A LARGE CORTEGE

FOLLOWED REMAINS OF LATE R. V. ROGERS, K.C.

Service in St. James' Church—Legal and Religious Bodies in Attendance—The Floral Tributes.

The remains of the late Robert V. Rogers, K.C., L.L.D., were conveyed to their resting place in Catarauqui cemetery, on Thursday afternoon. The body was conveyed from the house to St. James' church, at one o'clock and from then till 2:30 o'clock, the hour the service started, a large number viewed the remains of a man who was much loved by the people of this city. The service was conducted by the Bishop of Ontario, assisted by the vicar of St. James' church, Rev. T. W. Savary, M.A.

The pews at the front of the church were reserved for the Ontario Synod, advisory board of the mourners, the clergy and members of St. James' church and the Kingston bar. The pallbearers were: Judge McDonald, of Brockville; J. B. Walkem, K.C.; Frederick Welch, Prof. G. D. Ferguson, Francis King and Lieut. Col. Sydenham McGill. The chief mourners were: Walter H. Macnee, J. H. Macnee, Francis Hill Macnee, Rev. Prof. D. Ross and W. F. Nickle, M.P. The committal service was read by Rev. T. W. Savary. Samuel Reid was the funeral director. Floral contributions were received from the following:

DEATH FORMER KINGSTONIAN.

Michael Nugent Passed Away at Batavia, N.Y.
The death occurred at Batavia, N.Y., on April 25th, of Michael Nugent, a former Kingstonian, at the age of sixty-five years. For a great many years, deceased was an engineer on the New York Central. In December last, shortly after being retired and pensioned by the company, he suffered from a ruptured blood vessel in his head. He afterwards suffered a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Nugent was born in Ireland, came over to Canada, with his parents, when an infant, and settled in Kingston and went to Batavia and began work for the New York Central as a fireman. For forty years, he had been an engineer on the road. He is survived by his wife (nee Miss Gardiner), formerly of Kingston.

Because of long service on the New York Central, deceased was a widely known employer on the main line in Western New York.

Mr. Nugent was the seventh son of the late Dennis Nugent, veterinary surgeon, of Kingston, Ont. The funeral was one of the largest seen in Batavia in a long time. Grand high mass was sung in St. Mary's church, by Rev. R. E. Walsh. Interment took place in St. Joseph's cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which deceased was held.

WANTS TO BUY A BEAR.

Postmaster Stewart Received Rather Odd Request.

Postmaster James Stewart had rather an odd request made to him, in a letter, which he received in today's mail.

The letter came from a man living in Youngtown, Ohio, and he wants to purchase a couple of black female bears, from six to seven months old.

The postmaster, not being the owner of a zoo, is unable to make a sale, but he would be thankful if anyone in this vicinity who has a bear to sell, would communicate with him, and he will give the name and the address of the man who is anxious to buy.

AT BROCK STREET CHURCH.

Reports Received of Most Encouraging Nature.

The first quarterly business meeting of Brock street Methodist church was held on Tuesday evening, at which there was a very good attendance. The reports from the various branches showed the church to be in a flourishing condition. After all amounts for salaries and accounts had been paid there remained a good balance in the treasury.

It was resolved that the board place on record its appreciation of the services of the pastor, Rev. T. E. Hourke, for his faithfulness and untiring efforts in his work for the welfare of all branches of the church.

Died in the West.

The sad news has been received of the death at Kamloops, from pleurisy, of Charles M. Paterson, son of Mrs. J. C. Paterson, 37 Union street, Kingston. The deceased was only in his thirtieth year. He was a young man of sterling character and unusual promise, who, up to a short time ago, when ill-health necessitated his retirement, was making rapid advancement in the service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the west. The local manager of that institution, with whom Mr. Paterson had been associated, paid warm tribute to his memory and considered Kingston had lost one of her younger sons, of whom she had every reason to feel proud.

To Make a Choice.

At the quarterly board meeting of Princess Street Methodist church, next Monday evening, the question of the choice of a minister to succeed Rev. F. H. Sproule will be discussed. Other things to be decided will be the time to decide who shall be sent to this charge, but some of the congregation are of the opinion, that an invitation should be extended to a minister to occupy the pulpit for the next four years.

Over Eight Years.

A slight misapprehension seems to exist in one diocese of Niagara, regarding the length of residence in this country of Dean Bistwell. While his parochial work in Canada extends only over two years, (during which time he has been bishop's commissary, for some months) he has been here over eight years, and has identified himself very closely with Canadian life and thought.

A Popular Choice.

Dr. C. K. Clarke, superintendent of the Toronto asylum, has been appointed superintendent of the Toronto general hospital. Dr. Clark was for years the superintendent of Rockwood hospital. He is a capable administrator and will admirably fill the position in Toronto.

The Late Mrs. Stewart.

Mrs. Isabella Stewart, who resided with her son on Wellington street, died Wednesday at the age of fifty-nine years. She had been ill about six months with paralysis. She was born in Glasgow, and was a Presbyterian in religion, an attendant at St. Andrew's.

"The Dollar Princess" Company.

"The Dollar Princess" company arrived here, Thursday morning, from Hamilton, by special G.T.R. train. It consists of ninety-three actors, actresses and stage attaches. The company is the "original" one. Extra trucks were required to convey the scenery to the Grand Opera House.

Gave Him a Present.

Tuesday afternoon the students of the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, presented Prof. C. E. Bland, who is leaving for Edmonton, B.C., with an address and a gold-mounted cane, in recognition of his services and of their appreciation of him as their teacher and friend.

The Labor Situation.

There was no change, to-day, in the labor situation. The mason's helpers are still out, and the masons and the stonecutters have been unable to come to an agreement, although it was stated to-day, that both parties had several meetings in regard to the matter.

Post Still Vacant.

Cards have been received in the city from T. H. Fleming, formerly agent for the Sailors union. He arrived in Saskatoon, and had a most enjoyable trip. No appointment has as yet been made, to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Fleming's resignation.

Wolfe Island Engagement.

Up Through The Dawn

BY TEMPLE BAILEY.

They were both very tired. The woman's face was white and her loosened hair blew untidily about her temples.

"Can't we rest?" she asked. The man set his bag at the foot of a rock, then unfolding a great plaid rug he made a seat for her.

"If you could sleep a little," he suggested. She shook her head. "I can't—I think and think."

His lips were set in a stern line. "That is one more burden I have added to the others. I have taken from you your lightheartedness."

She clung to him. "Don't—I didn't mean to reproach."

"I know—but if there were any way to let you out of this. She was sobbing wildly.

"But where isn't it most always? Whether thou goest, Alec."

He soothed her rough hair for a moment in silence. Then he said: "At least I have this great happiness that you care to be with me, Margaret."

"Did you think—that I would leave you?"

"I didn't know. Yours has been such a butterfly life."

"Then I have gained this out of your troubles, that—I am all yours."

"Yes."

He drew a corner of the rug about her shoulders, shielding her from the cool, damp breeze of the early morning.

"Yes," he repeated, "it has been a great thing to know that when failure came you believed in me; that when disgrace came you trusted me. Yet—there is a whole life beyond this Margaret."

"What of that?"

"You have never known hardships, and we shall be very poor."

Half timidly she laid her hand on his. "I don't know just how to say it, but somehow I feel it is going to bring us nearer together. In that big house it seemed to me that we were alone at dinner there were the servants and the formal service. There was never anything I could do for you. You were always doing things for me—but my hands were tied. I—I felt useless. But now it will be different."

His face did not brighten. "I have no faith in such a future for you," he said. "It is dear of you to tell me such things. I know you want to leave me and your own self and of me, but no woman raised as you have been can come down to the hard realities of life and be happy. I don't expect it, and sometimes I feel that I ought to think out some other way."

Her startled eyes looked up at him. "What way?"

"I ought to, let you go back to your own people," slowly, "and fight out alone."

"Oh," her voice was shaken by deep feeling. "Last night when you came to me and told me that the decision of the court had gone against you, that you had lost your heart, your pride, your self-respect, that the world would call you dishonest, although you had not been dishonest in intention, that you wanted to drop out of everything, I said that we would go away at once, and find some quiet spot where we would be hidden, and you seemed so glad to have—me go with you." Her voice faltered. "And—"
