ON CHURCH UNION

SECOND ARTICLE BY REV. DR.
MILLIGAN,

In Which the Well-known Toronto Preacher Further States His Reasons For Favoring It.

Rev. G. M. Milligan, D.D., Toronto.

A readiness to adopt organic changes in religious enterprise exhibits a state of mind alive to the true function and end of church organization. What is effective in one stage or age may not be so in another in securing the ultimate fruit, which every organization, whatever its form may be, should seek.

In doing so attention should be given to distinguishing pearl from shell. Too often has religious organizations been identified as essential, with the result that men have rested as much on the means of grace as on grace itself. All kinds of religious means must pass away. Faith, hope and love alone will remain, and the greatest of these is love. Let the evanescent, the organic among us have only its instrumental place, lest we lose sight of supreme interests by unwisely magnifying the secondary interests whose paths lead no farther than the grave, and lest we spend our strength in teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

Unity must be sought in what is centrally essential. Surely this consists in making the organic principle of the National Church Christ and Him crucified. Around Christ's table surely all denominations of Christians can find a place of communion with Him and with each other. In other matters not essential to salvation, such as baptism by sprinkling or immersion, what other attitude in relation to them can be more reasonable than liberty? In the organic principle, Christ and Him crucified, all doctrinal problems ought to find an adequate solution and expression.

All social asperities now of a dividing nature will be removed in homes and friendships when liberty in non-essentials secures specific vindication.
The grace of adoption into the family of God will then take a part in the unification of Christians it never did before its inherent preciousness was experimentally realized. In varied types of Christian character it will be seen it makes one man, so making peace like a river of rare plenitude in good-will and undivided service.

We have considered the danger to essential truth incurred by attributing a supreme value to any organization we may employ for its propagation.

In the present movement for union one is accosted sometimes with the inquiry, "Are you to join the Methodists?" The reply is, we are neither to join the Methodists, nor they us. The movement for union means that the various parties in it are seeking to find a truer centre of organization than either possesses at present, consisting of what is the most essential truth in the Christian faith.

The present movement in church union may be regarded as the first step. The consummation will find as its issue a great National Church, the church of Christ in Canada. Men are entering this union now in denominational groups. Other such groups, it is hoped, may hereafter become incorporated with these. Many individuals may follow in the same direction when once they perceive they can spend their lives in more effective ways for Christ than than otherwise.

The advantage of the organization here indicated will in many ways benefit those comprising it. They will understand with a clearness only experience can bring that with a right centre of organization things seemingly contradictory admit of easy solution. It will then be seen that there can, without any compromise of principle in the same organization, be a season for immersion and sprinkling in the matter of baptism. What should hinder Arminian and Calvinist from organizing around Christ and Him qualified, agreeing for all practical purposes that the elect are those who will be saved, and the non-elect are those who will not?

Then we shall have unity in essentials, liberty in non-essentials, and in all things charity. Ten years hence we shall have a Canada different from what we have to-day. Needless delay must not be indulged in. This does not mean that the proposed basis of union is not to receive due scrutiny and amendment.

But this is far from deferring the consideration of union indefinitely by offering federal instead of organic union. In view, indeed, of the large and difficult problems before Christians in Canada in the missionary interests claiming their best, endeavors within their own borders, the proposition of federal co-operation appears puerile. Indeed, as the home mission committee of the Presbyterian church showed the other day, we have already all that federalism can do for us.
Canada's needs at the present hour place us under the most solemn obligation to do what our hands find to do with all our might, and with the least possible delay, saluting no man by the way with empty compliments, for the King's business requires haste.

Canadian life, social, educational and otherwise, is undergoing unification. No factor can duly elevate and sustain this complex life as can religion operating under the organic principle which has been delineated. Let us lend to our accomplishment our best thought and richest experience with all the promptness that the vocation of the Church of Christ demands.

Imitation Cough Cures

Is an Imitation Cough Medicine Good Enough for Your Children?

When you are sick and send for the doctor you don't want him to send a young medical student, he has in his office. You would rather have the young fellow experiment on somebody else.

No more do you want imitations of the medicine you know to be of proven value in the cure of disease.

The remarkable success of Dr.
Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the cure of croup, bronchitis and colds has proven too great a temptation to imitators. They expect you to take chances with their medicines because the price is a few cents less.

Imitations are never sold on merit, but depend on the merit of the article they imitate. You don't want to be experimented on, and for this reason will insist on seeing the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the bottle you buy.

As it is, it is made of simple ingredients of proven value, it is well suited for as a treatment for children. That it is effective in the cure of croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and the most severe coughs and colds is attestated by its many years of continued success and enormous sales. 25c., all Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Comany medicine to compare with it. I it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford

Harvey Bank, N. B.—I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me. —Mrs. DEVERE RABOUR.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound many cases of female ill, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

A HOME FOR GIRLS

MONTRÉAL TO CARE FOR WAGE-EARNING WOMEN.

Half Million Hotel Planned—To be Unique and Noiseless Structure—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's Suggestion.

Montreal, April 11.—In this great city of Montreal there is an ever-increasing army of wage-earning women.
These girls and women are employed in schools, offices, shops, private homes, and other places, too numerous to mention. They pour in to our city from the country districts of Canada, from the smaller towns and villages. They come across the ocean from the motherland, and, in small numbers, from the south. Here they gather to work and to live. They have to work, and they live as best they can.

Further than accepting freely of their work, Montreal has, thus far, done little for this class of her population. And Montreal is just beginning to realize that she is in debt.
Shortly before Sir Thomas Shaughnessy went abroad a few gentlemen, most of them in the ever-expans-ing millionaire class, sat in the smoking room of the Mount Royal Club. The question of society's duty to the working girl arose. The president of the Canadian Pacific jumped to his feet, paced the room a couple of times and thus expresses himself:

"The young men of our day have everything. They have club houses, they have well stocked reading rooms, they have comfortable and convenient meeting places. Our young women bear the bustle and roar of business about their ears nine hours a day for six days a week. The rest of the time they spend in the back hall bed room of a boarding house, thinking about it. The more pleasant and quiet you can make your employees' surroundings the more cheerful work you can get out of them. We consider money well spent on the C.P.R. if we can eliminate noise thereby. The other day I had several noiseless typewriters installed. Some of the girls objected because the touch did not suit them. Some genius invented an attachment to any standard machine a stenographer happened to be accustomed to. It cost us money and it cost the typewriter people money to make the change, but the change took a useless click out of life. If a man would invent an attachment that would make a train noiseless I would have it if it cost a fortune. It's the bumps and clicks of the day's work that make us wary."

It was this little speech, spoken on the spur of the moment, which sowed the seed for larger things. A real home for working women was suggested—one embodying all that dear word really means. Those same millionaires got their heads together, and architect and a contractor were summoned, plans and specifications were called for, inquiries were made as to how other cities coped with the problem, and the ball was set rolling.
Montreal is to have a half million dollar hotel exclusively for women. It will be an Adanless Eden.

He was born in the city of Stratford and received his early education in the public schools and the Collegiate Institute of that city, taking his matriculation to the Toronto University at the early age of fifteen years. It is stated on the best of authority that he was the youngest graduate who ever left the Varsity halls. He secured his bachelor of arts certificate in 1895, being only eighteen years of age at the time. In the following year, 1896, he took the master of arts course.

The year after his college course closed was spent in journalistic work in the Stratford Beacon. This was followed by two years spent as a teacher in Regiopolis College, Kingston, as a master in classics. He received his appointment while at the college to teach in the schools of Chicago.

Chicago had been struggling for many years with the education and the Americanization of its foreign population, and decided to use night schools as an experiment, and the young Canadian teacher was taken from the regular teaching staff and made supervisor of the Chicago night schools. He organized them to a very high state of efficiency, and these schools now have a mighty attendance of 25,000 pupils.

This position brought him to the headquarters staff and four years ago he was appointed assistant superintendent of the whole Chicago school system.
A year ago a new position was made by the Chicago Education Commission, that of secretary to the superintendent, and that fell to the lot of Mr. Megan.

Besides, during the last year he has been admitted to the bar as a qualifying barrister in the state of Illinois.
The Education Commission in Chicago is not an elective body, but three members are appointed each year for a term of three years by the mayor.

Although a very young student at the time, Mr. Megan attended Toronto to University, he is said to have been one of the "Scrapers of '95," and, along with the late James Tucker and Hamar Greenwood, M.P., to have been instrumental in having the royal commission appointed that investigated the administration of the university subsequent to the dismissal of Prof.
Dale.
