MAXIM'S MAXIM. Modest Claims Often Carry More Conviction Than Loud Boasts. When Maxim, the famous inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be considerably below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a triumph of surprise instead of disappointment as it might have been if he had overestimated his gun's efficiency. Dogs Created Excitement. Two dogs, owned by King street merchants, created great excitement in front of a store, near the market, Saturday morning, when they started in to fight. They blocked the sidewalk, and some men had a hard task to quiet the animals. The two dogs have figured in many fights and have been a source of nuisance for some time. A complaint has been made to the police, and as a result the owners will be asked to look after them.

A Citizen's Denial. Signing himself, "Lonesome" a citizen writes the Whig stating that the article which appeared in Friday night's paper regarding a citizen whose wife deserted him was not absolutely correct. His wife did not go away with another man, neither did he sell his household effects to a second hand dealer. He says he has every trust in his wife's integrity and believes that in good time the whole thing will be fully explained.
