OXFORD WERE VICTORS. Defeated Cambridge in Rowing Race Putney, England, April 1.—Leading Cambridge from the start, Oxford won the world's greatest annual rowing event, this morning, by three lengths. Cambridge had the advantage of position and weather, but the dark bluffs were slightly heavier, and were favored right along after the start. There was a great crowd of spectators in boats and along the shore. The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert, in cadet uniforms, followed the racers in a motor boat, and were loudly cheered. This is the sixty-eighth annual contest between these colleges.
