AT DEATH'S DOOR FROM KIDNEY DISEASE
SAVED ONLY BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"
CLANBRASSIE, ONT.
 "Two years ago, the doctor made forty-four calls on me, and then said he had done all he could for me. I was suffering with intense Kidney Trouble and inflammation had set in. Two other doctors were consulted and agreed that nothing could be done to help me. On the recommendation of a neighbor, I took "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. To-day, I take "Fruit-a-tives" as my only medicine. I am in excellent health, and my "Fruit-a-tives" is the medicine that cured me after I had been at Death's Door for months. I am glad to be able to give you this testimonial. It may benefit some other woman suffering as I suffered, as I believe that I would not be alive to-day had I not used "Fruit-a-tives."
 Mrs. P. E. WEBBER.

DEATH OF A BURGLAR
FORCES A CONFESSION FROM A CASHIER.
 Who Tells a Strange Story of an Attempt to Destroy Books so as to Conceal a Theft.
 New York, Aug. 9.—As a result of the alleged attempt to destroy the records of the Long Dock Mills and Elevator in Jersey City to conceal a shortage of $2,500 in the accounts of Samuel Brown, the cashier, Brown and Patrick J. Timmons, an expert accountant, are in jail there under the charge of arson, conspiracy and manslaughter.
 The police hold a confession, bearing Brown's signature, telling of his plans for the crime and naming Timmons, his good friend, as an accomplice. Frank Walsh, known as "Lightning," the burglar who was hired to do the job, died to-day of his burns.
 Brown was arrested when he reported for work. His employers told the police that experts had been examining the accounts during the previous week and had set to-day for examining the books. Brown told the detectives that he had been short since January 1st, and that Timmons had worked on the books, he a friend, for three months trying to cover up his tracks. Brown's alleged confession read as follows:
 "About 1.30 p.m. I met Timmons in a saloon in Jersey City. We had been talking about destroying the books for the past two months, as I was short in my accounts. Timmons said he could get a man in Newark to do the job, and we took a trolley car to the Newark roadhouse to get the man. Timmons left me there, but returned in half an hour with Walsh. The three of us took an automobile to Jersey City. I held no conversation with Timmons or the man about the case, as we agreed not to talk about it in Walsh's presence. On the way back we stopped at a garage and bought a five-gallon can of gasoline. About 9.30 we went to the office of the Long Dock Mills.
 "I opened the door and the three of us went in. I then opened the safe door and took out three check books and the cash book. Walsh held the books over the gas jet and set them on fire. I watched them set one book on fire and then I left them there to go back home to New York. I did not know anything about the fire until this morning.
 "Did you agree to pay Timmons and Walsh anything for destroying the books?" the detectives asked.
 "No, I did not," reads the confession. "Timmons did it for me out of friendship."
 The police did not tell Brown upon arresting him that Walsh had died in his attempt. Instead they tried to bring down his defense, and falling, one of them said, irrelevantly: "Walsh died at five o'clock this morning."
 Brown gripped the chair. His breath came hard and his eyes stared.
 "My God!" he gasped. "I can't have a man's death on my soul." Then he told his story.
 Timmons was arrested near his home in Newark. He had been out until five o'clock, his wife told the police, and was very nervous when he got up. They found him at a nearby saloon.
 "I have nothing to say," he told them, and he stuck to the phrase. The detectives kept at him all afternoon and night, but in vain. The safe was found intact, although the police, at first glance, thought that its door had been blown from its hinges.
 There was no evidence of an explosion, the firemen say, but plenty of evidence to show that gasoline had been used liberally. The books, however, although soaked with the fluid, were only charred about the edges.

Cured Awful Ringworm
 "Well over four years ago my two little girls were taken with a dreadful scaly trouble that the doctors called ringworm. They attended the Hospital as out-patients for a year. I had to apply their ointments with a brush, giving the children frightful pain. I also had to have their heads shaved every two weeks, but they got no better under the treatment. They used to cry with the tormenting itching, and their heads were covered with a thick scurf and dandruff.
 "About a year ago I determined to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used plenty of Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment. I used only about three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and they were cured. Their hair is growing long and nice again. They had become so ill after their three years of suffering that I had to send one away to a convalescent home as soon as she was cured, but now she is home, well and strong. My younger girl was away from school nine months with the disease. I am very grateful to Cuticura and for the children's sake I hope other mothers will try it. The Cuticura Soap will always use for it makes the hair so lovely."

HOPEFUL JONES WRITES
 Concerning the Funny Features of the Campaign.
 Toronto Globe.
 Bear Bill: Here is a pointer that you want to get into your head and fasten there with a nail.
 "You want to forget everything about the campaign except your own part of it, and that is to give as many voters as you can the two-dollar bimby drink that changes them into rinks, and then (whoop, Bill, whoop!)
 If you try to keep an eye on what our honored leaders are doing you will get as badly mixed up as a one-eyed kid at a three-ringed circus. Down in Quebec they are howling that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is an imperialist, who wants to surrender all Canadian rights; in Ontario they are yelling that he is an anti-imperialist who is trying to break up the empire, and in every other part of the country they are saying anything that will win votes. That sort of thing is good politics, Bill, good tory politics, but it is mighty confusing. At first I tried to keep track of what is going on and do some arguing with the grits, but I soon got so badly tangled as the man who was kicked down a spiral staircase. I wasn't hurt, but the grits, putting up a good-natured campaign, but I was fatally twisted.
 But I am not doing any more arguing. I have forgotten everything except that I am one of the apigots on the campaign barrel and I advise you to do the same. We want to get back into power, and as the poet says, "That's all you know, and all you need to know." Keep on—crowds where there is talk going on that might mix you up. Deal with one man at a time and let the money talk. If you happen to get into a crowd don't argue. Just whoop, Bill, whoop!
 Yours wisely,
 Hopeful Jones.

A FURNACE THAT WILL GIVE YOU AS MUCH HEAT FROM SIX TONS OF COAL, AS YOU EVER GOT FROM SEVEN, IS ONE YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO OVERLOOK.

"Hecla" Furnace
 The "Hecla" will do this: It is built to save coal at every point, but the big coal-saving feature is the Steel Ribbed Fire Pot. By adding Steel Ribs to the Fire Pot the surface which radiates heat is increased three times.
 Every Furnace has flanges or projections of some sort on the fire pot to get more radiating surface, because the heating capacity of the fire pot increases as you increase the radiating surface. But the "Hecla" is the only Furnace that has attained the greatest possible radiating surface and the reason is that where other Furnaces have clumsy cast-iron flanges, the flanges on the "Hecla" are made of steel plate and fused to the fire pot casting by our patent process.
 A test extending over three years, demonstrated that this ribbed fire pot made a saving in coal—13%.
 Isn't that worth looking into?
 Ask someone who owns a "Hecla."
