Moist Heat is the Natural Heat

YOUR HOUSE WILL "FEEL" WARMER AT 65° WITH MOIST AIR THAN AT 70° WITH DRY

Adding moisture to the air in your home will give you the same heat for less fuel. A consideration, no doubt. But that is not all. Warm dry air, however pure, is not healthful. The human body demands more moisture than is carried in the winter air.

The "Hecla" supplies this moisture in plenty. A large circular pan of water is placed where it will be easy to fill and where it will not be overlooked.

"Hecla" Furnace

SAVES ONE TON OF COAL IN SEVEN

By actual test the "Hecla" saves one ton of coal in seven. That is, it is so constructed as to give the same heat for six tons of coal as you ever got from seven.

Do you want to know more about this furnace?

Get this Booklet

It tells about heating for health as well as comfort. It is yours for the asking. Write for it.

No Gas or Dust.

And it is just as important to keep the air free from coal gas and dust.

In the "Hecla" every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an outlet, has been fused absolutely tight by our patented process. The same fused joints keep out the dust and smoke.

SAVED ARMY AND NAVY

WHICH WERE STRANDED ON ROCK IN OCEAN.

Captain Wolpert, of the SS. Allemania, rehearses Tale of Rescuing Defenders of Hayti.

New York, July 14.—How the Haytian army and navy were stranded on a rock in the ocean off Port au Prince and almost annihilated by a few monster waves was told by Capt. Wolpert, of the SS. Allemania, of the Hamburg-American Atlas service, which arrived in port yesterday. There probably hasn't been a vessel since Jonah's time that has had so much hard luck as Hayti's navy, the President Simon, one of the cabins, an Italian cruiser, and Capt. Wolpert.

The Umbria, after being put in shape for a voyage to the republic last May, was manned by a German crew and headed toward Port au Prince.

So busy was the crew keeping water out of the hold that they had no time to clean or watch the guns.

When the President Simon arrived in the harbor off Port au Prince, late in June, there was a big celebration. Guns were fired from the vessel and on shore. Then the personnel of the navy was sent on board to relieve the Germans at the pumps and the crew took a little sleep. Next day President Simon decided to run a little excursion, and as the navy was still busy at the pumps he ordered the army on board to operate the engines and to man the guns.

"We must fire a salute," he said to his first aide when he went on board. The aide hurried off to see that the proper twenty-one guns were fired for the presidential salute, but nothing occurred, save a deafening silence. All the powder had been used in the fireworks display of the previous night. At last a large projectile was discovered, but no one knew how to put it into the cannon and the Germans refused to help. At any rate, while the crew had been keeping the President Simon aloft the breeches of the guns had rusted and refused to open. So there was not even a single cannon with which to salute the president.

An hour after he had come aboard someone found a rifle and the weapon was discharged twenty-one times.

The President Simon had not steamed half a mile from her anchorage when she struck a rock, and the efforts of the men at the pumps notwithstanding, the navy began to sink. The presidential yacht had followed the expedition, and President Simon immediately went on board, and returned to Port au Prince unaccompanied by the army and navy. The Allemania, just steaming into the harbor, went alongside and took the soldiers and sailors off.

SUPERSTITIONS WEIRD

Still Cling to the Rural Villages of the Old Land.

London, July 15.—Few Britishers are aware how deeply superstition is rooted in the peasantry of the remote country districts until they are sensitively reminded of the fact, as when an Irish peasant woman was arrested the other day for killing an old crane because she believed her to be a witch.

This bit of realism from the annals of the Irish countryside wards anything that the novelists have told about the country districts they specialize. Superstition has been employed by Hardy, Eden Phillpotts, Miss Jane Barlow and others as local color rather than as fascinating actually in itself. In the pages of country life, however, it has been consulted by Lovell's girls, they have been lucked in ponds, but never till recently, either in fact or fiction, has one been killed.

Such writers as Laurence Gomme go up and down the country collecting out-of-the-way information, such as the survival of the pagan practices and beliefs.

The things superstitious country people fear are numerous.

The object to hear a cock crowing at untimely hours, to see the new moon for the first time through glass, and to cut their finger nails on a Friday.

These are things American tourists rarely discover when they are out and about after material for a book about England. Even Kate Douglas Wiggin, in those fascinating travel causeries written around Penelope, falls on the sword to strike that fruitful material. And this is not to be wondered at, for nine out of every ten Britishers know nothing of its existence. Outside the peasantry itself, the knowledge rarely percolates beyond the ranks of Irish priests and country gentlemen, who are not very communicative about the matter, as the stubborn superstition in some of their parishes might be taken to reflect discreditably upon their ministry.

AN ACTRESS IS MAD

DEAR MAXINE STORMS AT GOODWIN MEMOIRS.

She Says Nat Has Tried Every Money-making Scheme "From Mines to Malice."

London, July 15.—Maxine Elliott, while at the theatrical garden party, saw a copy of the New York American which had just arrived in London, containing extracts from Nat Goodwin's memoirs and describing her alleged efforts to break into English society.

The actress read it through, every now and then uttering exclamations and stamping her feet, and as she finished furiously turned on her interviewer and said:

"I am not surprised at anything that man does. He has tried every money-making scheme from mines to malice."

The fair Maxine's friends who saw the article promptly proceeded to identify the thinly veiled characters described by Goodwin. The incident is well remembered here. The wife of the American mining man who introduced her into English society was "Mrs. Samuel Newhouse. The duke referred to in the same paragraph was Lord Duke of Manchester. The gentleman whose conversation with Maxine Goodwin was overheard, was Capt. Flagot Chester, who is familiarly known as "Dibbles."

Maxine's British successes continue. She has recently been entertained by the Duchess of Rutland, the Duchess of Sutherland, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Sir Herbert and Lady Tree. In 1904, she informed the American correspondent that she had decided to abandon the production of "The Garden of Allah" in America, in order to go to India for the durbar, as the guest of Sir Hugh and Lady Clifford. Her place in "The Garden of Allah" will be taken by her sister, Gertrude Elliott.

CRIME IN INDIA

Another Official Has Been Shot in Bengal.

Calcutta, July 15.—Sub-Inspector Rajkumar, of the criminal investigation department, was shot dead at Maimansingh, Eastern Bengal.

The murder of the inspector was in the company of the court inspector and standing in front of the police station at the time of the tragedy. It appears that there were no fewer than three assailants. Several shots were fired, all of them striking Sub-Inspector Rajkumar. The men disappeared without attracting attention.

The sessions judge has still to pronounce judgment in the Dacca conspiracy case, in which the assessors delivered their verdict on Saturday, finding the accused not guilty and describing the government evidence as unreliable. The judge is not bound to accept the verdict of the two Bengal assessors, who, according to law, are associated with the judge to help him with their knowledge of local conditions and Hindu habits. In recent political cases the judges have rarely ever accepted the verdict of the assessors.

Simla—The murder of Mr. Ashe at Mianchi Junction, and of Sub-Inspector Rajkumar, at Maimansingh, have caused a deep sensation throughout India.

R. N. Ashe, collector at Tinnevely, was shot by a Brahmin attorney while getting in a train with his wife. The assassin afterwards committing suicide.

The assessors in the Dacca conspiracy case described the evidence of the government as unreliable, and found the forty-two men accused of waging war against the king not guilty.

THE NEW STAMPS

Britain's New Postage Frank Severely Criticized.

London, July 15.—Criticism of new penny stamp, begun by Sir John Parnell, is gathering weight as the specimen is being issued to a wide public. Hermon Heaton was very emphatic yesterday, when interviewed. "The thing is calculated to undermine monarchy in England," he said.

Hermon Heaton proposed that a committee should forthwith be appointed to produce a stamp, "else the thing will be a constant source of inextinguishable laughter." As head of that committee be named Lord Crawford, who is perhaps the greatest living authority, and certainly possesses the largest library on philately. For the ideal stamp, Hermon Heaton said the most essential thing was the sovereign's head.

"Nothing else should appear," he said, "in any British dominion or colony. Once I proposed to King Edward that Queen Alexandra's head should be placed on one British stamp, but he answered that in his opinion, and apart from personal considerations, the whole of the stamps and coinage of the empire should contain the sovereign's head alone. A most beautiful empire stamp was submitted to the delegates at the late conference, but money difficulties and others rendered its adoption impossible. Over the top was 'British Empire,' and below the name of the country of issue."

Evelyn Cecil, the unionist member for Astor Manor, will ask the postmaster-general whether, in view of the dissatisfaction at the new stamps, he will consider whether a fresh issue should be designed with a new portrait of his majesty; and whether the proposed issue of higher denominations with the existing portrait should be cancelled.

RELIQUES OF MAINE ARRIVE

Relics of Maine Arrive—Mammoth Airship—Record Export Year.

New York, July 15.—By night New York harbor is one of the most popular summer resorts in the world. Scores of pleasure craft carry thousands of passengers to nearby resorts. The double deck recreation ports, reaching far out into the rivers, meanwhile hold an enormous population, who enjoy many of the attractions of the ordinary summer resort at the end of the city streets.

This year unusual preparations have been made to entertain the crowds. Some $50,000 is being expended to provide regular concerts between 7.30 and 9.30 every evening on each of the city's eight piers. On four of these piers elaborate concerts will be given by an orchestra of thirty-four men, rendering standard orchestral programmes of the highest class. Special music for children's dancing will also be provided three afternoons a week on several of the piers.

Many tons of twisted and battered metal from the wreck of the Maine have reached New York within the past three days. A large shipment was brought in by the SS. Allemania, of the Hamburg-American line, under the direction of the government. It has not been announced what final distribution these relics will receive. The metal has no intrinsic value, except to be sold as old metal. It bears eloquent testimony, after these years, of the frightful force of the explosion which wrecked the Maine.

The metal was hoisted from the upper works of the ship which has only recently been exposed by the slowly receding waters. A large number of tourists returning from Jamaica besieged the government officers for souvenirs of the famous battle ship.

According to cable advices a dirigible balloon, eight times the size of Zeppelin's "Deutschland," is to be built in Germany. The company capitalized at $2,000,000, has been organized to build the ship and carry on a regular passenger service. The new dirigible will be 775 feet in length, thus comparing with the longest ocean liners. Her cabins will accommodate two hundred passengers in addition of a crew of one hundred, which will be required to handle it. The dirigible will be driven by thirty motors, placed at regular intervals, which are expected to develop high speed. Her designer, Boerner, expects to make the trip from Europe to America in safety while considerably reducing the record now held by the liners.

The $2,000,000 mark has been passed by the export trade of the country. The best record was made in 1907, when the exports amounted to $1,853,760,000. In 1910 this had dropped off about $15,000,000. During the ten months ending April 30th, 1911, the United States sold abroad some $1,737,781,000 worth of goods, indicating that beyond doubt the total export trade for the fiscal year will exceed $2,000,000,000.

An interesting detail of these statistics is the fact that our exports to Japan increased in value from $16,000,000 in 1910 to $29,000,000 for the first three-quarters of the current year.

A GREAT FAIR

The Western to be Held in London Sept. 8th to 16th.

The finest horses, cattle and other live stock in Canada will be seen at the Western fair, which will open on September 8th, and continue till September 16th.

Scarcely less famous are the displays of the products of the farm and orchard; in fact, there is not a building on Queen's Park, London, that is not a point of attraction when the Western fair is on.

There are the special attractions, which this year will afford surprise and delight to all visitors. Of course there will be jumping and speeding events, in which the mettle of the best horses in the country will be tested. There will be military features; demonstrations of the alacrity of a city fire department; the aeroplane will be in operation in London for the first time; a "turn" will be given by a group of Polar bears; and there will also be an amusing act by trained dogs; acrobatic acts clever and amusing; cat and dog shows and many other special attractions that are certain to delight the tens of thousands of visitors.

Throughout each day and evening four splendid bands will be on the grounds, so that an abundance of excellent music is assured. Each evening there will be magnificent fireworks. Space is being rapidly taken up, and those desirous of securing places should apply at once to the secretary, A. M. Hunt.

RECEPTION AT DELISE, SASK.

Reception at Delise, Sask.

Delise, Sask., July 15.—A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Keefer for the homecoming of their son George, and his bride, formerly Miss Winnifred Shannon, daughter of R. Shannon, Sunbury, Ont., after having spent two weeks among friends in the eastern part of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The dining-room and parlor were beautifully decorated with bells and white streamers and numerous bouquets of flowers. The newly-married couple received many costly and useful presents. About ninety guests were present, including some from Sunbury, Ont., Howard, Sask., Grandora and Vancoy. After congratulations from the many relatives and friends the guests assembled in the dining-room, where they partook of a fine repast. Music and singing were indulged in until a late hour.

Big of Heart.

Big of Heart.

Some one accused the late Governor Flower, of New York, of having pardoned more prisoners than any of his predecessors had done. When the writer referred to this accusation, Governor Flower replied: "Yes, I did, and there is nothing in my administration that I look back upon with greater satisfaction than the list of pardons that I granted. My only regret is that I did not make it longer." Governor Flower was a big man—big of body, brain and backbone.

CEILING SENSE

You would not tolerate a plaster ceiling in your home or store, if you really knew how much better are Preston Steel Ceilings. For plaster cracks and crumbles—and these steel ceilings cannot. Plaster harbors dust, disease germs, vermin—and Preston Steel Ceilings cannot, because they have no crevices and can be washed like a pane of glass.

And, then, any fire insurance company will grant you a lower rate if you put in Preston ceilings. For they go a great way towards fire-proofing an interior. Of course they are damp-proof as well. You can have Preston Ceilings put on to cover old plaster ceilings. Easily done. We tell you how.

PRESTON STEEL CEILINGS

and they cost so little!

Preston Steel Ceilings never need repairs and seldom need re-decorating. They will outlast the building you put them in. Thus they are the cheapest ceiling money buys, in point of service. Even in first cost they compete easily with plaster. In the long run, plaster simply doesn't compare. Nor does it in beauty. For these ceilings come in hundreds of most graceful, eye-charming designs, that can be painted in any color scheme. Our skilled decorators advise you, free, about colors, if you wish.
