

FOR 25 YEARS HE SUFFERED

Well Known Merchant of Sarnia Cured by "Fruit-a-tives"

SARNIA, ONT., Feb. 25, 1911.

"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever.

Finally I read an advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives". I decided to give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them.

I have now taken "Fruit-a-tives" for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good.

I have recommended "Fruit-a-tives" to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly."

PAUL J. JONES

Thousands now use "Fruit-a-tives." Thousands more will try "Fruit-a-tives" after reading the above letter. It proves, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that at last there is a cure for Constipation and Stomach Troubles.

"Fruit-a-tives" is Nature's cure for these diseases, being made of fruit juices and valuable tonics.

INFLAMMATION AND PAIN

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pains in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and I thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."

—Mrs. Wm. Seals, 635 W. Howard St., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unolicited and genuine testimonials like the above, prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

FORGOTTEN REVOLT

REBELLION IN LANARK 70 YEARS AGO.

The Rebels Were the Ballagibians, Who Had Been Deported From Ireland for Unruly Conduct.

"Indeed," said my mother, who was visiting me in the West, "your Riel rebellion out here was not the first Canadian rebellion among the settlers; and the first one was about land, like the one out here.

"There was a rebellion in Ontario when we settled there, and one that as far as I know, was never written up nor anything published about it, although there must be records available somewhere to tell about it, for the militia were called out, and shots were exchanged, and at least one man was killed.

"I was but a child, seventy or more years ago, when it happened and all I know is hearsay from my father, who was one of the militia called out as well as being in close touch with the people who rebelled. They were called the Ballagibians, and they had been deported from Ireland for some unruly conduct, and were given land in the county of Lanark, chiefly in Huntley, Ramsay and Fitzroy townships. Each was given a hundred acres of land, a year's provisions, some tools and implements and free passage to Canada—whatever they had been doing in the old country the Government there was apparently glad to get rid of them.

"They settled on the land all right, but many of them merely camped about and had a big time till their stores ran low; then they sold their tools and such. I remember well seeing the Ballagibian axes, saws and hoes in many houses for years after the people were forgotten or had settled down like other farmers, and their identity had been lost. But at that time they made quite a name for themselves and quite a scare for the rest of the settlers, for they took the crazy notion that now they were far enough away from England they would have that land for themselves. So they raised a form of rebellion.

"They were camped at the site where now is the town of Almonte, then called Shipman's Mills, and Shipman was the leader of the militia which they were called out to put down the trouble. The militia met them at their camp and fired upon them, and at least one man, named Curran, was killed. Some pacifying was done, by the priests I think, and the matter was dropped soon; most of those that had caused the trouble went to the States—that was the first of the rushes to the States—that in those days took the place of the present rushes to the Canadian West. The rush was to Cincinnati, Ohio, which was much talked of as a good place for settling.

"The lands of those who went away were soon settled by others—but many of them were good quiet people and settled down when the others left and soon all was forgotten. But for the time being it was quite a rebellion and a little more heatedness might have made much more trouble. As it was the affair was serious enough for the handful of settlers then in the country, and it seems strange to me that no written records of this event seem ever to have reached the public."—George R. Belton, in Canadian Century.

Didn't Know Him.

Rodolphe Forget, who sits for Charlevoix, is seldom seen about the precincts. Recently the financier paid one of his fleeting visits to the House, and it so happened that the customary doorkeeper was not on duty at the entrance to the Chamber, his place being taken by a substitute. Mr. Forget passed through the door when the messenger caught him by the shoulder and exclaimed excitedly: "You can't go in there unless you are a member."

The Montreal broker smiled, and tried to push his way past the outer guard, but found his way barred by the stout arm of the faithful keeper of the gate. Just at that moment "Bob" Bickerdike hove into sight, and Mr. Forget hailed him triumphantly.

"Look here, Bickerdike," he said, "come here and identify me."

"You can't blame the man for not knowing you," exclaimed "Bob" sweetly, as they both passed into the Chamber, "he has only been employed here since 1896!"—The Mace, in Saturday Night.

Miss Roddick's Embargo.

Miss Emma Roddick is one of the prime movers in the series of schemes which were carried out in Montreal within the past year to make the lot of the children in the crowded, poorer districts a little happier. She is one of the most active workers in the Parks and Playgrounds Association.

This winter the association opened a free school for children on the lower slope of Mount Royal, and Miss Roddick was at work daily superintending the cares of the kiddies who thronged to it. She was explaining the scheme to a little group of newspaper men the other day.

"You see," she remarked, "we supply the toboggans for them and they are allowed perfect freedom while they are on the slide. They can enjoy themselves as they like.

"There is one thing, however, that we make it an absolute rule that no child must do," she added.

"What is that," politely inquired one of the scribes.

"No child is under any circumstances allowed to discuss reciprocity while at the slides," Miss Roddick solemnly announced.

Increase in Immigrants.

For the ten months, April to January, of the current fiscal year, the number of immigrants who arrived in Canada was 290,687, as compared with 165,967 during the corresponding months of last fiscal year. The gain is 37 per cent.

The number who arrived at ocean ports for the same period was 138,670, as against 148,456 for a like period last year, an increase of 88 per cent. From the United States for the same ten months there were 102,017 immigrant arrivals; for the corresponding ten months of last fiscal year there were 50,882, the gain from this source being 51 per cent.

$3.50 Recipe Free for weak Men

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened memory, failing memory and lame back brought on by excess, unnatural drains, or the likes of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of this prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and women, and it is the most successful combination for the cure of nervousness and vigor failure—or put together.

I think I owe it to you to show you a man whom you can send anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may drop himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what he desires in the quickest possible time, and spend $100 to $200, and get no more than a few days' relief, and so sure himself at home quietly and quietly, and so sure himself at home quietly and quietly, and so sure himself at home quietly and quietly.

Dr. A. E. Robinson, 345 E. Lake Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $100 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entire & free.

A CORONATION HYMN.

Bishop of Durham Has Written a Special Anthem for Big Pageant.

Among a collection of coronation hymns recently published is one by the Bishop of Durham, the first verse of which is as follows:

Lo, the King in state and splendor
Bears the crown upon his brow;
Chiefs and aid princes homage render,
Kneeling for the knightly vow.
Lord of Lords, be his Defender,
Save him ever, save him now.

An able administrator, and a preacher with a distinct style of his own, the Church has no more vigorous assailant of all that tends to disturb the harmony of our home life than Dr. Moule. Of his lordship's many-sidedness, an interesting illustration was afforded on his induction to the diocese by the cordiality with which he agreed to the revival of the following legend, dear to the heart of Durham folk:

In the diocese is the mediaeval Manor of Sothburn, which, way back in the eleventh century, was held by a Roger de Coigniers from Bishop Ranulph, of Durham, for the service of showing to him upon his entrance into the diocese an antique sword or falchion.

The sword is still in existence, and is still used for this purpose. But local tradition affirms that Sothburn was awarded to the still older Coigniers "for slaying with his falchion a monstrous and poisonous vermine which overthrew a great many people in flight."

Dr. Moule's father was vicar of Fordington, Dorset, from 1829 till his death in 1880, and in his first days there he heard from a very old parishioner a reminiscence of 1792. She recollected a day when she and other young people were taken out from the village into the Great Field of Fordington, and assembled at a stile on its border, and there bidden to remember that the style of the calendar was changed. Before his settlement at Fordington, the Rev. H. Moule, as a very young clergyman, was for a few years in charge of Gillingham, near Shaftesbury. There he knew old people whose parents had told them how they watched the soldiers of William of Orange march through the place on their way to London from Torbay. Dr. Moule was born at Dorchester in 1841, and was educated at home and Cambridge.

Irish Primate's Unique Record.

Now in somewhat feeble health, Dr. Alexander, the retiring Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of All Ireland, has decided to take up his residence in Torquay, Devon.

His lordship is eighty-seven years of age, sixty-three years of which have been spent in church work, and he is distinguished not only as a theologian and orator, but also as a poet. In 1801 he published "The Findings from the Book of Other Poems," and his "Waters of Babylon" was the sacred prize poem at Oxford in 1867. He has also written a great number of sonnets on Biblical subjects.

As a bishop, Dr. Alexander's record is unique. He is the only prelate in these islands who has been over forty years in episcopal orders, and the only survivor of the bishops of the Irish Church prior to its disestablishment. During his occupancy of the See of Derry, Dr. Alexander made a magnificent gift to the diocese by permanently endowing it with $15,000 a year and a bishop's house.

His career in the House of Lords lasted but one session. He made his maiden speech on the Irish Church Disestablishment Bill, which banished him from the Upper House before the session was over. "I am afraid I am in danger because I am an Irishman—in still greater danger because I am an Irish bishop—of using strong words instead of strong arguments."

Lady Canvasser Mistaken for Lover.

The annual dinner of the London, Aberdeen, Banff, and Kincardine Association in London was presided over by Lord Portland, the Secretary of State for Scotland.

His lordship served with the Royal Irish Rifles in the Sudan in 1885, and was sent to Parliament in 1907 for Forfarshire, a seat he held until he was made a peer in 1909. On a campaign in Apr the following story is as fresh to-day as ever: A lady friend had volunteered to do what she could to secure votes for him, and the reception she received at the first house she called at was extremely gratifying.

"Come in my dear," said the burly, hearty old lady who answered the door, "you must be hot and tired and ready for a cup of tea. Jim'll be here in a minute, and—" "If you don't mind," faltered the canvasser. But the old lady rattled on incessantly until she had to pause for breath. This was the canvasser's opportunity, and she explained the reason of her visit.

"Vote for Capt. Sinclair!" exclaimed the old lady disappointedly, "why, I thought you was Jim's poor young woman."

Rise of Notary Public.

According to the best information we have, notaries public originated with the appointment, made by the primitive fathers of the Christian Church, of scribes to collect the history of the apostles. Long afterward the office of historian of the apostolic church was changed to a legal employment, such as the attesting of deeds, wills and other writings, so as to establish their authenticity in any other country. It was not until the beginning of the nineteenth century that the work of the modern notary was fairly established throughout Europe.

Good-Bye Hat!

BUT

if it happens to be a Buckley, he can get another without it costing him a cent.

You've seen "guarantees" before—but you never yet heard of a hat guarantee that guaranteed the owner even against accident.

Here's one that does—the sweeping Buckley guarantee—provides for such cases as that shown in the picture—provides for a new hat within 4 months from date of purchase, if, for any reason—accident or otherwise—your Buckley hat has not in every sense "stood the racket."

Read carefully the broad, all-embracing guarantee.

Why, you ask, should the guarantee be made so far-reaching?

Well, in the first place, the makers of the "Buckley" have absolute confidence in their product—they feel sure it will give satisfaction in 999 cases out of 1,000. But there's always that thousandth man—even he must be satisfied.

And, in order that he may get a new Buckley hat from any Buckley dealer, without having to answer questions or give a lengthy explanation, it has been thought well to provide that, whatever his reason, if the Buckley he's been wearing has not lasted four months it will be cheerfully, promptly and unconditionally exchanged.

Don't let this remarkable guarantee feature of the Buckley overshadow the style pre-eminence of these hats. The quality is English, but the styles are American and up-to-the-minute. That's a Buckley shape to suit every type of man.

Buckley hats are made by London workmen—there's high grade material and honest workmanship in every hat that bears the Buckley name. Price, $2.50, at all the best hat shops.
