FIGHTING TO NO PURPOSE.

The Citizen, a conservative paper, is persuaded that the government has the best of the situation at Ottawa. "The objections of the opposition," it observes, "are twofold, first that reciprocity will be injurious to the trade of the country at large, and secondly, that it will tend towards annexation. As to the latter, it would be a matter of years to demonstrate this point either way. But the trade advantages or disadvantages will commence to demonstrate themselves almost immediately after the bill is passed, and the advantages will be much quicker to develop for the reason above stated, than any disadvantage that may result. The government, therefore, will be placed in a favorable position to decide whether to bring on redistribution at an early session next year and immediately go to the country, or, if all goes well, to wait until the end of the usual parliamentary term." It concludes that "the government seems to have the inside track to every phase of the situation," and it is this consciousness which makes the members so acrimonious, so quarrelsome, so ready to take and give offence. The session, so far since its resumption, has been attended by a spirit and feeling of the bitterest kind.

KINGSTON'S RAILWAY NEEDS.

The Canadian Northern railway has begun the construction of its road from Yarker eastward. Connection will be had with the western division later, and the village will be crossed by the road. A thousand pities that the city cannot have a close and convenient link with this new enterprise for the good it would have upon the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific companies, from which concessions can be secured only with the greatest difficulty. In Belleville the Grand Trunk was represented for many years in a very indifferent way, but the C.P.R. is finding it advantageous to get as near to the front as possible. It is running through that city and so is the Canadian Northern, and at once the Grand Trunk is being placed in a position to compete with them for the business of the district. Kingston should be better served with the railways. An improvement has long been sought in vain. The Canadian Northern could make the others take notice by its better connection with the city, and it may be had through the Bay of Quinte railway, which has running powers over the Kingston and Pembroke from Kingston to Harrowsmith. Mackenzie & Mann are credited with the ownership of the local or district railway, and if they have it there will be something doing.

LIES, LIES, AND MORE LIES.

On dit that the Americans who are interested in reciprocity will put up large campaign funds with which to carry the elections in Canada. A very likely story. It originated in the cranium of some correspondent whose occupation is not properly directed. He is a fictionist, and should confine his labours to fiction.

Of a piece with this story about the American money is the story that early in the year, when reciprocity was launched, the league which was organized in Quebec to oppose it put up half a million dollars, and that from this fund has been financed the campaign which the conservative party has conducted. The flushness of the party in funds suggested something, and that something the young man with the fertile mind was ready to divine.

The alleged sequel to the story is that the Anti-Reciprocity League has been annulled with the results of Mr. Borden's tour in the west, and especially with his reference to certain features of his public ownership programme. If it is said, further, that the league called him to account for his indiscretion, and that he replied in a spirited way, and informed his reprovers that he did not propose to accept their dictation.

Once more it is rumored that the liberals are demoralized, that they do not like the midsummer session without indemnity, that they have not responded to the calls of the whip, and that the premier is worried in consequence. The French members are somewhat scarce, but it may be that some of them are absent as the result of an arrangement by which the attendance of members is reduced to meet the contingencies of business.

The session of parliament is not a convenience to any one, and it is probably putting all its members more or less about. It is probable, too, that one side suffers quite as much as the other and that the loyalty of one side to the leader is quite as great as the loyalty of the other side to its leader. The yaras some men spin, and the the yaras some papers print, are not correct, and the authors of them should be suppressed. Political life is irksome enough, and trying enough, without the concurrence of misrepresentation with malice forethought.

BOURASSA'S CAMPAIGN

Canadian Autonomy Cry—Relentless Opposition to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Montreal, Que., July 29.—Henri Bourassa and the nationalist leaders are making every possible arrangement to continue the fight which they have undertaken against Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the liberals. They have just announced a programme which covers a series of meetings in about a dozen rural constituencies. Under the severe treatment meted out to them by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Mr. Bourassa and his associates kept quiet for some weeks. Now, while refraining from answering Mr. Lemieux's charges, they continue their slanderous allegations against the liberal minister. Mr. Lemieux has shown that Henri Bourassa is a disgruntled office-seeker, and the nationalist leader has never refuted the charges made by the postmaster-general. He showed that Mr. Bourassa sulked because he was neither called to the cabinet, given the deputy speakership, nor the postmastership of Montreal. As a result he turned against the liberal party, and is now doing all in his power to drive them out of office.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Friends, visitors, and veterans, welcome to our homes and hospitality! The public decorations in honour of the visiting friends of other days are going up. Let us hope that the city will be given a gala appearance.

Election bets are numerous in Ottawa that if there is an election now the conservative contingent in the next parliament will be weaker than it is now.

It is the current opinion that if Mr. Borden fails in the next election he will retire from politics. He will, in that event, share in the glories of many distinguished men.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, according to the Intelligencer, would rather have the nationalists than the liberals. Bourassa & Bowell makes a nice party name and means a nice political combination.

The Archbishop of Ottawa has confirmed the report that his successor as the head of the diocese of Kingston will be Rev. Father Spratt. The church will certainly prosper under his guidance. He is a man of mild but masterful ways.

Let us hope that the investigating committee will get at the bottom of the troubles in medical examinations. The students are entitled to all that is coming to them from the Medical Council, and if they have suffered from the body that is paid to protect them, there will be an eruption.

Austin Chamberlain, at a banquet of insurgents, was hailed as the next premier. He liked the acclamation. It tickled his vanity. His father's ambition in this direction was never gratified, and his father was an able man. Waiting for men's shoes is sometimes a depressing occupation.

Timothy L. Woodruff, a prominent New York politician, has retired from the chairmanship on the King's county republican committee, after a service of eight years. In that time he gave his time and money to the cause. Now he's cast off—that is what his retirement means. The average man who labours for his party is a fool.

The Corn Trade News is figuring upon an export of only 80,000,000 bushels of grain, from Canada. The idea is that the production within the empire will be sufficient, and that of Canada's crop only 80,000,000 will be required. Some people are never satisfied except they are grouching. Pessimists with a big P.

If the Canadian Tories would only take a lesson from the British Tories, and abandon their turbulent ways, all would be well. The British party has been had enough, but it now promises to be good, and will be forgiven. There is some hope for the Canadian party. If necessary the electors, like an indulgent parent, will chastise the erring ones.

The Belleville Intelligencer—Sir Mackenzie Bowell's paper—makes this kindly reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier: "No man in Canadian public life has received more attention at the hands of political calumniators. In forty years, however, no opponent has been so base as to utter a slander which touched his personal honor, the purity of his private life, or the righteousness of his character."

THE WIFE OF THE BLIND SENATOR AND HER BABY.

From the viewpoint of the average citizen, there is no more interesting figure in national life than Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma on the score of his ability and his wife shares with him the general regard of the public, by reason of the vast help she has afforded her husband in furthering his personal and political interests.

Charged With Stealing Secrets.

Cracow, Galicia, July 29.—Considerable sensation has been caused in St. Petersburg society, says the Czaz, by the arrest of Mme. Krasinska, a ballet dancer, on a charge of espionage. Some time ago the Russian military authorities became aware of the fact that important military secrets were leaking out, and suspicion fell on Mme. Krasinska. Her house was searched, and such a quantity of compromising material was declared to have been discovered that the lady was arrested.

For Skin Aflame.

Many of the itching and burning eruptions of the skin cause as acute suffering as though the skin was actually burnt. Ordinary remedies give no relief but Wade's Ointment stops the burning almost instantly. The Craze for Excitement.

Montreal Star. We regard with amazed horror the brutal and degraded Spaniards who still maintain bull-fights in spite of the protests of worthy people in Great Britain, Canada, and the United States, and yet the mortality of the bull-fighting is not half that of the ordinary automobile race and there is a certain skill and activity required in a successful forerunner which would be quite useless to a local hero who achieves fame by shooting Niagara Falls in a barrel.
