GIVES AID TO NEEDY

CHURCH MAKES LOANS TO POOR MEMBERS.

Emergency Fund is Used to Help Those Who Are in Temporary Need—A Good Purpose.

Toronto, Kan., June 3.—Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, pastor of the Central Congregational church, author of "In His Steps," and several other religious books, believes that the church should be a material as well as a spiritual help to the members of the congregation. This church will not permit its members to ask help from lodges and other charitable organizations because the church and its pastor believe that each church should take care of its own and relieve suffering, want and worry.

For more than twenty years the church has maintained what it calls an emergency fund. Contributions to the church are divided so that a certain amount is set aside each week for the assistance of the needy members. Each member pledges a certain amount for church support each year, and of this amount a definite per cent is taken for the emergency fund. This fund is just as much a part of the church budget as the pastor's salary, the missionary work and the fund for maintaining the buildings.

At the beginning of each year the trustees make up a budget of the probable expenses. Included in this amount is the emergency fund for the aid of distressed members. For many years the fund was very small. It has been gradually increased as the demands have increased.

"There is much to do in the work of the church besides the regular preaching and calls and giving spiritual advice," said Dr. Sheldon. "The church member is a human being, and all the trials and worries that come to an ordinary human come to him. He needs worldly as well as spiritual help at times and we have undertaken to supply this need."

"The fund is really and truly an emergency fund. If a member of the church suffers financial reverses and cannot meet the payment of the premium on his life insurance policy or the rent of his house or the interest on the mortgage of his home or the building and loan payment, we furnish the money to pay it. The borrower gives his note for three or six months or a year, without interest and without further security. It is temporary relief and is given to him for as long a time as he needs it."

"If a man has had a long illness in his family or there has been a death and he has little or no money to pay the doctor bills or the undertaker, this fund is used to pay those expenses and the borrower pays when he can. The borrowers do not feel that it is charity, as they are under obligations to pay the note. It is simply temporary assistance to the needy."

"Not long ago a man died away from Toronto. There had been much illness in the family before, and the family was left destitute. We took enough money to pay all the burial expenses, including the physician's bill and the railroad fare, and furnished the lot in the cemetery, and the widow gave her note for the amount. We never pressed her for payment. In a few months she obtained employment and earned more than enough money to pay the family expenses. A few days ago she paid in the entire amount loaned her."

"Since we have had this fund there have been innumerable cases like this. We have extended loans to meet every sort of contingency that arises. It is temporary relief chiefly to those who could not obtain a small loan at a bank and who would not ask a friend to make the loan. No one knows to whom the money is loaned except the pastor, the special trustee in charge of the fund or the deacon who investigated the case."

"If we know of a man or a woman in distress, some of them too proud to ask for help from their dearest friend, I go to them and make the offer of the loan until they are able to repay. If the note is past due we do not ask for payment. They pay when they can. Some have had loans for years before repayment was made. Possibly twenty per cent of the loans have never been repaid. Most of these cases are of persons who really have never been able to pay back the money. The church does not bother about this, as it extended relief in a time of need and, even if it does not get the money back, it considers the money well spent. Many have paid back the money after the loan had almost been forgotten, and many have paid the notes with interest."

BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

Convention of Canterbury Considers a Resolution.

London Times.—The Canterbury diocesan conference was concluded, yesterday, at Lambeth Palace.

Rev. R. F. Egan, vicar of St. Laurence, Ramsgate, moved a resolution to the effect that the clergy should make use of the light thrown on the Bible by modern criticism for the purposes of religious teaching.

The Bishop of Croydon moved the following rider: "But desires to record its distrust of critics who, while holding office in the church of Christ, propound views inconsistent with the doctrines laid down in the creeds of the church." He said that a book had lately been published by the Dean of Divinity, Magdalen College, Oxford (Rev. J. M. Thompson), which he had not read, but in a review it was stated that the writer rejected the evidence of the Virgin birth of Christ and of His bodily resurrection from the tomb.

A long discussion followed.

The Dean of Canterbury said that nothing had been established by any criticism inconsistent with the truth of the Bible's story from the beginning to the end.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said there would be general agreement that the clergy should make use of the light thrown on the Bible by criticism and study for the purposes of religious teaching, although he deprecated as strongly as he could the holding of office in the church of God by men who felt they could not honestly and fully agree with the creeds and faith of the church. He had not read the book mentioned.

The resolution was carried with one dissentient, and the Bishop of Croydon's rider was also agreed to by a large majority.

A resolution was unanimously passed to the effect that there should be established in every rural deanery throughout the diocese, a standing social service committee to encourage the general study of social and industrial problems from the Christian point of view.

ONE ON MAN.
"When woman gets the vote she will best man. She will turn him around her finger as the housewife turned the riddle."

The speaker was Miss Alice Paul, a very ardent suffragette of Philadelphia. She resumed, with a somewhat bitter smile:

"A business man said to his wife at dinner:

"Here's a riddle for you, my dear; Why is a husband like dough?"

"The answer to this riddle was: 'Because a woman needs him.' The business man expected his wife to give the riddle up, or else to guess that answer. But his wife said calmly:

"Why is a husband like dough, eh? Well, I suppose it's because he's so hard to get off one's hands."

THE FUTURE OF HAYTI

HAGUE COURT OFFICIAL TAKES A HOPEFUL VIEW.

General Legitime Says the Country is Peaceful Because Political Factions Are at Rest.

New York, June 3.—Among the distinguished men from all nations and countries of the world hastening to attend the "First Universal Races Congress" at the University of London, July 26th to 29th, is General E. D. Legitime, representative of Hayti, formerly president of that republic, and a member of the Hague court. His official position is London is honorary president of the general committee, of which Prof. Felix Adler, of New York, is president.

Just before going on board the Lorraine departing for Havre, General Legitime said Hayti was in a prosperous condition, with a three hundred mile railroad being surveyed, from Port au Prince to Cape Haytien. "It will cost thirty millions," he said, "but will be the means of developing the vast resources of the island, its agricultural, mining, hardwood, mahogany, rosewood and ebony and other mineral wealth, to say nothing of the enormous annual sugar crop."

"The country is peaceful because political factions are at rest. With her two and a half millions of population, twenty per cent white, and a satisfactory administration, great progress is looked for in all departments of the government, and I shall make a good report at the congress of races. The object of the congress will be to discuss in the light of modern knowledge and the modern conscience the general relations subsisting between the peoples of the west, and those of the east, between so-called white and so-called colored peoples, with a view to encouraging between them a fuller understanding, the most friendly feelings and a heartier cooperation."

FORTUNE IN ASH PILE.

Cart Driver Finds Foreign Coins Amounting to $2,405.

Boston, Mass., June 3.—When Peter J. Pitts, driver of a city cart, dumped his load of ashes in East Boston he noticed a bundle of coins in an old calico cloth rolling down an incline.

The bundle had been released from an old sofa when his horse accidentally bumped it. Upon investigation Pitts found the bundle contained $2,405 in coin of two realms.

There were twenty-six English sovereigns among the lot. Many residents of that section laid claim to the treasure in behalf of former relatives or friends who had moved from the district.

Pitts believes that the money is his by right of discovery and stands ready to defend his ownership against all comers.

Baby's Tears Turned to Smiles.
The well baby is a happy baby—always cooing, gurgling and smiling. It is only the sickly baby who is cross, fretful and cries. The smile or the cooing indicates baby's state of health. Mothers, if you want your baby to smile—the smile of good health and freedom from pain—give him Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to turn the tear into a smile. Concerning them Mrs. James Hutchinson, Marysville, R.C., writes: "You Baby's Own Tablets have been a great comfort to me while baby was teething. He was cross and fretful, but as soon as I began giving him the tablets the effect was wonderful. He became a good-natured baby right away and is now big, and healthy. The tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

A BREEZY MEETING

Was That of Brockville Cheese Board, Thursday.

Brockville, June 1.—There was a breezy meeting of the Brockville cheese board this afternoon, occasioned by the presence of two Montreal exporters, Messrs. Frederick Fowler and J. S. Cook. Both criticized the methods employed here, noting the fact that none but the regular buyers seemed able to make purchases, for the reason that the cheese went regularly into certain channels, making public competition a farce. Mr. Cook said he was attracted to Brockville by the low prices, and promised local weights and inspection in preference to Montreal, if the salesman so desired.

Mr. Fowler claimed the price made here represented a large area, extending west to Kingston, north to Ottawa and Quebec. There were a number of evils connected with the board, and of these he would speak his mind freely in the near future if the same were not rectified. At the present, however, he had no suggestion to make. Mr. Stafford, a leading salesman, took the buyers to task for militating against Brockville in the matter of prices and cited instances to prove his contention. "Take," said Mr. Stafford, "the price we received last week, 10c, and compare it with 10c, paid on other boards. Then consider we sold as much cheese at this figure as was sold by any other five boards at 10c. We stand to lose $2,000 per week or $8,000 per month at this rate."

Better results were obtained when the board met on Saturdays, and unless a change came over the situation shortly he would advocate making the change.

Messrs. Cook and Fowler also figured prominently when the time arrived to sell the cheese. The former set the pace at 10c, followed closely by Fowler, who bid 10 1/2c. The only other local man to follow the lead was Mr. Somerville, who equalled Mr. Cook's offer. At these figures repeated calls were made with no takers. Finally the salesman practically and Mr. Cook had the field practically to himself, securing in all 1,325 out of a total offering of 4,270, of which 1,400 were white.

On the curb the buyers generally paid 10c, and almost 5,000 boxes were sold throughout the day on this basis.

For the corresponding week last year the ruling price on this market was 10 9/16c, with no sales record.

AGE LIMIT FOR CLERGY

Brain More Effective at Eighty Than Seventy.

Should all the clergy by rule retire at seventy or, sooner, or to what extent should exceptions be made? were questions discussed by the lower house of convocation of Canterbury recently. It was generally agreed that no hard and fast rule should be made, and that, as a solution, the establishment of pension funds be pressed.

The archdeacon of Ely said that many clergy were doing excellent work at seventy, eighty or ninety years of age.

The archdeacon of Sudbury thought that the church would never put out its full strength until it decided that a clergyman must retire at sixty-five.

The archdeacon of Lincoln, "father of the house," said that, so far from the sense of responsibility decreasing with increasing years he found it increasing. He was very much opposed to a time limit.

The dean of Canterbury said a very great physician had told him that, provided a man occupied his intellectual faculties, the brain went on growing indefinitely, and that there was no reason why the brain should not be more effective at eighty than at seventy.

WHAT DOES "CHICAGO" MEAN?
"Bad Smell" Declared to be Indian Derivation.

Washington, D.C., June 3.—The city of Chicago suffered a blow at the hands of the geologic survey when a bulletin was issued by the service giving derivations of local names in the United States. It was stated: Chicago—city and river in Illinois, the Ojibwa Indian form, "She-Kag-Oug," signifies "wild onion place," from a root form implying "bad smell."

Several derivations were dug up, but the definition of the word Chicago was generally admitted to be the most pleasantly outspoken of them.
