Valuable Documents Saved.

Albany, May 6.—Commissioner Draper of the State Education Department announced yesterday that the recovery of the early Dutch records of the state from the effects of the capitol fire is proving to be greater than at first seemed possible.

Out of twenty-three manuscript volumes of the records and two volumes of land patents, more than eighty per cent of the original pages was saved and more than ninety per cent of the subject matter can be restored, as a result of the state archivist's familiarity with the original documents.
