

Parisian Sage Stops Itching Scalp Gives Women Glorious Fascinating Hair

Parisian Sage makes dull, lifeless hair really fascinating. This is because it has such an enormous sale in Canada. It puts the radiance of sunshine into women's hair and makes hair grow profusely yet silky and lovely. Dull, faded and lifeless hair exists because the hair root is not properly supplied with nourishment. Parisian Sage penetrates into the hair roots and supply the exact stimulating nourishment that they need. Dandruff and itching scalp are caused by dandruff germs which greedily devour natural nourishment intended for the hair. Parisian Sage removes these germs and restores the hair to its natural beauty.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by J. B. McLeod to stop itching scalp at once, to remove dandruff and stop falling hair, or money back. Sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents a large bottle. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid by the Giroux Mfg. Co., Port Erie, Ont. No one should neglect their hair, for it is one of nature's best gifts.

IN MARINE CIRCLES

VETERAN SLOOP PILOT IN A BAD STATE.

Ice Jam in the Slip Caused Her to Leak—Good Deal of Repair Work Has Been Done to Vessels in Port—Notes From Around the Harbor.

Just when local navigation will open is difficult to say but the different vessels which have been laid up in the harbor all winter have been put into shape for the season's work. All along the water front there is a scene of activity. Most of the repair work has been completed but a good deal is now in progress. The mill spell has made the oil-mechanics very anxious to get their "sealings" on again. The sloop Pilot, which has been laid up in Richardson's slip all winter, sprung a leak yesterday afternoon and it was feared that she would sink. The Pilot is owned by Capt. Mahoney and is known to every marine man who sails out of this port. The sloop has been in active service for some time. Ice jamming against the vessel was responsible for the accident.

Capt. John Gould, of this city, will be in command of the schooner Major Ferry this season. James McIntosh, of South Bay, will be first mate. Capt. Joseph Ashey will be in command of the schooner Maize and he will have as first mate Alfred Eaves. Commodore Mack Shaw will again be in command of the steambarge Sowards this season and will keep the line warm between Kingston, Oswego, Charlotte and Fairhaven carrying coal for Sowards' coal yards. The Sowards is a speedy little vessel and during the course of a season makes a great many trips. The general commodore keeps her on the jump. The only delay is in the loading and unloading.

"Jack" Bongard will be the chief engineer on the steambarge Sowards. Mr. Bongard comes from Smith's Falls and last year he was engaged as an engineer on the steamer Rideau King. The schooner Julia B. Merrill has undergone some repairs during the winter and is now ready for the coal trade. Capt. H. Daryeau will be in command of her this summer. The schooner Bertha Kalkins is looking spic and span in a new coat of paint. Capt. Simmons has had the vessel overhauled and put in shape for the season's work. The Kalkins has been chartered to carry coal for Swift & Co.

The steambarge Jesca has been undergoing extensive repairs and is in good shape for the work of the season. The engineers of the steamers Iona and Halcomb have arrived in the city to fit out the vessel for the season. The schooner Ford River is in good shape for the season. A new boiler is being installed, also a new steam pump and hoist. The vessel now has four hatches. The Ford River is one of the speediest boats in the local fleet and is sailed by the genial Capt. C. Daryeau.

The steamer City of New York cleared from Cobourg, yesterday, for the Galloway Islands, to work on the wreck of the steamer Sharples. Capt. James Norris, of this city, is in charge. The schooner St. Louis, recently purchased by Capt. Matthew Patterson, is at Cobourg and will be brought down to Kingston just as soon as the ice will permit. The schooner Charley Marshall is laid up at Cobourg.

Capt. Bernard Pomatier will sail the schooner Britton this season. The Britton is laid up at Ganouque. The schooner Mary Ann Lydon, which was partially destroyed by fire will not likely be used in the coal trade again. Capt. Patterson sailed her for many years but this season takes the schooner St. Louis. One report says that the Mary Ann is likely to be purchased by the Calvey company, to be used on wrecking duty. Capt. Melville Moon is putting his ice boat in quarters for the summer. He is one of the most enthusiastic ice boatmen in the city. A number of ice boats were out on Tuesday afternoon, March 28th is quite late for ice boating. Capt. James Norris, of this city, will be in command of the steambarge Navajo this season. The Navajo is laid up in Richardson's slip. Navigation opened up on the great lakes on Tuesday, one of the big boats making the trip from Detroit to Cleveland. The schooner Mary Ann Lydon, is the only vessel which was laid up at Portmouth this winter. The boats of the Thousand Islands Steamboat company are being given their annual scrubbing and cleaning in preparation for the season. Capt. James Oliver left, on Tuesday night, for Toronto, to fit out his new schooner, Abbie L. Andrews, in preparation for his first trip to Oswego. Capt. Matthew Patterson left, on Tuesday night, for Cobourg, to fit out his schooner, St. Louis. The continued cold weather is interfering with the marine men in their painting. The crossing is still good but farmers coming across to-day reported that there were a number of air holes.

C.P.R.'s Coronation Booklet. A handsome embossed booklet entitled "The Coronation of George V." prepared by the C.P.R. Steamship Department, has been received by the Whig. It describes in detail the coronation service from the filling of the ampulla with oil, early on the morning of the day of coronation, to the time when their majesties leave for the abbey after the ceremony. A full-page portrait of King George V. and one of Queen Mary are features of this book. A description of the scenery down the St. Lawrence, the history of the places of interest and an outline of how the time is spent aboard ship en route, are also given. A number of scenes of historic England add charm to the book.

Rush of Bicycles. With the first appearance of warm weather those who have bicycles are asking them to repair shops to have them put in shape for the summer. Many send them there early thinking they will get them in before the rush starts. So many do this that the different bicycle dealers are already being asked for orders, almost more than they can handle.

Home-seekers' Excursion. The Grand Trunk railway system is running its first home-seekers' excursion to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on April 14th. ### TO BECOME ACTIVE IN SPORT AS WELL AS BIBLE STUDY.

Sunday School Athletic Association to be Formed—Dinner Held in Y.M.C.A. Parlors Last Evening.

The keen interest and enthusiasm in many sport which was manifested at the dinner given in the Y.M.C.A. parlors, last evening, by the executive of the Sunday School Basketball League, will be productive of more than was expected of it by those who attended. As a result of that banquet a Sunday school athletic association will be formed, which will embrace every kind of clean, manly sport, in which youths of this city and the different Sunday schools are interested. At seven o'clock, about sixty guests including two basketball teams from the Y.W.C.A., sat down to a beautifully laden table, prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary, assisted by young ladies of the various congregations. Rev. A. P. Mershon, of Ethel Congregational church, and president of the basketball league, occupied the chair and defined the meaning of true sport and the way it was applied to the league here. Rev. Thomas W. Neal, of Sydenham Street Methodist church said that he was glad to hear that a Sunday School Athletic Association was being formed. Young men need something to make them think and act quickly and accurately, and if sport will do this, it is the thing to have. He urged the boys to go in and win if they could, but to win by fair means. He would rather see them go down to defeat than win in a way that was not honest. The next speaker, Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, at one time a noted figure in athletic life in Ireland, gave a very forceful and inspiring address, which was interrupted at different periods by rounds of applause. He prefaced his remarks by saying that St. Paul's won by fair means and that was saying quite a lot, for not all sporting teams are squares. He urged the young men to train to win, but if they lost to display true sporting spirit. While he was very much interested in athletics and the physical training of the body, the mind needed cultivating. Young men should cultivate their minds more than they do. The speaker said he had found that in most cases, young men were averse to studying. No young fellow should be satisfied to remain in one position, and he can only advance by applying himself and studying. He told the young men not to look up to those who were wealthier than themselves as being superior. So long as one man's intellect is as keen as another's he is that man's equal. He had heard a great deal of talk about what a great land Canada is, how its many virtues had been extolled, and it has enthused him but that is not what makes us a great country. It is the force of character which we exhibit in our every-day lives. The truest reciprocity comes in when we give back to God in service part of what He has given us. T. F. Harrison said he was glad to find that athletics was finding a place in Sunday school. A good many people thought Sunday schools were organized for the younger generation, but judging the ages of those who were present he would say that was a contradictory statement. It fell to the lot of D. A. Shaw, president of the Sunday School Baseball League, to propose that a Sunday School Athletic Association be formed. He spoke of the success other places were having with sport of this kind and this led him to start the baseball league going. It was not a howling success, but the basketball league had profited by its experiences. H. W. Newman, the donor of the cup, enlarged on the merits of the team, which had won it. Reference was made to the fact that to Stanley Trotter was due the foundation of the league and in a few words Mr. Trotter expressed himself as being pleased with the initial showing which the league had made. Representatives of various teams in the league spoke briefly, and Elmer Davis gave his good wishes and success to the athletic association. Miss Janet McKenzie, responding for the ladies' teams from the Y.W.C.A., said that the ladies needed development as well as the boys. They had material to develop their muscles, but had not room. George Mills also spoke briefly incidentally proposing a toast to "The Ladies." The gathering broke up about ten o'clock by singing the national anthem.
