THE FATHER SOBBED

AS HE AWAITED ARRIVAL OF HIS SON'S REMAINS.

The body of little George Lalley had probably been moved by dynamiting—it was in a decomposed condition.

The finding of the body of five-year-old George Lalley shortly before three o'clock, Thursday afternoon, just a week from the time he disappeared, brought to a close the mystery which has kept the whole city wondering since little fellow disappeared. It came at a sad time, when, after a week's agonizing suspense, the grief-stricken parents had begun to hope that there was a possibility that the boy might be alive.

The discovery was made by Arthur Tisdale, who was out in his boat fishing. He found the body lying on the shore on the south side of Belle's Island a few minutes to three o'clock. The body was lying on its face, and Mr. Tisdale turned it over to make sure that it was the missing one, and returned to the shore. He telephoned the police and P. C. Mullinger went out to investigate. When he heard the details, he communicated with police headquarters and Coroner Ross was notified. Corbett's ambulance was sent for and was soon on the scene.

P. C. Mullinger and Mr. Tisdale rowed back to the spot where the body was, a distance of half a mile, and towed it in. The father, who was on the spot, pleaded in vain to be allowed to go out in the boat after his son, and when refused sat down on a rock and gave way to sobs. He gained control of his feelings until the boat with the body reached the shore. When he gazed on the swollen and distorted features of his little son, he broke down completely, and had to be led away.

The body was in a badly decomposed state, being swollen considerably from being in the water so long. The features were scarcely recognizable, but the clothing which he had on, served to identify the child as being the missing one. Coroner Ross viewed the remains, and ordered them removed to Corbett's morgue. Upon arriving there they were examined, and inquest was decided as unnecessary.

The body was found in a direct line from where the little fellow was seen last, and it is the belief that the dynamiting in the vicinity of where the boy disappeared, had moved the body and it had drifted with an undertow to the place where he was found. Evidently the body had been lying on the shore for a day or two.

TO FIX CONCESSION STREET.

City and Township Will Each Pay Half the Cost.

A deputation from Kingston township council waited on the civic board of works in a body at its meeting Thursday afternoon in regard to the repairing of Concession street roadway, which has been in a bad state of repair for a number of years, and nothing has been done to fix it. The road is the boundary line between the city and township of Kingston, and as such should be in a better state of repair than it is at the present time. The township is quite willing to bear half the expense for such repairs as would be decided upon.

It was decided to leave the matter to two sub-committees, one appointed from the township council and the other from the board of works to do as they thought best regarding the road. City Engineer Craig, Ald. Rigney and Ald. Bailey were appointed as a committee to represent the Board of works in the matter. As soon as possible the committees will get together.

WILD WEST SHOW

Will be a Feature in City on July 11.

The management of the Young Buffalo Wild West show, which comes to this city for an afternoon and night engagement, Monday, July 11th, claims to have a surprise in store for the amusement lovers. They claim upwards of 700 cowboys, cowgirls, Cingales, Mexican ruffians and larjat throwers, Russian Cosacks, Canadian mounted police, United States cavalrymen, and rough riders from all quarters of the globe. They further state that 300 mustangs, broncos, and Indian cow ponies is the sum total of horse flesh with the aggregation. Among the stars of the arena world is Annie Oakley, the world's greatest woman rifle shot; Curtis LeMay and Capt. Stuart, famous marksmen; Ambrose Means, daring American cowboy, famous on account of his exploits in the East African veldt, where he captured, alive, rhinoceros, lions, tigers and other ferocious animals with his lariat. A big street parade will be given.

A Good Lawyer.

"What kind of a career have you mapped out for your boy, Josh?" "I'm going to make a lawyer of him," answered Farmer Corntossel. "He's got an unreasonable fancy for tending to other folks' business, and he might as well get paid for it." Western Christian Advocate.

THE BOARD OF WORKS

THE CITY IS THREATENED WITH LAWSUIT

If It Does Not Move Cabstands on Clarence Street—Streets to be Paved to Have Names and Services Early Installed.

At the regular session of the Board of Works, which met Thursday afternoon, the following were present, Ald. Rigney, (chairman); Bailey, Harrison, Toys and Fraser.

A second letter was read from W. H. Compton regarding the building line at which houses should be built. No action could be taken, as under the act relating to it, provision is in a case like that is only made for cities with a population of 50,000 or over.

The cabstand question came up again, with the addition that A. B. Cunningham, the complainant threatened to take action against the city unless something was done. Action was deferred for some time, as the stands would have to be removed as soon as the work of paving the streets is commenced.

A communication was read from E. Dennis Barrie street, complaining about the gates in front of his residence, between Raglan Road and John street. His house is on a side hill, and whenever it rains, the water flows over the sidewalk on his property. He threatened damage unless some action is taken. The matter was referred to the city solicitor, for report.

It was decided to continue Cowley street to Adelaide street, and do the necessary grading. The city engineer was instructed to proceed with the work as soon as possible.

A concrete walk from Sydenham to Clergy street, on the north side of William street, will be built as soon as possible.

A communication was read from the engineer regarding the water and gas mains in the territory where permanent pavements are to be laid. On Wellington street, almost the entire street has been dug up in fixing these mains, and the result is that the street is left in a very unsettled condition. Work will be started on the lower end of Clarence street to give this a chance to settle down. In the present state, the foundation is not solid enough. He thought it advisable to have the mains on other streets which will certainly be paved within the next five years, gone over so that the streets will be brought to a level before the pavement is laid. A motion was passed that the different departments be notified to have all mains that are not in good condition repaired on such streets as are mentioned by the city engineer.

It was also recommended that in view of the tenders for asphaltic macadam pavement being too high, that they be not accepted, and a call for new tenders be extended.

Incurable.

"Let me kiss those tears away," he begged tenderly. She fell into his arms and he was busy for the next few minutes. And yet the tears flowed on. "Can nothing stop them?" he asked breathlessly. "No," she murmured, "it is my fever, you know. But get on with the treatment."—Silent Partner.

Too Much Hollerin'.

"What do you think of the idea of an extra session of congress?" "Well," replied Farmer Corntossel, "some extra sessions is like some extra newspapers. They ain't enough in 'em to justify the hollerin'."—Washington Star.

Sports galore at big Irish picnic, fair grounds, Monday. See programme.

WEDDING AT LANSDOWNE.

Death of Mrs. Ann Moorehead, Aged Ninety-five.

Lansdowne, June 29.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Freudenburg, on Wednesday, 28th—at 10.30 a.m., when her daughter, Mrs. Minnie VanCamp, was united in marriage to Allan W. Burche, furniture dealer. The bride was becomingly gowned in gray silk, and was unattended. After a dainty luncheon the happy couple left for a trip to Hamilton and other western points of interest.

Much regret will be felt by the numerous friends of Andrew J. Watty throughout the county, when they learn of his death, which occurred at Alexandria Bay, N.Y., on Saturday evening, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Burche, after a few weeks' illness. Deceased was widely known, being a great horseman, and was highly esteemed for his sprightliness, honesty and kind-heartedness. The funeral services were held in the Methodist church, on Tuesday, the remains being interred in Lansdowne cemetery.

One who was perhaps the oldest resident in this locality, passed away, Monday morning, in the person of Mrs. Ann Moorehead, aged ninety-five years and four months. Deceased had been blind for the past thirteen years, but possessed all other faculties almost unimpaired. She was of a quiet, home-loving disposition, and beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Shearer, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Killenbeck, and one son, James. The funeral services were held in the Methodist church, on Tuesday, Mr. Beckstedt officiating. The remains were interred at Union cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Fowler, Brookville, spent Wednesday the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. E. Dixon. Mr. McAndrew, of the well-known firm, McAndrew Bros., Toronto, has just completed a beautiful curtain and scenery for the tower hall.

In spite of the inclement weather on Monday evening, St. John's annual strawberry festival was a success, the receipts being over $40. Miss Myrtle Wallace, of Iroquois, who has been visiting her brother for the past two weeks, leaves, on Saturday, for her home.

Baby's Name Again.

Lippincott's. A nicely dressed and altogether prepossessing young woman was turning over the leaves of a directory in a Baltimore drug store when a testy old gentleman entered. He, too, wished to consult the directory to learn the address of a man with whom he had some business at that time. He stood about now and then casting heavy looks in the direction of the directory and coughing suggestively.

Still the woman placidly turned over leaf after leaf without any apparent intention to decide whether the name she was seeking was Brown, Smith or Jones.

Finally, when matters were beginning to grow pretty tense, the old gentleman offered to assist the young woman, suggesting that his experience might tend to save time and lessen her labor. With a sweet smile full of appreciation she replied: "Oh, thanks? You are most kind? I am trying to find a real pretty name for my baby."

Her Own Recommendation.

"I wish to go on the stage, not from love of admiration, but to earn my bread and butter," remarked the applicant. "Then I guess I can give you a coll," replied the manager.—Philadelphia Record.
