There is No Chance of the Locomotive Works Being Removed

Have Run Continuously Without a Shut-Down For Ten Years--Price to Be Paid is Close to $3,000,000.

On all sides is heard the question, Will the locomotive works be moved to Montreal, now that a new company is seen to be in control? Hon. William Harty always had confidence that the works would pay in Kingston with enough capital, and he proved it. There is no chance whatever of the works being shut up here, according to those who know the situation best. In the first place too much capital has been expended on the plant here to make moving a profitable venture, and again, the works here can compete with any in Canada, as has been proven.

The Kingston works have been in continual operation since they were re-opened, ten years ago. Other works have shut down for periods on account of a lack of orders, but under the direction of Mr. Harty and Mr. Birmingham, the local works have been constantly busy. Last winter, when there was a danger of a temporary shut-down, the management took contracts for forty or fifty locomotives at a much lower price than usual, in order to keep the plant in operation, and its policy showed the greatest wisdom. Few plants of the kind can show such a record as that of the Kingston works during the past decade. The present company does not look for anything but larger expansion of the works here.

It is well known that Mr. Harty was not favorable to the sale of the

WEDDING ANNOUNCED

IN POLICE COURT BY A MONTREAL MAN.

Who Took Too Much Booze—A Street Fight—Young Man Used Abusive Language.

It is not very often that a wedding announcement is made in police court, but such was the case on Monday morning. However, the announcement was not complete, in that the name of the young lady was not given. Joseph Valvis will figure as the groom, and the wedding will take place in Montreal, late in the fall. Valvis indulges rather too freely on Saturday, and landed in the police cells.

"This was the first drink I had since last Christmas," said Valvis to the magistrates. "I would like to get a chance because I am going to be married in September. The wedding is to take place in Montreal. I'll be a good boy, if you give me a chance." Valvis has been employed on boats. His vessel stopped in Kingston, on Saturday, and like many other fellows, Valvis went out looking for "schmoons." He did not have to wait very long before he found one, two, and a few more.

"I will give you a chance," remarked the court, "but remember now, no more drinking until September." Valvis told the magistrate that he would endeavor to keep on the "water wagon" during the summer months.

George Murray, a young man, admitted being guilty, when he was arraigned on a charge of fighting on the street. The other fellow who figured in the "scrap" was not present. Murray was fined $5 and costs, and no evidence was taken in the case.

William Okwe, a youth, said "guilty" when he was arraigned on a charge of using threatening language towards an elderly lady. While pleading guilty, he had no excuse to offer for his conduct, but the lady was kind enough to forgive, if not to forget, and the youth was allowed his liberty, with the payment of the costs of the court, and his mother was on hand to make a settlement. The boy and his mother will remove from the neighborhood, so the magistrate was of the opinion that this was about as good a settlement as could be made in the matter. However, the court warned the youth to be on his good behavior in the new neighborhood, or he would be sure to get in to more trouble.
