Terrible Itching Got Little Sleep

Until Cuticura Remedies Cured Him

Those who have suffered long and hopelessly from torturing skin eruptions will read with interest this letter from Mr. T. Williams, 315 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg (dated Jan. 14, 1911). "The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work for me, and I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried once or two remedies which did no good, and then I tried Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. In about ten days I was completely cured."

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for itching, burning, scaly and bleeding skin and scalp diseases, of young and old. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 25-pb. book on the care of the skin and treatment of its afflictions, send a postal to the Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., 21 Columbia Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

REFRESHING TALK

W. A. FRASER, WELL KNOWN AUTHOR ON BUSINESS FACTS.

The Opposition a Motley Crew—No Chance of Fulfillment With It, for Which the Fates Should be Thanked.

Toronto Star.
"Personally," said W. A. Fraser, of Georgetown, the well-known author, "I have voted conservative all my life. For four generations my ancestors have voted conservative in Nova Scotia. I would not vote conservative at the coming election if it were purely a political issue. If two ships were leaving Montreal for England, one manned by an experienced crew and the other by a gang of mutineers who had foregathered from several sinking ships, which craft would the wise man take? The group of conservatives who have organized themselves into a joint stock company to run Canada resemble nothing so much as the Greeks before Troy. If it should happen that they push the wooden horse named 'anti-reciprocity' into Ottawa, what a Donkeybrook there will be. Borden is an imperialist. Bourassa is anti-British. Foster hopes that something will come his way if the fight waxes fierce, and Stton will sulk in his tent unless the chief glory is his.

"I believe in reciprocity. The farmer cannot lose and he will get a bigger market. The workman, the backbone of the country, will get cheap food. If the workman wants to know how to vote let his go through the residential sections of Toronto where there are houses costing from $15,000 to $200,000, and each with its automobile. The price of meat is nothing to the owners. Let him realize that protection has given all these things. Less than twenty per cent. of Canadian manufacturers fail. They are getting up. It is claimed that the American manufacturers will come over. Let them come. They will pay our workmen better wages.

"Has Canada done well? We are a rich country, and have only enough people to fill New York state. "I see," continues Mr. Fraser, "that a Canadian cement merger has just been formed by the assistance of $18,500,000 of English capital. Our trusts are more dangerous than those in the United States. How do they stand on the question of reciprocity? They are solid against it. In the histories of all nations there has always been a war between the privileged classes, the holders of large opportunities, and the working classes, the real developers of the country. But the prophecy of a dire disaster comes from high places. The rooster crows, but the hens lay the eggs.

"It is claimed that reciprocity will destroy the products of cities. There was never anything produced in a city except a human child. Everything of value in the city comes from outside of it, from the soil, the mine, the forest, and the water. It is only handled and improved in the city.

"Leave well enough alone," is a puerile argument. It is as sensible as to frighten a child by telling him that outside the circle of light in which he can see ghosts hover. During the last few decades the farmers have secured most of the comfort of the life and are as far removed from the conditions of their progenitors as they were removed from those surrounding the market, and let the good work continue?"

"The animosity assumed and expressed by men who seek to make political capital out of annexation is enough to cause fair-minded Canadians to assist in the destruction of these class and anti-good-will thoughts. Probably not one man in ten thousand believes that there is the remotest possibility of annexation. Let him ask himself, his friends, or his family. He ought to take himself as an average British subject. There are exceptions. Some men still believe that the earth is flat. Some very charming and learned men believe in spiritualism. I know a man who had been a mariner, an intelligent, charming man, who imagined that a nut had become loose on a bolt in his head and insisted that he could hear it bumping. Similarly many delightful Canadians are hearing the file and drum of the annexation army."

A Bad Prophet.
Conservative journals are quoting Sir Charles Tupper against reciprocity in 1897. Sir Charles Tupper was quite sure that the tariff containing the British preference would ruin Canadian industry. Here is what he said on April 26th, 1897:
"The result is that this tariff goes into operation and the hon. gentleman knows that the industries of the country are already paralyzed in consequence. While the hon. members gloat, vindictively gloat, over the destruction of Canadian industries, I read, in the Montreal Gazette, where one manufacturer after another declared that their industries were ruined, that their mills must close, and that they saw staring them in the face a return to the deplorable state of things that existed when the hon. gentleman who last addressed the house was in charge of the fiscal policy. I say that a deeper wrong was never inflicted upon Canada."
Sir Charles Tupper was a bad prophet in 1897. Is he to be regarded as an infallible judge of reciprocity in 1911?

The Price of Glory.
Montreal Witness.
Does one know that Mr. Borden's present anti-reciprocity attitude was forced upon him by the interests as the price of his continued leadership? Does one know that even now the political henlock rump is prepared for him, and that after the defeat of the party on September 21st it will be presented to his lips and that his dear fatherless of today will force him to drink it?

Kipling Favors Food Tax.
Montreal Herald.
Burdward Kipling is against reciprocity. In England also he is in favor of taxing the people's food. He has lent his forefend pen to the food-taxers during three successive elections. And every time the food-taxers were beaten.

THESE MEN ARE ALIVE.

And They Favored Reciprocity Until It Was in Sight.

Mr. Stton says that in trade policy Canadians should not be guided by dead men. Here are a few live ones who favored reciprocity until they found that a liberal government could obtain reciprocity.

- JOHN GEORGE E. FOSTER, ex-minister of finance, University Magazine, December, 1910.
- T. CHISHOLM, conservative member for East Hillon, house of commons, Nov. 24th, 1910. Also in Toronto Weekly Sun, August 19th, 1910.
- W. B. NORTHROP, conservative member for East Hastings, Nov. 24th, 1910.
- F. D. MONK, conservative member for Jacques Cartier, house of commons, Nov. 22nd, 1910.
- W. D. REID, M.P., conservative member for Grenville, house of commons, March 30th, 1910.
- JOHN HERRON, conservative member for Marleed, favors reciprocity to-day.
- WILLIAM WRIGHT, conservative member for Muskoka, Toronto Weekly Sun, August 15th, 1910.
- W. H. SHARPE, conservative member for Lisgar, Manitoba, house of commons, April 15th, 1910.
- J. W. EDWARDS, conservative member for Frontenac, house of commons, Jan. 21st, 1910.

WE HAVE BIG TRADE.

Trade between Canada and the United States is nothing new. It has been going on ever since confederation, and at the present time Canada does more trade with the states than with any other nation. Last year our trade totalled $336,000,000, nearly a million a day. If there was free trade in natural products our exports would double in a year.

Excursion to Western Canada.

The Grand Trunk railway system announces that on Tuesday, August 8th and 22nd, September 5th and 19th, 1911, home-seekers' excursions will be run to Western Canada, via Chicago and Duluth or via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, at reduced round-trip fares.

The double track line of the Grand Trunk to Chicago, appeals to the traveller, and with the superior train service offered, including the famous "International Limited," many passengers will be attracted this way. The route via Chicago is interesting. Baggage is carried in bond without requiring special attention. Inspection is not necessary.

The sale of tickets is also authorized via Sarina and the Northern Navigation company's magnificent steamers. For further particulars apply to any agent of the Grand Trunk railway system.

What Taft Said.

A great deal is being made of a statement of President Taft in his message to the United States houses of congress, in which he spoke of the "parting of the ways." The conservative party here distort the meaning of this by claiming that he intimated that Canada was ultimately to be annexed to that country. His statement was really to the effect that Canada must decide whether she desired to remain isolated with a high tariff wall or let it down and create commerce between the two countries.

John Killip Osborne, formerly of Picton, was married at Ishpeming, Mich., recently, to Miss Mabel Belle Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philo P. Chase.

Some bachelor quarters really look like thirty cents.

EVERYONE TO BENEFIT

WHEN RECIPROCITY COMES INTO EFFECT.

The Montreal Herald Shows How the Consumer Will Gain When the Duty Comes Off Produce.

Just think for a moment of the Montreal Herald. In the din and confusion and confusion and shifting of interests that make up so large a part of the fight in the election campaign probably no body pauses to consider so harmonious and beautiful thing as the cycle of the seasons and the wonderful table for all the months of the year that Providence and nature have spread for the people of this continent. When full consideration is given to these things the prospect of reciprocity must surely gladden the hearts of industrious men and women who are entitled to the comforts as well as the necessities of life.

It is not reasonable and logical to consider that we shall have more food, better food and cheaper food if we are given the opportunity as we freely availing ourselves of the varied and abundant food supply of the entire continent?

The Canadian farmer is not hurt for the reason that he cannot supply these products of the table at the season they come to us from the states. On the contrary he will gain because the United States market will be open to him when his brother farmer across the border can no longer supply its needs.

For instance there is the potato. The Canadian article is not on the market during part of the year. Canadians must get their supply from the states. The duty on potatoes coming into Canada amounts to $43,000 a year and in addition to these there are $7,700 on yams or sweet potatoes. These duties are paid by the Canadian consumers. Under reciprocity potatoes and yams will come in free.

Under reciprocity poultry is placed on the free list. Canada imports $35,000 worth of dead poultry and the consumer pays a duty of $10,000 on what is imported. That will be saved when the agreement is ratified after the government is returned to power. Canada imports yearly from the states $650,000 worth of fresh vegetables such as cabbages, onions, tomatoes and upon these the duties amount to nearly $200,000. Everybody knows of course that these are imported at the season the Canadian farmer cannot supply fresh vegetables for at any other time they would not bear the freight charges. Under reciprocity the duty will be saved.

The same thing is true with regard to fresh fruit such as apples, cherries, peaches, berries, cranberries, plums, pears, quinces, etc., of which over $1,200,000 were imported from the states last year. The duties on these amounted to $250,000. All the houses in which these fruits are used will benefit by these duties being abolished.

On the other hand the Canadian farmers will have the benefit of a free market in the states for their wheat, barley, hay, oats, cattle, horses and hogs at price that generally rule higher in the United States than in Canada.

A pleasing event took place on Wednesday, when Joseph Lappin and Miss Penne Patience, of Warburton, were married.

Cooks on top of the stove, bakes in oven at same time
You can cook over every pot-hole and bake in Pandora oven at same time—and get perfect results. That's because cooking draft is also baking draft. Flues are so constructed that heat passes directly under every pot-hole and around oven twice before passing up chimney. No wasted heat—instead fuel does double duty, saving Pandora owners both time and money.

EAST INDIAN COSTUMES THE LAST CRY IN PARIS.
Since the visit of the East Indian potentates to the coronation in June, East Indian costume effects have become the rage. Of all the Oriental types of costume the East Indian is the most pleasing, for colors are soft and rich without being garish and materials are especially graceful. Fringe plays an important part, and short, hip-length tunics girdled with a knotted and fringed sash are a feature of such costumes. The frock pictured has a blue crepe de chine petticoat trimmed with fringe and a little tunic coat of green chiffon embroidered with a "tree of life" design in blue and cream floss.
