Laurier Wants Responsibly Thrown Upon Home Government

London, June 6.—Each day's proceedings of the imperial conference...

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier's readiness to leave the matter entirely to the discretion of the home government contrasts strangely with the hostile resolution of the Montreal board of trade, which concurs with the overwhelming mass of commercial opinion in this country as to the blow which is being struck at our imperial security."

The Globe, dealing with the same subject, says: "This thing has been done without either the admiring or the over-awe dominions being consulted, but we confess we read with some surprise the contention of Sir Wilfrid that it is better for the dominions not to be consulted in these matters at all, and that the whole responsibility should be thrown upon the home government."

CONSULTS BIG TOE FOR A BROKEN HEAD

Doctor Says One Has Fractured Skull if Toes Spread Out When Ankle Ticked.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—If you tickle your ankle and your big toe turns outward your skull is fractured, says Dr. C. G. Chadlock, a member of the visiting staff at the city hospital, who says he had made the experiment in 275 cases and it has failed once.

Dr. Chadlock says the spot on the ankle that will reveal skull fracture is a half inch above the sole of the foot on the inside of the ankle.

Before Dr. Chadlock made his discovery, which is interesting to the medical world, it was the custom to rub the hands over a man's head in an effort to discover possible fractures.

MADE A DISCOVERY.

Atlas, a Woman, Belief of Dr. Noble.

Baltimore, Md., June 6.—Atlas, who held up the world, was a woman and not a man, according to Rev. Dr. Eugene Noble, president of Goucher College, in an address to the graduating class of that school today.

"The idea was given me by a sculptor," Dr. Noble explained. "I happened into his studio and saw a nearly life-size figure of a woman carved in marble; her attitude was of one supporting a great burden and against her shoulders was a great white globe.

"That is where you are wrong," replied the sculptor. "Atlas is a woman. All the weight of the world I know is borne by woman and it rests on her neck and on her head."

Providence, R.I., June 6.—Requests amounting to $172,000, including $85,000 for Brown University, are contributed in the will of Dr. Oliver Henry Arnold, a prominent homeopathic physician, of this city, filed for probate today.

FEW PERFECT MOUTHS

WOMEN UNLUCKILY DEVELOPING CHARACTER.

Look Best in Repose—Smile Nothing But Contortion of Face, From Artistic Point of View.

London, June 6.—Somebody has been saying that women's mouths are becoming less beautiful, and laying the blame on civilization. An appeal has been made to Alfred Prala, president of the Royal Miniature Society, to talk about lips and mouths. He says:

"One very seldom sees a perfect mouth nowadays. My ideal is the rounded or cupid's bow type, which is the only pure type of beauty. It may not show character, but that does not matter. Unluckily, woman is developing much character now, and this result may very likely be that she will lose the beauty of her lips."

"It cannot, I think, be too well understood that a beautiful mouth is at its best in repose. The present fashion of smiling and showing the teeth is deplorable. From the artistic point of view, a smile is nothing but a contortion of the face, which ruins the features for purposes of portraiture.

PASTOR SCORES HERESY HUNTERS

"Worse Than Heretic Himself," Says Rev. A. M. Brodie of Watertown.

Watertown, N.Y., June 6.—That the man who goes about hunting up heresy is far worse than the heretic himself was the declaration of Rev. A. M. Brodie, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, this afternoon, when he spoke at the recent general assembly, on Sunday.

"In my judgment, a heresy trial does more harm to the Christian church than the heretical teacher could do in a thousand years.

"In my judgment the whole tenor of the assembly and the Presbyterian church is against heresy trials, but there was nothing for the recent assembly, to do than to take the course it did.

Mr. Brodie's talk on the general assembly, to which he was a delegate, gave an outline of the proceedings, touching on the action which resulted in the suspension of Rev. William Grant, telling the reason for the suspension.

SLEEVES IN CHURCH ARE NOW REGULATED

Priest Tells Women That Short Sleeves Will Not Be Tolerated in Sacred Edifice.

Rockland, June 6.—The human arm divine, and the garb which accentuates its divinity, called forth a few critical remarks from Rev. Father Heaton, in the course of his sermon in the Roman Catholic church here, on Sunday.

"I notice," he said, "that certain ladies of my congregation, evidently carried away by the craze after fashion, have to coming to church of late wearing short sleeves. I wish to state that this cannot be tolerated. The church is and has always been opposed to it, and I hope that I shall not again be compelled to call your attention to this matter."

MAY MAKE A MILLION.

May Realize on Invention, But He Loses Liberty.

New York, June 6.—William H. McNeill, will see the road to become a millionaire through the invention of a safety gasoline can, sent to the Tombs, to-day.

In a week he will go to Sing Sing to serve two years and six months for swindling John Wyatt out of $3,500 by means of a fake mining deal in 1907.

Following his conviction McNeill appealed and was released on bail. He then set to work on his invention and disposed of it some time ago for a large sum of money and royalty, which he plings up so that he will soon be in the millionaire class. Today the district attorney was notified that McNeill had lost his appeal and he was re-arrested and sent to the Tombs. Judge Mulpeen granted him a week to fix up his business affairs before he begins his sentence.

U. S. PATROL BOAT ON DETROIT RIVER

A Proposal to Regulate the Boat Traffic in the Narrow Channel.

Washington, June 6.—Several proposals, at least one of them a delicate one, await solution by the International Joint Commission as soon as Canadian representatives are appointed. For example, there will be a proposal to establish a patrol boat to regulate vessel traffic in the narrow channel of the Detroit river near Amherstburg. As the channel there is in Canadian territory and as the traffic is almost entirely of United States vessels, the presence of a patrol boat with an American revenue officer on board will be a matter for international adjustment to avoid the appearance of a declaration of war and to legalize the collection of fines for violation of the law. This it is hoped can be arranged. There is a similar boat in the St. Mary's river, but as the channel there is on the American side the point was simple of adjustment.

Another matter affecting the Detroit river is the consideration of a grievance from the presence of a huge pile of debris near the Canadian shore, opposite Grassie Isle, the fruits of excavation of the new channel there. This is a nuisance of which complaint has been made by cottagers on the Canadian shore, but there has been no appropriation from Congress for its removal. It was stated unofficially today that the joint commission would no doubt be able to secure its removal with little delay.

THE FATE OF BILL

Hangs on Paper Clause, the Latest Report.

SENTIMENT IS AGAINST

THE AMENDMENT OF SENATOR ELIHU ROOT.

Position of the Canadian Reciprocity Bill — Anti-Reciprocity Senators Grilled the Newspaper Representatives.

Washington, June 6.—It is now evident that the fate of the Canadian reciprocity bill hangs on the paper clause and what the senate may do to it. The democratic leaders of the house of representatives made it apparent yesterday that the present sentiment is decidedly against the Root amendment. If the senate adopts this change, say the house leaders, and the bill comes to a conference between the two bodies, the result will be a deadlock. The democrats are bound not only by their promise to the president to stand by the reciprocity bill in its present form, but by the stronger reason that free print paper has been for years a plank in the democratic platform.

All the events of Monday in the senate finance committee went to support the view that the paper clause is the crux of the situation. Anti-reciprocity senators grilled the newspaper publishers' association in the effort to show that the newspapers had, by concrete effort, given the opponents of reciprocity the worst of it in their news and editorial columns, but the effort failed. Following this came the request of Senator Bailey that the secretary of state be called to-day to inform the committee if the bill in its present form conforms with the agreement as notified with Canada.

This the committee are seeking to place the responsibility elsewhere for the proposed action in inserting the Root amendment. Senator Root of course claims that the amendment will prevent the ratification of the agreement by Canada, and although President Taft in his Chicago speech on Saturday took a similar view, he yet asks the senate to adopt the bill as it stands.

That is the situation, and it resolves itself into a prospective contest between the two houses, which may be far-reaching in its effect on the fate of the bill.

THE CANADIAN - AUSTRALIAN SERVICE RESUMED.

Sir James Mills in Ottawa—Says Members of Canada and Australia Will Discuss Matter in England.

Ottawa, June 6.—Sir James Mills, president of the Union Steamship company of New Zealand, is in Ottawa on route to England on private business, which will include the placing of an order for a new steamship for the Pacific service to Canada.

The ship will have a capacity of ten thousand tons, and a speed of seventeen knots.

"I believe the reason that Australia did not contribute to the subsidy," he said, "is that there is a reciprocal tariff between Canada and New Zealand. The matter probably would have been adjusted before this, but for unsettled conditions in Australia politics. Things now are stable and I think it likely that arrangements will be made between the prime ministers of Canada and Australia during their stay in London."
