STEAMER LOST A WHEEL

STEAMER GERONIA MET WITH A MISHAP.

Wheel Was Picked up in Cornwall Canal, and Will be Placed on Vessel at Dry Dock—Marine Notes Around the Kingston Harbor.

The new steamer Geronia arrived at Folger's wharf, on Thursday morning, at 4.30 o'clock, from Quebec and Montreal. On the way, the vessel suffered a slight mishap, when she lost one of her wheels, in the Cornwall canal. Luckily, the wheel was located, however, and the steamer Alexandria will bring it along to Kingston, on her regular trip, Friday night.

As a result of the accident, all the passengers for Belleville and Picton, were given transportation home by train, at Kingston, and the steamer continued its trip to Charlotte. The Geronia will return to Kingston, and have the wheel placed on, at the dry dock.

This steamer Donnacona passed down, on Thursday morning. The steamship John Randall is at Richardson's elevator, loading grain, for Washburn.

The schooner Marshall and Kitchen are at the penitentiary loading stone, for Toronto, and the schooner Julia H. Merrill loaded with coal, from Charlotte, is unloading coal at that wharf. M. T. Co's elevator—Steamer Glanmount loaded, with rails, from Sydney, cleared last night for Port William, with the barge Quebec, in tow; tug Mary, from Montreal, with Standard Oil barge No. 86; tug Mary P. Hall, from Montreal, with two light barges, cleared for Montreal, with two grain barges; tug Mary cleared for Montreal, with two grain barges; tug Emerson, cleared for Port Dalhousie, with oil barge No. 86, and barge Selkirk, for Ashtabula.

A new sidewheel steamboat, which will be licensed to carry 6,000 passengers, the largest number in the history of steam navigation, is being constructed for the Hudson River day line. It will be known as the Washington Irving. The Washington Irving will have a steam-propelled speed of twenty-four miles an hour, is expected to make twenty-seven miles when running with the tide. She will carry on freight and will have no sleeping accommodations for passengers. Steel plate glass and asbestos will be used extensively in her construction. At Swift's wharf—The steamer Toronto and North King down, to-day; steamer Rideau King cleared for Ottawa, this morning; steamer Quinte Queen cleared for Picton, this morning.

LATE MRS. DAVID MACNAB. The Remains Came From Lethbridge for Burial Here.

Mrs. David MacNab died in Lethbridge on Saturday, August 5th, at the age of eighty-two years. Death was due to old age. Mrs. MacNab was born in Scotland in the year 1829 and married to David MacNab in 1847.

In 1862 they came to Kingston, and Mr. MacNab was employed as section foreman on the Grand Trunk railway. He died in 1883, but the family remained in Kingston, until 1871, when they left here. Later Mrs. MacNab went to live with her brother, Thomas, at Lethbridge. Mrs. MacNab is survived by three sons and four daughters: Thomas, of Lethbridge; David, of Minneapolis; Frederick, of Belleville; Mrs. Nelson, of Vancouver; Mrs. Burnett, Lethbridge; Mrs. Ohagan, Lethbridge; and Mrs. Kane, Regina.

Mrs. MacNab was well known in the city. The funeral took place from Corbett's undertaking parlors, at Cataract cemetery, on Thursday, and service was held at the grave for the Kingston friends. A service was held at Lethbridge before the remains left for Kingston. Thomas and David MacNab accompanied the remains. Mr. or Burnett, of Lethbridge, also came. The remains were laid by the side of deceased's husband, who is buried at Cataract cemetery, as it was her last wish to rest here.

Thomas MacNab, Lethbridge, is friend and master of the Masonic order of Alberta, and a very nice wreath was sent by the order.

TRY IT.

Why not give reciprocity a trial at least? Approval now does not necessarily mean the adoption of a permanent policy. A law passed at next session putting reciprocity in force can be repealed at any subsequent session. Another election must of necessity be held in a very short time, probably within two years, and if reciprocity does not in the meantime meet with the approval of our people, they can say so at the polls. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Let us try the taste of the reciprocity for a couple of years anyhow.—The Weekly Sun, Toronto.

Caught a Good Fish.

When the Roman Catholic archbishop of Kingston was translated to Ottawa, there was mourning in Kingston. "Be of good cheer," came the message from the Vatican, "there are good fish in the sea as those that came out of it." And so the Rev. J. Spratt, of Belleville, was made archbishop of Kingston. Hamilton Herald.

A Fisherman's Mishap.

Capt. Kennedy, of the city, has returned from Flower, where he enjoyed a few days' fishing. He had a narrow escape from being drowned, on Tuesday. The captain was in a small boat, and had two lines out. The fish were so numerous that in a short time, he had a bite on each line. A big bass, however, carried off his rod, and in trying to recover it, the captain tumbled into the drink, and had some difficulty in hauling himself back into his boat.

J. F. Pappa, Watertown, N.Y., for master of Newburgh, has gone to Lake Bonaparte. His health is poor.

BUILDING OF ROADS

PAVING TO BE FINISHED BY END OF SEPTEMBER.

Two and a Half Miles of Macadam Road to be Built This Season—Good Work is Being Done.

City Engineer Craig expects that the paving of Clarence, King, Brock and Wellington streets will be completed before the first of October. According to contract, the work is to be finished by Sept. 25th. There were several delays in getting well started, but it is expected that with good weather, the progress from now on will be rapid. King street, from Clarence to Brock will next be started.

The engineer does not think that asphaltic macadam will be laid this year. He agrees that well-laid limestone macadam is quite sufficient for the residential streets. Wellington street, from Princess to Place D'Armes, just completed, is a good sample of a macadam roadway, and if kept in repair, should last for years. The traffic on this street is heavy. At present, the steam roller is finishing Montreal street, and will then go to William street, above Bagot. Later, Princess street, from Division to Alfred, and Union street, from Barrie to Alfred will be macadamized. The city engineer expects to build two and a half miles of macadam roadway by the first week of November.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

An Error Corrected.

St. Lawrence, Wolfe Island, Aug. 9. (To the Editor): With reference to the Wolfe Island assault case as published in the Whig, some of the statements were untrue, especially the one which stated that Barry's stock was in O'Brien's grain. This is absolutely false, as Mr. Barry is not a person who allows any of his stock off his own farm. But on the other hand, O'Brien's hogs were in Barry's grain. And again the case was settled by O'Brien paying all costs and signing an agreement before the magistrate to keep his animals off the Barry property. Mr. Rigney did appear for Mr. O'Brien, but returned to the city on the one o'clock boat previous to the opening of the case, which was held on Friday afternoon in the town hall, and so did not plead the case of his client.—WOLFE ISLANDER AND ONE WHO KNOWS.

BOTTLES ON STREET A BIG SUCCESS SHOWS KINGSTON HAS MANY BOTTLE DRINKERS. City Scavenger Secures Quite a Collection of Flasks, etc., on His Rounds—Also Quite a Number at the Police Station. Have you ever taken notice of the large number of empty whiskey bottles on the street, particularly in the morning? Perhaps the average reader has not noticed the bottles, but in the future if some attention is given to it, bottles, in large numbers, will be found. A Whig reporter noticed the city scavenger gathering up a number of whiskey flasks off the street, yesterday afternoon, and just for information, he asked him if he had to pick many bottles up. "Well, I should say so," he replied, "about a carload in a week, and sometimes more. This goes to show that there is a great deal of what might be termed 'bottle drinking' in the city, that is that there are a very large number who indulge who purchase a flask or a bottle and drink it on the street or in the house, and then throw the empty bottle on the street, preferring to drink from the bottle than at the bar. Then again, the police court records show that there is a great deal of bottle drinking in the city, as the majority of people gathered in on a charge of drunkenness, have a bottle in their possession. As almost any time, quite a large collection of bottles can be found at the police station, of all sizes and descriptions. It may be somewhat of a surprise to some, but it is a fact that many of these bottles are picked upon the main streets, although the majority are on the side streets. Take a walk along some of the streets in the morning, and you will see quite a number. Sunday morning, after the Saturday night drinking, you would be greatly surprised at the number of 'empties' that could be counted. The 14th Regimental band had another engagement for tonight, and for this season, the usual weekly band concert has been postponed until Friday night. Steamer America makes another of her popular trips to Brockville and Ogdensburg, Friday, 8 a.m.—50c. Miss Essie Gordon has arrived from New York, where she has been residing for the past two years. She will remain with her parents, Lower Union street, for a lengthy visit. "Abdulla cigarettes." Gibson's.
