre," said Warren, with an air of self-righteousness. "I'm not ever going 'till I'm eighteen."

"Humph," retorted Josephine without any hesitation, "if 'pose you die when you are thirteenth, then you'll be thirteenth!"

Married at Last.
Latimer, March 17.—Some farmers have tapped their apples, but the very cold weather retards the flow of sap. On Wednesday, March 15th, Miss Fannie Arthur, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur, of this place was united in marriage to William A. Taylor, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, of this place, by Rev. C. J. Curtis, Sealey's Bay. Miss Emily Hughson, Kingston Business College, is spending a couple of weeks at her home, Miss May Taylor, Perth Road, is home for a few days.

Exciting Experience With These Deadly Pests.
The driver ants are a terrible pest in West Africa. Crawling over the ground in countless thousands, invincible to anything but a wall of fire, they bring quick death to every live thing unfortunate enough to be caught in their path and leave behind them the skeletons of lizards, rats, sheep, cattle and even human beings. In his book entitled "We Two In West Africa" Major F. G. Guggisberg recounts the terrors of one night when the pests invaded his house:

I heard voices calling, "Get up the ants are on us!" Sitting bolt upright, I found the room apparently in darkness. In reality the lantern on the floor at the foot of the bed was still burning, but as I threw my hand out and felt the heavy weight of the mosquito net I suddenly realized that it was coated with ants so thickly that it kept the light out as effectively as a velvet curtain.

Two bounds took me out of that mosquito net and the but, but it was an uneasy feeling when my feet crunched through the living-carpet of ants. Hitting the side of the doorway in my hasty exit, I brought down a shower of the little pests on my head and shoulders from rafter, wall and roof, and then the fun began.

Some people say that the ant buries his head in you and leaves it there. Others that he drives some other part of his body into you. I don't worry about examining which theory was correct. It did not affect the torture of the result. For the next ten minutes I was standing in a state of nature in the open, the rain beating down and the boys, hastily roused, picking ants off my body by the light of torches.

I was so engrossed in this new sport that I quite forgot about Lees; then I suddenly realized that he was not there. I won a moral V. C. by going into that infernal place and hauling him out. He was a pitiable sight in the torchlight, his hair waving as if in a breeze as the ants crawled through it, his body black with them.

To pick them off was too slow a job. I seized a tin of kerosene oil and poured it over him, sweeping the enemy off in thousands. One of my hammock boys rushed up with a flaming torch, meaning in the kindness of his heart to give master more light. I yelled to him to keep away, and he, thinking he was being urged on, rushed toward us quicker than ever. Luckily Lees' cook stopped him in time, and a tragedy was averted.

We spent the remainder of the night under a tree. In spite of the discomfort of it all—the persistent rain, the mist, the smarting pain of the ant bites—we could not help laughing at the idea of our helplessness against the little brutes that were occupying our comfortable beds. However, the only thing to do was to wait patiently until they cleared out.

KAISERS ROMANTIC WOOING.
Saw Girl in Hammock—Love at First Sight.
The celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of his wedding recalls to German writers the circumstances of Emperor William's wooing. In 1879 when a student at Bonn he was invited by Duke Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein to his pretty castle of Primkenau for grouse shooting. He reached the castle late in the evening, and the next morning went out shooting before being presented to the duke's family.

On returning through the park a few hours later he came across a hammock slung among the trees in which a young girl was reclining. She was half asleep and as he stood admiring her and unconsciously uttered the words, "The sleeping beauty," she awoke. The prince hurried away, off a little later to be formally introduced to the lady of the hammock.

It was a case of mutual admiration at first sight, and the relations between the young people soon ripened into love. Luckily the union met with no political objection from Bismarck, and the betrothal took place in the spring of 1880 in Gotha. The wedding was celebrated on February 27th, 1881, in Berlin.
