Ducks are plentiful.

Ducks are reported to have been seen in large numbers down the St. Lawrence river. They are now in their way north, after spending the winter in the south. They prove a great temptation to hunters, as they are so thick that one could shoot among them and be sure of getting some. It is contrary to law, however, to shoot them in the spring.

HE WAS MAROONED

WITH HIS DEAD MOTHER ON AN ISLAND.

Was Unable to Get Assistance and Saw His Mother Pass Away—He Could Not Secure Medical Help.

Utica, N.Y., 24.—Marooned on a Lake Ontario island, where they lived, seven miles from the mainland, and unable to get assistance because of heavy seas and ice in which no boat could live, Nelson Luff saw his mother die seven weeks ago, unable to bring to her the medical aid that would have saved her life. Although her death occurred seven weeks ago, the facts of the case have only now reached here.
Following his mother's death, no undertaker being available, the son constructed a coffin from boards he could find about the place. Placing his mother's remains in the rough box and following her hands, he pulled on the lid hurried the coffin in a snow bank to await the coming of spring. No more harrowing tale has come from the islands of Lake Ontario, the inhabitants of which are often for weeks without mail or other communication from the mainland.

THE HORSE WAS DROWNED

An Exciting Runaway at Barriefield Monday Noon.

An exciting runaway occurred at Barriefield at noon on Monday. The delivery horse of W. A. Bowen ran away from the Country Club building, and dashed across the old military common towards Cataron bridge. Some officers displayed great presence of mind, by keeping the maddened animal from getting on the bridge, on which were some women and children. They forced the animal to the slip between the military college shore and the structure. The horse took the water, and then tried to turn round, but in doing so became entangled in the harness, sank and was drowned.

MAKING FOUNTAIN PENS.

Adapted Pens to Writing Requirements of All Nations.

On the extreme point of the best gold pens used in fountain pens there is a tip of iridium. This is the hardest metal known and is very expensive, costing something like $1,500 per pound. The best iridium is mined in the Ural mountains of Russia.
The ingenious American manufacturers have adapted their fountain pens to writing requirements of all people. For instance, in Russia the method of writing is from right to left, a circumstance that calls for a certain style of pen point. This is satisfactorily supplied by the American pens, inasmuch as the gold points are made by expert craftsmen.

During the eighty careful operations through which a gold pen passes it is quite possible to furnish the pen with any particular style of point that may be required for any writing.—Harper's Weekly.

SUFFRAGETTES PECULIAR.

Foolish Ruses Adopted to Disobey the Law.

One ruse adopted by a number of London suffragettes to escape the census men was to hire three furniture vans, in which they spent the night at Putney Heath. The vans were furnished with tables, beds and other necessaries. After they had eaten a comfortable supper, the occupants prepared to retire for the night, when the police arrived and attempted to secure the census particulars, but were met with a refusal.

They were told that the ladies had gone to bed, and, therefore, returned at daybreak. They had no better success, however, and this afternoon the three vans decorated with the suffragette colors and motages, and still loaded with the women, paraded through the west end. They were followed by a number of census officers, who are all ready to pounce upon them whenever they alight.

Prize Fight in Arctic.

Hon. Frank Oliver, according to a writer in Maclean's Magazine for April, tells a very amusing incident of his trip, illustrating the oneness of ideas which will take possession of a man. It seems that he was to meet a party of gentlemen from Dawson, whom he had never met before, and to whom the minister wished to show particular attention. They were travelling about six weeks in order to come up with Mr. Oliver and during that time had no communication with the world at large.

"I was anxious," said Mr. Oliver, frankly, "to find out what topics interested them particularly—relations with Japan, the Canadian navy, trusts—or what? It did not take me long to discover it—the one idea. They had thought of, talked of nothing else; they wanted to think of, to talk of, nothing else. . . . Almost the first words spoken by the Dawson party were—
"Tell us—Who won the Jeffries-Johnson fight?"

A Pittsburg Wedding.

A pretty wedding took place Monday morning at the Church of the Holy Name, Cushehdall, when Miss Mae Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, of the Isle of Man, and Daniel Ahearn, son of William Ahearn, Cushehdall, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at ten o'clock, by Rev. Father Wilfrid Kingsley. The young couple will reside at Cushehdall.

Just as Good.

The rector of a church in Aberdeenshire was greatly pleased by the knowledge of his catechism displayed by a bright urchin. After a series of questions on religious knowledge, all of which were satisfactorily answered, the clergyman next asked: "And now, my little friend, have you ever read the thirty-nine articles?" "No, sir," replied the youngster, anxious to display his knowledge, "but I've read the 'Fifty' 'tweves."

DEAN DUPUIS RESIGNS

WILL RETIRE FROM DUTY IN QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.

Has Been a Member of Teaching Staff for Forty-five Years—Was Seventy-five Years of Age on April 13th.

Prof. Nathan F. Dupuis, dean of the faculty of practical sciences, Queen's University, has resigned after a service of forty-five years. Dean Dupuis was seventy-five years of age on April 13th, and after a life of hard work, he feels the need of rest. During his career he did as much work as two men would ordinarily do. Several years ago he desired to retire from his duties, but was pressed to remain in harness and help direct the affairs of the old university for a further period. Now, however, he feels that his work is done, and that he must have the rest he sought long ago.

Dean Dupuis was born in Portland township in 1836. His father, after the war of 1812, came from Quebec province and settled in Frontenac. His mother was the daughter of a United Empire Loyalist of Nova Scotia. Dean Dupuis graduated as B.A. at Queen's in 1856, and ever since has been a member of the faculty of the staff. He won his M.A. degree in 1858. He first held chair of chemistry and natural science and since that of mathematics. He long ago earned the highest distinction as a mathematician, both in his professional capacity and as an author. His text books have for years been used in universities. Some years ago, his old students honored him by presenting to the university a fine oil portrait of their distinguished teacher. Dean Dupuis' resignation will take effect on September 1st next.

WORKING WITH GOLD.

Factories in Which Dark Colored Clothes Must be Worn.

Light suits of clothes are not favored in factories where work is done on gold. In fact, in many such factories a dark suit of clothes is absolutely required, and even a light waistcoat may lose a man a job. The reason for this is that any stray grains of gold that may get on the clothing can easily be caught on a dark suit, while they might get away from the establishment if light clothes were worn.

That such a rule was enforced among gold workers, one man learned recently when a Bohemian gold beater applied to him for a helping hand. The Bohemian said that he had only recently come to this country, that he had had a chance to obtain a gold job at his trade, but that the place had been refused him because he turned up with a light coat and waistcoat on, and they were the only clothes he had.

The man whom he approached was struck by the story and offered to help him out if it proved true. He went to a downtown factory with him and found out that the man could have the job if he presented himself within an hour with the proper clothes on. Two dollars enabled the man to rig himself out in the dark coat and waistcoat to go with his dark trousers, and, sure enough, he got the job. "You may think this strange," said the man at the factory, "but it means quite a little to us. Every man's clothing is carefully examined when he leaves here at night and the gold brushed-off whenever we see any on his clothing."

It is impossible to hide even tiny grains on a dark background, but take a mixed or a light suit and we might easily lose quite an amount of gold, and gold isn't anything you want to lose even in small quantities.—New York Sun.

GETTING TIRED.

Fatigue That Follows Monotony of Work or Exercise.

It is said that for horse the hardest road out of London is the most level one. There are no hills to climb and descend, and the tired horse has no chance to rest one set of muscles while another works. Monotony produces fatigue, and because the particular road is one level, monotonous level more horses die on it than on any other leading out of London.

We can even take a charitable view of the time taken daily by the typewriter girl for the arrangement of her hair. Her fingers are congested by the work of writing and by contact with the hard keys of her machine, and the different feeling of her hair and the little plays and movements of her fingers in adjusting it are a distinct stimulation and relief.

Fatigue following long continued exercise is really a mild form of illness which arises from over-exerting some one part of the body. In writing, for instance, the fingers move up and down hardly more than a quarter of an inch as they travel across the page. Yet this is hard work for their little muscles and nerves, up tissue in the fingers very fast. If rest intervals are too short and infrequent, there is not time for the removal of the waste products of this destruction through the normal channels of the body and congestion results. The feeling of fatigue or pain that follows long continued use of any of the muscles is due to the influence of such poisonous material, as well as to the stretching of the tissues caused by the pressure of the blood which settles there.—Paul W. Goldsberry, in Atlantic.

Pittserry Budget.

Pittserry, April 22.—Some people in this vicinity have already started and have several bushels of grain sown, and report the ground to work well. Large numbers attended the Easter service in St. Lawrence Methodist church. Recitations were given by the children, while the choir rendered some fine choruses. Then an address was given by the pastor, Mr. Lloyd. The Easter tea and concert held in St. John's Presbyterian church was fairly well attended. Great credit is due to Ladies' Aid. The programme was furnished by Kingston Princess street Methodist church mixed quartette. Miss Edna VanWinkle, Toronto, has returned home after spending her vacation, the guest of Miss Jennie McClement. Mrs. David Thompson, Deseronto, made a flying visit through here renewing old acquaintances. Mrs. D. Clement, sr., has returned home after spending a week in Belleville with her brother.
