The Kingston old boys of tawa are coming home on July 29th to spend three days in the limestone city. It is expected that there will be 2,000 of them. What is the city council going to do in regard to their entertainment? It is time that themayor and the aldermen got busy and made preparations for the reception of this large contingent of Kingston's sons and daughters and the strangers who will be with them. So far not a thing has been done by the council, and a month of preparation is necessary for a worthy celebration. During the past few years the city council has done practically nothing for the old boys, beyond having them greeted at the railway stations by a band. Last year not even a band was engaged for the greeting, and there was a good deal of unfavorable talk about the lack of a civic reception and the additional lack of entertainment on the civic holiday. On July 31st this year there should be a grand celebration by the city, and the city council should discuss the matter at its meeting next Monday
