Reciprocity Between Canada and United States.

EXCEPT TO THE POCKETS OF CAPITALISTS.

The Labor Unions Have Always Recognized Reciprocity-A Question of Great Interest to Labor Men-

Calgary, Sept. 11 .- "Your executive does not hesitate to say that it believes that the reciprocal agreement between Canada and the United States people" is the way part of a clause read that was presented to-day at Calgary, by the executive of Trades and Labor Congress of ada, at the opening session of twenty-seventh annual convention, the delegates there represent many thousands of working man, members of the congress and in sympathy with inter-The executive report on reciprocity

"If other proof of this were wanting the fact that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association is against it, would be sufficient to prove it must organization is never tired of proclaiming its love for 'free' labor, cause that helps its pocket. Reciprocity has long been recognized in the international trade movement, and we see no danger to anything but the pockets of a few interested capitalists in permitting the people of the two countries to swap knives if they see fit to do so without the interference of exchange of benefits. The Trades and Labor Congress. declared itself on the subject at Brockville and before the tariff commission, and should reiterate its position."

This clause in the executive report on this side of the lines and thus of thousands on the other, for it practically shows how union men feel on this question. It is a recommendation to the congress; was presented by the executive, composed of William Gleckling, president, Toronto; Gustave Francq, Montreal, and P. M. Draper, Ottawa, and is likely to carry. From a political standpoint it will be most interesting recommendation be-

The report goes on to review matters pertaining to interviews that the representatatives of the congress have had with the federal during the past twelve months, tells of progress made in legislation affecting labor unions, and the work of their parliamentary representative, J. G. O'Donoghue, and advised careful consideration of the

 THE FARMERS' CHANCE.

Sir John Macdonald told the farmers of this country that they must be the most contentthey never asked for anything-A year ago they asked for something, and the world sat up and listened, and our government sat up and listened, and in response to that demand and that demand only, they have acted in this reciprocity matter. If we do not take this now, will any government in the future ever listen to any demand from the farmers? "This is not a party fight in the usual sense. It is a fight on this one issue raised by the farmers. Will you turn down your own fequest and place the tarmers of this country in a position where they will never ask for anything again ?-E. C. Drury, president of the Ontario Farmers' Association, at Malvern.

A Plain Issue. Weekly Sun, Toronto.

If ever there was an election in Canmany on the other, surely this is that one. The men who form the backbone of the anti-reciprocity forces are the packers with their fifty per cent. dividends; the malsters who have been buying Canadian barley at an average of nineteen cents below Buffalo prices, and financiers and promoters who have become millionaires by the floating of mergers which the present system renders possible. On the other side is the great mass of unorganized farmers who are asking simply that they be allowed to sell certain of their products in what, but for an artificial barrier, to be removed under reiprocity, would be for them the ghest market in the world. Surely with the issue so plain, with the reason for the opposition so manifest, no farmer can doubt on which side his ballot should be cast.

AL BUS LE POWER

torthern Ontario Mine Has a Remarkable System.

Place in a mining camp a modern department store completely equipped with telephone service and automobile delivery and selling bydraulic energy over the counter in hundred pound packages, and the city bred man may get a fair iden of what a power plant means to an industrial community 1,000 miles from its coal supply. Up in Northern Ontario acle than a brick flat with steam heat and porcelain tubs, for the miner can exist without a bath, but he can't uncover pay tock without power to drive the drills that do it. When the price of coal in Northern Ontario began to eat into the ore profits the miners harnessed the Montreal river for power.

Ragged Chutes, the point where the miners located their plant, is a natural water power in itself. It is ten miles from Cobalt. Here the river for about 1,000 yards whirls down a thirty-five foot grade and for four seasons in the year is a boiling.

The theory as practiced was to drop this surging tide down a 300 foot shaft near the top of the rapids. then to catch the air bubbles as they tose from the water, racing through a subterranean chamber toward a tail shaft leading up again to the bed of the river 1,000 feet down-

Building this power plant was about one hundred times more of a proposition than its originators foresaw. First the low masonry dam be of some value to the workers. This was completed, 660 feet across the river, the waterways thus erected having a capacity of 1,200 cubic feet per second. Immediately above the dam, in the centre of a large concrete basin, two eight-foot steel shafts, each containing sixty-six pipes fourteen inches in diameter. were sunk to a depth of 350 feet. A thousand feet downstream the other shaft was sunk into the rocky bed, and then in three shifts, and working day and night, the miners choper because of the freedom it enjoys ped a subterranean chamber connecting the two shafts at the upper end of the rapids with the single one at the lower. They cut this great underground raceway twenty-two feet wide along its entire length, twenty-six and a half feet high at the bottom of the shafts and forty-two feet high in the central part of the tunnel. The an extreme, but neither officers nor men will admit it. It was all in the day's work with them. Moreover, the camp at Cobalt had begun to taunt them, and they were going to finish he job or "bust." Across the ridges above the hole where the rapids roared gangs timber jacks in the meanwhile chopped a path straight through the men sunk to their armpits, were filled in with rock and timber, and before work on the power plant was completed they had laid seven miles of corduroy road for the big steel pipe line—this twenty inch lap welded pipe line of German steel, which was to carry the air eventually and was laid in sections as it arrived, the various loops and feeders ranging from twelve to three inches in

Diamonds In Quelec. -------

Mr. J. B. Tyrrell, the mining enwhole undertaking was hazardous to gineer, confirms the report published in a recent despatch from Ottawa that diamonds had been found in the eastern townships of Quebec. Some time ago, he said, diamonds had been discovered in chromite rock in British Columbia, which led to an examination of similar rock in Quebec. The diamonds found in the eastern townships were small, and it had yet to be determined whether shrub toward Cobalt. Scientific Methods.

That the field crops of the Dominion could be doubled in twenty years by its adoption of more scientific methods, is one of the striking assertions in a volume just issued on lands, fisheries, game and minerals, by the Dominion Commission of Conservation.
