Father Morrissey's Remedies

When Father Morrissey, the famous priest-physician of Baribogue, N. B., died a year ago last spring, he left his prescriptions to the Sisters of the Holy Sepulchre, at Chatham, to be used for the benefit of humanity and of the church.

Not being in position to make up and distribute the prescriptions themselves, the Sisters arranged with a number of gentlemen, who had been Father Morrissey's friends, to do it for them. These gentlemen working under the name of "Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Limited," had by the first of the year placed the remedies in nearly every store in the Maritime Provinces.

So gladly were they received, and so satisfactory has been their record of cures, that the Sisters and the Company have decided to place them on sale throughout Canada.

Father Morrissey's "No. 7," for Rheumatism and the Kidneys—"No. 10," Cough Cure and Lung Tonic—"No. 11," Stomach Remedy—"No. 20," for Catarrh, and "Father Morrissey's Liniment"—can now be obtained from most dealers in this Province. If you do not keep them write the Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Limited, Montreal, Quebec.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Men

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back brought on by excess, unnatural diet, and the failure of youth, that has cured so many men and women. It is in their own hands—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of man and I am convinced it is the surest acting remedy for the cure of debilitated manhood and virility failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man who is weak and discouraged, with weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back brought on by excess, unnatural diet, and the failure of youth, that has cured so many men and women, without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. TO SPEND MILLIONS

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC MAKES AGREEMENT WITH THE CITY.

Is Definite Terminal—$2,500,000 Dry Dock, $1,000,000 Hotel, and Other Big Works Pledged.

Prince Rupert, B.C., June 10.—There is a feeling of optimism here as a result of the city council's meeting with the Grand Trunk Pacific officials on the assessment question. The officials present were President Hays, Manager Chamberlain, Solicitor D'Arcy Tate and others. The agreement will be signed and the people will vote on it in ten days' time.

The company is to pay $15,000 a year for ten years on all railway lands here, valued at several million dollars; give the city 100 feet of water frontage; give a number of sections for parks, etc.; give sixty acres for a cemetery site; agree to start work at once on a two and a half million dry-dock and a station and machine car shops, round houses, etc., costing over one million dollars; and agree that this is to be the definite Pacific terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific. A hotel to cost a million dollars will be started as soon as a site is selected.

The plans of all these works are prepared and are here, and there is great elation over the agreement today.

CHEERED THE HERO.

Thrilling Exploit of a Fire Fighter in Mexico City.

Fires are few and far between in the City of Mexico, as most of the buildings are built either of stone or adobe, with walls two feet or more in thickness. The fire department is, therefore, clementary in character, and when it turns out on parade it resembles a dog and pony circus. The engine is about the size of a teakettle and is spiritedly dragged around by a little long-eared burro.

There was a fire in a photograph gallery not long ago, and the department was called out. The gallery was situated on the third floor, and the totally inadequate engine was unable to get a stream that high. When the fire company arrived at the scene the fire in charge lined all his men up along the sidewalk and carefully called out the roll before they were permitted to get busy with the fire. The fire, of course, took every advantage of this opportunity, and by the time the firemen got on the job it was beyond control.

Among the fire-fighting equipment was a small extension ladder, and it required fifteen minutes to erect it, and then no one seemed to care to ascend it, and they cannot be blamed in view of what happened afterward. Finally, some five minutes after the ladder had been set in place, one brave soul essayed the ascent, and just as he reached the top of the ladder it collapsed and slid together. This landed the daring fireman opposite the second-story balcony.

He stepped off on the balcony into safety and was rewarded with a thunder of "bravos" from the spectators below. Tipping his hat in appreciation of the applause, he stood there, the admired of all beholders, while his companions in arms below cheered as wildly as the rest.

Having faithfully performed their duty, they watched the fire burn itself out and then called a policeman and arrested it, also the proprietor, because in Mexico if a fire occurs in your establishment you must tell the authorities all about it, give your real name and be glad to escape with a life sentence.—New York Sun.

HEROES IN THE STRIFE.

Hamilton Spectator.

Two little Britanny coast children, eight and ten years old, heroically turned a light during a whole night of storm recently, their father lying dead in a cot at the bottom of the lighthouse tower and their mother exhausted at his side from her efforts to repair the mechanism of the light, before lapsing into unconsciousness her word to the terrified children was, "turn the light," and with the fear of the unseen and a feeling of terrible responsibility thrust upon them, they obeyed, though to obey meant an exhibition of courage and endurance and an end seldom found in adults. The French government will do well to recognize the heroism of these two little ones; the whole civilized world will do well to mark the act and honor in as signal a way as may be possible their deed. The story of their night of toil under such distressing circumstances will surely find a place in school readers of the next generation, a fitting companion tale to that of our own George Darling.

OPPOSITION RATHER MIXED.

Ottawa Free Press.

It is not long since the restrictionists told us the government was afraid to go to the country on the reciprocity agreement. Now, according to the Toronto News, it is "hurrying to the country to escape further debate." Considering that the reciprocity agreement has been before the country more than four months, and that several miles of articles have been written about it, the idea of hurrying to escape further debate is somewhat comical. But there is no need to discuss it, because to-morrow the opposition press still once more have Laurier afraid to go to the country. Its wobbles are among the wonders of the world.

A VERY CERTAIN CURE.

Waterbury Standard.

May, Dr. J. H. Cordle, Georgia, has issued a decree that all white persons, convicted of drunkenness, must either accompany him to church for ten consecutive Sundays or serve thirty days at cleaning streets. Chronic drinkers are dismissed at such an alternative and are either taking to the woods or taking the pledge. The Monday morning court has usually had about twenty cases of drunkenness, though it is prohibition town. Last Monday morning there was not a single drunkard found. Only one has been convicted under the mayor's decree and he chose the church sentence and goes regularly. Here is a chance for Mayor Hugo to show his progressiveness.

THE KAISER AND A MAID.

He Learned What Would Happen to His Navy.

Pail Mail Gazette.

There is a good sporting story told in Germany of the kaiser's love of a practical joke, and it relates to a board given to a number—of guests. Tramping through a wood they met a peasant. "My good fellow," said the emperor, "you seem very suspicious. Perhaps you think I haven't a license."

Thereupon out came a printed document for the man's inspection, duly stamped and signed. "Well," came the next question, "I hope you're satisfied?" The man nodded and then made a gesture toward the rest of the party. "Oh, yes," exclaimed the silently mirthful potentate, "I've no doubt the other gentlemen will cordially follow suit and show you theirs." Of course, not one had a license, and all had to pay fines before a magistrate next day.

But he has not always had it his own way. One night he was sitting out a dance with a young lady at a Court ball. "What would you say," he asked, "if I were to forbid naval officers to marry?" "Your Majesty," came the quick reply, "that would be impossible. Your navy would cease to exist."

Gananoque, June 10.—The remains of the late Augustus J. Toole arrived here from Chicago, and the funeral was held from the home of his mother, Mrs. A. Toole, Brock street, yesterday afternoon, to Christ Church, where Rev. J. R. Serson conducted burial service, after which Leeds lodge, No. 201, A.F. & A.M., took charge of the obsequies at the grave. The remains were laid to rest at Willow Bank cemetery.

THE EAGLE ATTACKED MAN.

Girl Rescued Him by Beating it With Broom Handle.

In a battle with a captive bald eagle in the back yard of his home in Pueblo, Col., H. T. Walby was badly injured.

The eagle was given to Walby by William Potter, a Beulah rancher. Walby tied the eagle in his yard with a rope. He decided to loosen the string on the eagle's leg and while doing this the bird flew at him and sank its talons deep in his face, securing a strong hold on both cheeks. Walby fought the eagle desperately for several minutes, when Miss Mabel Orin, living next door, came to the rescue. She struck the bird on the head with a broom handle and forced it to loosen its hold.

Walby's face was badly torn and a physician was summoned.

POSITION OF BRITAIN

IN COMMERCE DUE TO HER FREE TRADE POLICY.

A. W. Haycock Writes From England—Dr. Edwards' Protective Pills Should Disgust the People.

76 Oxney Road, Rusholme, Manchester, Eng., May 30.—(To the Editor): In order to form a sane judgment on the fiscal controversy, I would strongly advise protectionists to study the economic and fiscal history of this country. Few people in Canada, I think, have any conception of the enormous advantage Britain has reaped from a change in her fiscal system from protection to free trade.

Protection during the first half of the 19th century produced nothing but the most abject misery and starvation for the major portion of the population. Every historian of note has described that period as one of unadulterated horror. Tollers were then wretchedly murdered by protection legislation for the benefit of unfeeling and avaricious monopolists and vested interests. The protected few allowed in luxury, the plundered many existed in a fettered hell. Then everything was taken and everything was scarce. Pauperism, crime and mortality (especially infantile) steadily increased. Macaulay in describing the condition of the workers during that reign of terror said—"So visible was the misery of the manufacturing towns that a man of sensibility could hardly bear to pass through them. Everywhere he found filth, and nakedness and plaintive voices and wretched forms and hanging faces. Politicians who had never been thought alarmists began to tremble for the very foundations of society." Monopoly and its twin brother corruption reigned supreme, producing a harvest of death and famine. The workers had no votes in those unhappy days, but no votes in those unhappy days, but they demanded bread or blood, and the monopolists did not give in until the country was on the verge of revolution.

The fiscal fetters were finally removed with the result that trade increased by leaps and bounds. In ten years British exports which had remained practically stationary for half a century, were doubled.

Pauperism, crime, and mortality rapidly decreased and is still decreasing. All classes are now infinitely better off. Even the land monopolists have gained. Free trade has blessed the very class which opposed it, and nullified the repeal of the tariff laws. The prosperity of the many created a greater demand for farm products. The value of their land has increased and they receive higher rents. I firmly believe that the Canadian manufacturers who are in the same economic position as the English landlord, would gain from free trade as the landlord here gained. When the Canadian farmers are prosperous the manufacturers are prosperous. When the Canadian farmers have a bad year, the manufacturer's have a bad year. The prosperity of the manufacturers is decidedly dependent upon the farmers. Free trade by removing the shackles from the farming industry would certainly increase the prosperity of the farmer and thereby the manufacturer. Economic laws are as universal as the laws of gravitation. What did happen in England would happen in Canada. Honesty is the best policy.

Britain's pre-eminence commercial position is assuredly due to her free trade policy. What other reason can be assigned? The United States with twice the population and with thirty times the natural resources is eclipsed by Britain in the world's markets, and depends on British money when financially embarrassed. British capital earned under free trade conditions finances the lion's share of the world's business.

Since the advent of free trade corruption as we understand it in Canada has ceased to exist, and to-day the only free trade country shows a healthy example of political morality to the whole world. Parliamentary vice and monopolistic selfishness walk hand in hand. Free trade would go a long way to drive corruption out of Canadian politics. There would be less political trickery and more government for the people, less pauperism and more ethics of government.

I hope that Dr. Edwards' Protective Pills for Plundered People may have the effect of most quack remedies, viz. to disgust the people. Yours very truly, A. W. HAYCOCK.

THE "WHY" MAN

The man on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of the home is naturally a "why man." He wants to know why this is better than that? Why it performs its duty better than the other? Why it is suited to his conditions? Why it is cheaper—and so on.

AND HE'S RIGHT, TOO.

So he naturally says, "Why should I COOK WITH GAS, and we say, "Because it's the Cheapest, cleanest, and most convenient of fuels."

We can prove it. Put it up to us to deliver the goods. In any event, let us have the opportunity of talking it over with you.

Call in at the Office of the Works, Queen Street, or phone 157, and we will send a man to talk it over.
