STEAMER LAUNCHED
THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE WERE PRESENT

At the Ceremony at the Government Dry Dock—Addresses Were Given by Mayor Graham and W. F. Nickle, M.P.P.
Fully three thousand people of the city and surrounding district made their way to the yards of the Kingston Shipbuilding Company, Tuesday afternoon, to witness the launching of the first boat which the company has turned out since locating in Kingston. A raised platform near the gate was reserved for friends of the members of the company, while the upper story of the commodious building alongside where the launching took place, was used as a lookout.
It had been expected that officials of the company who reside in Collingwood, Barrie and Duluth would be present, but yesterday, W. J. Fair, secretary-treasurer of the company, received a telegram saying that they could not be present, so it was purely a Kingston affair.
The Polana was not completed, the hull and cabins being the only work done. None of the machinery has been installed, as that will be done now that it is in the dock. Union Jacks floated from the bow and stern, while from the first cabin floated a green penant with the initials of the commission, "Government Quarantine Service," painted on it.

A few minutes after three o'clock Capt. E. R. Hale, W. J. Fair and other leading citizens ascended the raised platform at the bow of the boat. Mayor Graham was called upon to say a few words to the people.
The mayor expressed his pleasure at being present at the launching of the first boat which the company had built in Kingston. He remembered the time when Kingston had the largest dry dock in the province of Ontario, and in the great race this city had fallen behind, but with the appearance of this energetic company here, it was sure to go ahead, especially as the people of this district had been assured that the Welland canal would be enlarged. All we need now to make this an important centre of marine activities is marine facilities. He urged every Kingstonian to do everything in his power to further the success of the company.
W. F. Nickle, M.P.P., in a short speech, referred to the times when the canoes of the Indians had dotted the lakes here in their majestic sway. Later, with the coming of the Frenchman, were introduced boats of more modern design. From then on Kingston rapidly became the centre of the boatbuilding industry. With the coming of steel boats, the Limestone city passed to the background. The coming of the steam engine also took the wooden boat building trade away from Kingston. Thanks to Hon. William Hart, Kingston has within its limits one of the finest institutions for the manufacturing of engines in Canada. With the coming of the Kingston Shipbuilding Company, steel boats will be made here in abundance. With the development of the west and the thousands of bushels of grain which are shipped eastward, Kingston must be the outlet for this trade, and with the deepening of the Welland canal the large lake boats will come through here. He congratulated the officers of the company in their endeavor to further the welfare of the city by bringing the works here.
The boat was blocked up on a carriage, all ready to start, and with the loosening of a few cables, the vessel started down the incline. Little Miss Helen Hale smashed the bottle of champagne on the prow, and the boat slid gracefully into the water—sideways. The great quantity of ice in the dock prevented the water from splashing as much as it might have, yet it produced quite a wave. Thus the first steel boat launching which has ever taken place in Kingston, was carried out, and the thousands who congregated to witness the event went home satisfied.

COAL-COMING BY RAIL.

Late Navigation Means Great Deal to Coal Dealers.
"This time last year, we were getting coal by our schooners from across the lake," remarked a local coal dealer, this morning. "The late navigation is interfering with our supply of coal."
The dealer stated that some of the coal men were very short on their supply. Coal is now being shipped into the city by rail, from the other side. The loss of a number of trips will mean quite a good deal to the coal carriers.

Too Good to Keep.

A good joke on a local merchant has just leaked out. He makes it a point never to get "fooled" in any way. Many attempts were made on Saturday to April fool him, but were dead failures. He has a little daughter, ten years of age, who has some of her father's determination, in her make-up, and she planned, not wisely, but too well. After her parents returned from the Sheffield choir concert, they retired about eleven o'clock, charmed but weary. Just as they were dozing off they heard an awful racket in the kitchen. The lady, in the secret, grew very nervous. The merchant made a hasty toilet, and ran downstairs, and turned on the gas in the hall, drawing room and kitchen, looked around, but saw no one. Doors and windows were all secure, so he turned out the lights and went upstairs. Just as he reached the upper hall, he heard a peal of laughter, and a merry voice called out "April fool." After the manner of a man he said to his wife, enjoying the joke immensely: "That was no April fool trick at all." "Yes it was, and a good one on you," said she.

Power for Canada.

Wesley Allison, chief promoter of the New York and Ontario Power Company, of Waddington, N.Y., announces that the contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission of the province of Ontario has been signed whereby the big Waddington corporation is to supply the eastern municipalities with 1,500 horse-power. The towns included are Prescott, Brockville, Lyn, Lansdowne, Napawan, Kingston, Cardinal, Morrisburg and Athens.
Work will be pushed along on the plant as soon as the weather opens up, as the power must be available within a year. The main transmission line will come to Ogdensburg, and from there the current will be transmitted across the St. Lawrence river.

Gave Miscellaneous Shower.

A social gathering was held at the home of John Peters, Victoria street, last evening, by the young people of Princess Street Methodist Church Epworth League, in honor of Miss Alice Gates, who is to be married soon. During the evening, she was given a miscellaneous shower by the young people, consisting of silverware, china and cutware. She was also presented with a half dozen solid silver spoons by Miss Emma Wilder on behalf of the officers of the Sunday school.

Presented With Bouquet.

CASE OF DANIEL GRAEVES VS. D. M. MCINTYRE.

Justice Clut, Rendered Non Suit in Claim Made for Damages for Wrongful Imprisonment—George Will Case Again Up in Court.
At the high court, which opened Tuesday afternoon, before Justice Clut, the only case disposed of was that of Daniel Greaves vs. D. M. McIntyre, solicitor, of this city, and in this his lordship withdrew the case from the magistrate and entered a non-suit.
One non-jury case, that of Albert Cottenden, Toronto, vs. Abbie George, administratrix of the property of the late Joseph George, was commenced, but when adjournment was reached, at seven o'clock, only three witnesses had been heard, and the case was adjourned until the morning.
In the case of Greaves vs. McIntyre the plaintiff made a claim for damages for wrongful imprisonment in connection with Greaves' sentence last year, to a term in jail, for selling liquor in a local option town.
J. B. McKenzie, of Toronto, appeared as counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr. McIntyre conducted his own case.

After evidence had been taken his lordship announced to the members of the jury that he would withdraw the case from them and enter a non-suit. He then went on to explain to the jury why he did so.

His lordship pointed out that the action had been brought by the plaintiff against the defendant, on what was termed a charge of false imprisonment, the plaintiff asking for damages. But what did actually take place in the case? The defendant was acting as counsel for an officer of the government, whose duties were to prosecute for a breach of the liquor license act, and on this occasion it was the second charge of the kind to be made against the plaintiff. In the drawing up of the conviction there had been some mistake made and the claim was made that the accused should not be imprisoned. However, he had been found guilty, and as a matter of fact, a conviction had been made. This conviction still held good. The accused had been taken to the jail and had served three and a half months. The conviction had been signed by the magistrate, and not the defendant. The warrant upon which the accused had been arrested was signed by the magistrate and not the defendant. The defendant only acted as counsel.

Charles Corbett, county jailer, was the first witness called and to Mr. McKenzie told of Greaves having been handed over to his care on March 1st, 1910, and liberated on June 14th, same year. Greaves had been committed for a second offence, of selling liquor without a license. Witness said that Greaves had been released by him on receipt of a telegram from J. K. Cartwright, deputy attorney general.

Robert Smith, county constable, was called and told of arresting Greaves. Police Magistrate Lawson, of Frontenac county, was also called, and gave evidence concerning certain documents in connection with the case.

John Moreland, license inspector for the county, told of the summons having been issued for Mr. Greaves. Mrs. Daniel Greaves and John Smith were also called as witnesses.

Will Case Heard.

The non-jury case of Albert Cottenden vs. Abbie George was taken up afterwards, and three witnesses were heard. In this case the plaintiff is making a claim for the delivery and establishment of the will of the late Joseph George, who died in Kingston. The plaintiff is the illegitimate son of the deceased and he claims he is entitled to the estate, valued at about $40,000. The will has not been found and it is claimed that it has been concealed or destroyed by the defendant or at her connivance.
J. W. Curry, Toronto, and W. H. Sullivan, of this city, are acting for the plaintiff and J. L. Whiting and W. Mundell are counsel for the defendant.

W. H. Sullivan, solicitor, was the first witness called in the case and he told of the late Mr. George coming to him in October of 1906 to have his will drawn out. At that time Mr. George had the will made out so that Albert Cottenden would be an heir. Witness signed the will, as did also G. H. Williamson, as a witness, and Mr. George himself. Witness was informed in April, 1910, that Mr. George had a son, and saw him in Kingston.

G. H. Williamson told of being asked by Mr. George to be a witness to his will. He met Mr. George in the office of Mr. Sullivan during the latter part of October, 1906. Mr. George told the witness the document was his will. Witness signed, also Mr. Sullivan and Mr. George.

Mrs. Cleary, Wolfe Island, niece of the late Mr. George, said she knew the son of the deceased from the time he was born. Mr. George was twice married; the second time in January, 1905. Witness was at the home of deceased at the time the will was to have been read and when it was found missing, and related the incidents which have already been published in the Whig.

The Grand Jury.

The grand jury sworn in is composed of the following: J. E. Anglin, Storrington; Edward Barr, Bedford; Henry Bolton, Kingston; Charles Barr, Storrington; Waddington Chapman, Kingston; Arthur G. Day, Kingston; Eugene C. Dennee, Kingston; Michael M. Fowler, Kingston; Edward Ferris, Kingston; William J. Franklin, Pittsburg township; Edward Whitby, Portland township.
Michael M. Fowler was selected as foreman of the jury.

In his charge to the grand jury his lordship said that he was pleased to be able to inform the members that there were no bills to come before them as there were no prisoners in the jail awaiting trial. Thus their work would be very light, and he trusted they would be able to get through with the work speedily.

His lordship then instructed the jury regarding the inspection of all public institutions which receive a government grant, and afterwards the jury retired.

During the session of the Court naturalization papers were granted to three Kingstonians, who formerly lived in Russia, and who have now taken the necessary oath of allegiance as citizens of this country.
Clerk of the Court George H. Hunter had a rather difficult time getting his tongue around some of the names and a couple of lawyers had to come to his assistance.

Herpicide is Death to Dandruff Germs.
The germ burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle in thin scales, called dandruff, or scurf, and digging at the root of the hair where it saps the hair's vitality. First comes brittle hair, then lusterless and dead-like hair, then falling hair, and, finally baldness. Nine-tenths of the hair troubles are caused by dandruff. Without dandruff, hair will grow luxuriantly, as nature intended. "Herpicide" kills the dandruff germ leaving the hair to grow unhampered, as it does with the American red man.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One dollar bottles guaranteed. James B. McLeod, special agent.
