How to Tell if Your Hair is Diseased.

Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair, you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. Ninety-eight per cent. of the people need a hair tonic. Pull a hair out of your head, if the bulb at the end of the root is white and shrunken it proves that the hair is diseased and requires prompt treatment if its loss would be avoided. If the bulb is pink and full the hair is healthy. We want everyone whose hair requires treatment to try Rexall's "93" Hair Tonic. We promise that it shall not cost anything if it does not give satisfactory results. It is designed to overcome dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, to stimulate the hair roots, tighten the hair already in the head, grow hair and cure baldness. It is because of what Rexall's "93" Hair Tonic has done and our sincere faith in its goodness that we want you to try it at our risk. Two sizes, 50c. and $1. Sold only at our stores. G. W. Mahood.

IS AN INSULT

To Say Loyalty Would Be Affected

OVER RECIPROCIITY

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY COUNTY LIBERALS.

Hon. A. G. MacKay Delivered Eloquent Address on Reciprocity Question—Addresses Also Given by Dr. Currie, M.P., Picton, and J. McD. Mowat.

"That as both political parties in Canada have been seeking reciprocity with the United States for the last half century, and whereas the United States, through President Taft, recently negotiated with Messrs. Fielding and Paterson, such a measure of reciprocity as we desired, it is, therefore, the opinion of this meeting of the electors of Frontenac county, that the proposed agreement would greatly increase the prosperity of our farming, lumbering, mining, fishing and many other industries and thereby increase the prosperity of the whole Dominion, as the prosperity of any country depends entirely upon the prosperity of the producers, and we are also of the opinion that it is an insult to us as British subjects, to insinuate that our loyalty might be affected by the proposed agreement." The above resolution was passed, by a unanimous vote, at a meeting held in the court house, on Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the County of Frontenac Liberal Association. The resolution was moved by R. J. Vair and seconded by D. D. Rogers.

The meeting was addressed by Hon. A. G. MacKay, K.C., leader of the opposition in the provincial legislature; Dr. Currie, M.P. for Prince Edward county, and J. McD. Mowat, Mr. MacKay dwelt on the reciprocity question for an hour and a half, and made an eloquent speech.

The president of the County of Frontenac Liberal Association, A. E. Webber, occupied the chair. In opening the meeting, Mr. Webber stated that the question of reciprocity was one which should never have been made a party question. It was a question as to whether reciprocity would be in the best interests of the country.

Dr. Currie was first called upon, by the chairman, and said he agreed with the chairman, that the question should not be made a party one. In a few words, the speaker pointed out that the attendance would have been much more larger if the ice had been out of the harbor. The steamer was coming across, and at last accounts had made about half of the way. This was the same way with the opposition at the time, they were about half way in the ice, with public opinion. The question was one which should be considered from the standpoint of the good of the country for all parties.

The speaker then went into the question of the markets. The American market had always been regarded as a good one, but since the question of reciprocity had been taken up there was a difference of opinion. He quoted figures to show that the average American market price for poultry, butter, and stock, were higher across the line than in Canada. The speaker noted his figures from reports.

All these facts, he pointed out, should be the means of convincing the people that reciprocity was good for the people. Aside from the argument about the prices, there were some general things which appealed from a common sense standpoint. The speaker was puzzled to know where the member for Frontenac secured his mandate to oppose the reciprocity.

Another point touched upon by the speaker was the higher price paid in the United States for farm lands. In the United States farm lands brought fifty per cent. more than in Canada. J. McD. Mowat spoke briefly, referring to the objection made to reciprocity by the fruit and vegetable men, and the objection taken by Senator Hale, in the American senate, one of the largest fruit growers in the United States. Owing to the climate, the Canadian fruit was of far better quality than that of the United States. Early fruit from the United States was taken because the Canadian fruit could not be secured, but as soon as Canadian fruit could be secured, the American fruit stood no show. It was not a question of price, but of quality. Therefore, instead of being an injury, the reciprocity agreement, which the government offered to the fruit and vegetable men, would be practically giving them a new market.

Hon. Mr. MacKay was introduced to the meeting by Mr. Mowat, and he was given an enthusiastic reception. In his opening remarks, Mr. MacKay stated that he did not come to Kingston as the leader of the opposition, but as a public man, to discuss a question which was vital interest to the people. This was his first appearance before a Kingston audience, and he was very glad to have the opportunity of addressing the men of this city and county. In a humorous way, he referred to the trip of the steamer across from Wolfe Island, with some of those on board who started out for the meeting. The boat had been reported to have become fast in the ice. Those on board would not know whether they were coming or going. The member for Frontenac county was just in the same position as regards the reciprocity question. (Laughter.)

The former speaker had given a

Some might consider them very dry, but in this question they were very dry. They pointed out facts.

Hon. Mr. MacKay then went into the stand taken by both parties, on the reciprocity question. He declared that the present agreement was part and parcel of the policy of the late Sir John A. Macdonald. Reference was made to the addresses Sir John made in which he advocated such a policy. He was a larger man than a great many men of today, and could see that such an agreement would be for the benefit of the masses. Reference was made to the speech made in Norfolk, by Sir John, in 1877, when he said that he was in favor of reciprocity or free trade, when it could be obtained. The exact words placed in the records, were read to the audience, amidst loud applause. Then the resolution passed, adopting a policy of protection for the manufacturer, which was meant to eventually lead to reciprocity, was referred to, by the speaker.

In the year 1879, an offer had been made to the United States, and from that day to this there had been a binding offer, and there was very little difference between the schedule of that date and the one of to-day.

Speeches of Sir John Macdonald, in which he advocated trade on equal terms, were referred to. These expressions had been given openly. When all these facts were considered, the speaker held that no conservative was leaving his party, when he voted for such a policy. The men who were opposing the agreement. This was amply shown by history. The men who were considering the best interests of the Dominion of Canada were the men who were supporting the reciprocity agreement, men who were opposing it were not looking after the best interests of the Dominion.

When the British preference had been brought down, in 1897, Sir Charles Tupper had voiced great fear. It was claimed that the tariff walls had been broken down, and that industries would be driven to the wall. This same tariff was the one which was now in existence. And in face of it, what had the opposition to say? They were saying to leave well enough alone. And before they were saying that such a policy would ruin everything now working all right, and that conditions should not be altered. One had only to look up history to find this interesting information.

Some in the opposition would say "Yes, both parties favored it years ago, but things have changed now, and we should not have anything to do with it." It had also been alleged that Sir Wilfrid Laurier made the statement that he would have nothing more to do with the Americans, as regards trade relations. This was false. At the time this statement was credited to the prime minister, an effort had been made to secure a trade agreement with the United States. What Sir Wilfrid did say at this time was, that Canada would make no more pilgrimages to Washington, as it appeared to him that there was no sign of the states meeting Canada along these lines.

"But this time," added the speaker, "Washington came to Ottawa. All negotiations were made there." (Loud applause.) The speaker then followed up public opinion on the question. One danger, cry which was being raised against reciprocity was that the agreement had been made in secret, and that the Canadian ministers had acted as beggars in the relations. It was not right that it should have been other than secret. All such important matters should be secret. It was a secret until the ministers made the announcement in the house, and the documents were tabled.

For instance, what would happen, if it was proposed to place an extra duty of $1 per ton on coal, and the secret was given out? Some would purchase all the coal they could, before the extra duty was levied. The statement had also been made, that certain public men had favored reciprocity years ago, but were now opposed to it.

Hon. George Foster was quoted as saying that if a secure channel for trade could be made between the two countries, his party would be glad to support it. This statement had been made in December, 1910, before the present agreement was brought down. An easy channel was made for these trade relations in the present agreement. The cry had also been raised that the Americans were of an inferior race, and that they would not stand by an agreement which they made.

Every conservative, in favor of reciprocity, would be but voicing the policy of both leaders, down to the present time. There was no better way for a conservative to honor his late chief, than by supporting reciprocity. In so doing they would be making good the word their chief had given to the people, and would be helping to carry out a promise he had made to the people.

Another objection taken to the question, was that it should first go to the people. If such action had to be taken on questions, there would be about fifteen elections every year. There had been no mandate for the GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"At Cripple Creek" Will be Produced This Evening.

"At Cripple Creek," which will again be presented at the Grand tonight, is not only strong in situation and scenic effects but has a well-balanced company of clever artists in the cast, so good, in fact, that they make the strong scenes stand out in bold relief and compel enthusiasm. The scene is laid in Cripple Creek, with talk of gold mines, revolvers, men clad in buckskin and other paraphernalia of like sort, romance is not wanting. There is a thrill in the play and enough singing and comedy features to keep the entertainment from becoming wearisome. Good-sized crowds saw the play on Friday afternoon and evening.

Margaret Anglin. "Green Stockings," the new comedy by A. E. W. Mason and George Fleming, will introduce Margaret Anglin, under the direction of Messrs. Liebler & Co., in a role very dissimilar to those with which she has been associated in the past few years. "Green Stockings" will be produced here at the Grand on Wednesday, April 19th. Admirers of the best on the stage cannot fail to congratulate themselves upon the accomplishment of Miss Anglin's new departure. This Canadian actress has been so thoroughly identified with and successful in tearful, tragic and emotional roles, that her undertaking of lighter work has caused something of a sensation and there will doubtless be much curiosity. That she will handle the character she is to assume with deftness, delicacy and an artistic touch, goes without saying, but the interest set afoot arises mainly from natural desire to see how easily she will divest herself from the trappings of stage-woe that have been hers for so long. The basic idea of the comedy is founded on the well-known and ancient custom in Ireland, compelling unmarried daughters to wear green stockings at their sisters' weddings.

To Miss Anglin the authors have conferred the task of emancipating herself from the penalty after three experiences of donning the stockings. He scenes of "Green Stockings" are laid in England but the Irish legend as so well-known internationally, that he action might be laid in America just as well.

Mayor Gaynor Bought Knife. New York, April 13.—As Mayor Gaynor was crossing City Hall park yesterday he chanced to notice a stick stuck in the sidewalk. It was a stick of wood with what had once been a knife. "What are you doing, sonny," the mayor asked. "Just whittling," responded the boy, looking up at his questioner, whom he did not recognize. "Come along with me and we'll get a real knife," said the mayor, taking the boy's hand in his own. Together they visited a sporting goods store nearby, and there purchased for the boy a jack knife with a variety of well-tempered blades. "Go along now, sonny," said the mayor, with a smile, and "sonny" skipped, without learning who had bought him the knife.

WHERE IS DUTHIE? Mysterious Disappearance of a Bank Manager. Gaelph, April 13.—There is still no clue as to the whereabouts of Walter Duthie, manager of the Union bank at Hillburgh, who has been mysteriously missing for ten days. This morning his brother, with detectives, examined his personal belongings and found nothing to indicate a reason for departure. There was some excitement among the depositors this morning when it became known Duthie was gone but they were reassured that everything in the bank was all right.

Disease of the Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me. I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 453 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes: "Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease. It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs. The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, an other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work. Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed. However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body. In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the disease and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits. The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing. Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes: "I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."
