FUTURE OF QUEEN'S.

Best Wishes of Canadians are for Prosperity.

Toronto Globe. Seventy years ago Queen's University came into existence as a seat of higher learning at Kingston. It was at first, and for many years very much limited in its sphere of operations and greatly hampered by the want of means, but it has persistently maintained the high ideals of its cultured founders, and it is today a vigorous, independent university.

RIGHT ON ONE POINT.

Montreal Witness. The Mail and Empire is right in the present instance, so far as that the Witness believes that the vast majority of the Canadian people are loyal and mean to stick to the British connection through thick and thin. But it has never wavered from that assertion throughout its history, and it has been of late been proclaiming it steadily during months in which the Mail and Empire and its friends were so little convinced of it that they insulted the Canadian people with the charge that their loyalty was only as deep as their pockets—or, in other words, that "reciprocity means annexation."

Kennedy, manager of the C.L.C. baseball team, stating that the report of last Saturday's game, between the C.L.C.'s and Victorias, had been the means of placing the C.L.C.'s team in an unfavorable light with some of the baseball fans. The report read that "Sullivan would not declare Atwood out, and the C.L.C.'s walked off the field."

A FAR REACHING ISSUE.

Toronto World. The Canadian Pacific railway is entering on a determined policy to break down organized labor, or rather to be independent of it; and two things are now under consideration: First, to be independent of the telegraph operators by the substitute of telephones that anyone can work, and second, by doing without maintenance of way men on the tracks, or rather, to get rid of the union of these men by giving the business over to contractors.

THE SEPARATION OF QUEEN'S.

Ottawa Journal. At last the vexed questions of the relation of Queen's to the Presbyterian church has been settled. There can be little doubt that the decision reached, absolute separation, is the best solution of a difficult problem, which has been a disturbing factor for many years.

are able to sympathize with men of genius and culture who have been sacrificing much in refusing to leave for other academic positions farther removed from the proverbial "learning and a little oatmeal." There is a place for such an institution in Eastern Ontario, and it is a decided advantage to have alternative types of universities in order that the principal of the survival of the fittest may have a chance to operate. Quality is more important than quantity in the make-up of a great seat of learning.
