NO REASON TO STOP

THE EASTER ADJOURNMENT HAS BEEN ANNOUNCED.

Swamp Lands Belong to the Various Provinces—Doing All It Could to Colonize New Ontario—Still Want Information.

Ottawa, April 7.—The House of Commons will adjourn for the Easter recess next Wednesday, and stand adjourned until the following Wednesday, as was the arrangement made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the house, yesterday.

Mr. Monk, Jacques Cartier, asked the minister of marine and fisheries if he had instituted an investigation, at Sorel, in regard to the charges laid against Mr. Lacombe, M.P., for the constituency of P. E. Blonde, of Champlain, and which has been before the privileges and elections committee. Mr. Brodeur replied that he had authorized an investigation which was now in progress.

The question as to whether or not the government intended to cancel the Marley lease, which control all the fishing rights in the Hudson's Bay regions, was again brought up by Glen Campbell, of Dauphin. He wanted to know whether or not the department of marine would grant to any individual the fishing license in these waters, while litigation was proceeding, with a view to have the lease cancelled.

The minister of marine replied that the department had no objections to the giving of anyone a license or allowing their fishing in these waters, because it was pretty well understood that such a lease would be cancelled very shortly.

Mr. Campbell also wanted Hon. Frank Oliver to state if the government intended to add to the proposition they submitted to the Manitoba government relative to the boundary matters, by giving the province six million acres of swamp lands additional.

The minister of the interior replied that the government could hardly do anything in this respect, as the lands all over the Dominion belonged to the respective provinces.

George Gordon, Nipissing, directed the attention of the minister of the interior to a great need for his department to take up the matter of colonization in the country along the line of the Hudson's Bay railway for Northern Ontario. He claimed that a farming purpose, existed in the north country and immigrants should be directed to that section.

Hon. Mr. Oliver said that his department was not discriminating against any one section of the country and were doing all they could to further colonization in New Ontario. Col. Sam Hughes called the attention of Mr. Pugsley to the disgraceful conditions of the grounds around the parliament buildings and also to the stories inside the building, saying that there were no better than those found in a second class hotel.

Mr. Pugsley said that every spring the grounds did not look their best, but those in charge of the cleaning up were getting busy. He thought, the inside of the building was being kept up to the standard.

Mr. Perley, chief whip of the conservative party, once again declared that there had not been sufficient statistics and information laid on the table of the houses in respect to the pending reciprocity agreement. He declared that "the government was keeping such information for themselves and we on this side of the house are told to hunt about for it. The government should give us all the comparative prices of food and living both in Canada, the United States, and the favored nation countries in respect to all the items in the proposed agreement."

He moved a motion to the effect that "in the opinion of the house it is unwise to proceed debating this question without such information in order that we may be better enlightened on the subject and assist us in reaching some logical conclusion."

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied and said it would be impossible for the government to find any further information that would suit the opposition. He warmly supported the agreement and declared that the farmers and producers throughout the whole of Canada would be benefited if it was passed.

MILLIONAIRE LUMBER DEALER.

Man Who Had Told of $100,000 Corruption Fund.

Springfield, Ill., April 7.—Well, we put Lorimer over, but it cost us $100,000 to do it."

Charles Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, on the witness stand before the senate bribery investigation committee placed these words in the mouth of Edward Hines, millionaire president of the Hines Lumber company.

Funk testified voluntarily to save his friend, Herman H. Kohlen, publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, from being sent to jail for refusing to divulge to the committee the name of the man who had told him of the corruption fund.

The most startling moment of the day's session came when Mr. Funk swore that Hines had told him to consider the proposition of paying $10,000 of the money spent to elect Lorimer and that if he decided to make the payment, the money should be sent to Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company.

The name of Cyrus McCormick, president of the International Harvester company, was brought into the case when Mr. Funk told of having discussed with him the story of the conversation with Hines. Funk denied that the Harvester company had paid any money or taken the Hines proposition seriously. He said that Mr. McCormick had sanctioned his refusal to assume a part of the slush fund debt.

On these pithy statements hung the story of the sensation which exploded like a bomb in the state capital.

REPUUDIATE HOME RULE.

Unionists Say It Will Not Help Imperial Cause.

Belfast, April 7.—Presidents of the Unionist Clubs have issued a manifesto to the Dominion premier repudiating home rule. Lord Templedown said many in the overseas dominions were anxious for an imperial parliament. It was alleged they must first be rid of the Irish difficulty by home rule, but the unionists must make it clear to the dominions that this would only make it ten times worse.

Strangles Baby, Then Ends Life.
Whitinsville, Mass., April 7.—Mrs. Flora Brierly Blanchard, wife of Elmer S. Blanchard, one of the officials at the Whitinsville machine works, strangled her infant son and then ended her life by the same method at her home here. The child was eighteen months old. It is believed that Mrs. Blanchard was unbalanced mentally.

NAPANEE LADY DEAD

THE LATE MRS. ARCHIBALD McNEIL.

Sudden Deaths of Thomas V. McGe, Napanee, and G. Marshall Card, of North Fredericksburg.

Napanee, April 7.—Mrs. Archibald McNeil passed away on Wednesday. Although suffering with a severe attack of grippe for over a week, her death was not looked for. Deceased was a resident of Napanee for about thirty years. Her late husband was proprietor of the Campbell house for a number of years. The funeral will take place this morning, at nine o'clock to St. Patrick's church. The remains will be placed in the Roman Catholic vault.

On Sunday last, Thomas V. McGe died after but a short illness. Although for the past few years he was afflicted with rheumatism, his death was quite unexpected. He was thirty-nine years of age. He was the son of a well-known farmer in the township of North Fredericksburg, about four miles from Napanee. Deceased was taken ill about two weeks ago with what at first was thought to be grippe, but when the attending physician called Dr. Garrett, of Kingston, for consultation, the trouble was diagnosed as a tumor on the brain and nothing could be done for his relief. He passed away on Monday last. Deceased was fifty years of age, and leaves a widow and two daughters. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon. The remains were placed in Riverside cemetery vault.

Mr. W. Anderson, of Seattle, Wash., is visiting in Napanee, after an absence of three years.

On Wednesday afternoon the Literary Society of the Napanee Collegiate Institute held an oratorical contest in the assembly hall. There were five contestants, H. Conway, B. Wilson, R. Williams, A. Cowan, and P. Nesbit. The speaking was excellent for students and the subjects were handled admirably and called forth much praise from the judges. R. Conway was awarded the prize. The judges were F. W. Brown, C. M. Warner, and P. L. Hill. A short programme of songs and choruses was also rendered.

A carload of horses passed through Napanee, Thursday, for Deseronto, for the construction of the Canadian Northern Toronto-Ottawa line.

Mr. Charles Wetz, of Cobalt, is visiting his mother, Mrs. H. Davy, Centre street. Mrs. T. J. Glover returned this week, from Haileybury, where she spent the past month in the guest of her sister, Mrs. Duncan Thompson. Her little niece, Janetta Thompson, accompanied her home.

CANADA MAY RETIRE

FROM THE ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY.

If It Defines, Leaving the Treaty Still in Force With the Rest of the Empire—A Precedent Set.

London, April 7.—The Anglo-Japanese treaty, marks a new departure in the treaty position of Canada and the Empire.

Under the existing treaties with other countries, Canada can only be relieved from the most-favored-nation obligations by the denunciation of the whole treaties by the imperial government, and this would, in the opinion of the British government, mean a great breach of the commercial relations of the United Kingdom, and the whole empire, with the foreign nations concerned.

In order to provide a partial escape from this dilemma, the British government has now set an important precedent in its trade treaties by arranging with Japan that Canada may withdraw separately from the treaty upon one year's notice, leaving the treaty still in force with the rest of the empire.

Sir Edward Grey's announcement in the House of Commons, indicates that the British government is at last proposing to take up with the United States government the difference of interpretation of the most-favored-nation treatment, which the Canadian-American reciprocal proposals have brought into prominence.

It has created much prejudice here against the free trade methods that Britain should have no means, by negotiating a tariff or otherwise, of inducing the United States to give the United Kingdom equally good tariff treatment as is now to be given to Canada.

Many authorities here contend that this differentiation between the different parts of the empire by a foreign country must, unless checked, ultimately lead to the break-up of the whole imperial system.

MAY RESCIND

Old Privilege Enjoyed by Dublin.

THE DISLOYAL CITY

SUBJECT OF DEBATE IN COMMONS.

Its Corporation Refuses to Present Address to King George—A Resolution to Rescind an Ancient Privilege.

London, April 7.—The refusal of the corporation of the city of Dublin to present a loyal address to King George during his visit to Ireland next month, may result in depriving that corporation of a privilege granted to it in 1813, to present petitions at the bar of the House of Commons.

The question was brought up in the House of Commons, yesterday, by the announcement that the corporation was about to exercise its ancient privilege. Capt. James Craig, unionist member for East Dublin, Ireland, asked, in order that the house might mark its sense of indignation at the action of the Dublin authorities, whether it might prevent the appearance of the corporation's representatives at the bar of the house.

The speaker ruled that any such action must be governed by a resolution of the house. Capt. Craig, thereupon gave notice that he would move a resolution at the earliest opportunity "to rescind the privilege granted to a disloyal corporation."

In answer to the question as to whether Father Minahan will admit Mr. Stauffer to be as much a clergyman as the Father-in-law, the Register states: "No, certainly not. Did the Catholic church recognize any other church as her equal, from that moment she forfeited the right to be the true church of God. The Catholic church, being the true church, cannot recognize any other, admit any other, or permit any other to think that she admits even the faintest sort of equality."
