

CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILDREN NEED GENTLE, THOROUGH CASCARETS.

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle, though thorough physic—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets, which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanses the little one's system, sweetens the stomach and puts the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Wedded at Allisonville. Allisonville, Sept. 26.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McPaul, on Sept. 20th, Miss Ellen J. Foster, who has been with them sixteen years, was quietly married to Arthur A. Reagenburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Hill in the presence of immediate friends. The couple were unattended. The home was nicely decorated with flowers and a very pleasant evening was spent. (Rev.) Mrs. Hill presided at the instrument. When the happy couple entered the drawing room Mrs. Hill played the wedding march. The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk and received useful presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold watch and chain, and from Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McPaul a set of dinner dishes.

Death of Perth Road Lady. Perth Road, Sept. 25.—On Friday morning, September 15th, the gentle spirit of Miss Emma Roberts left the weary body and passed to its eternal home. About one week ago, she was stricken with typhoid fever, and was improving when death came, due to heart failure. The disease was of a severe nature, demanding the care of a trained nurse, as also the loving care of her mother and sister. A great satisfaction to her and comfort to her dear ones, was her bright Christian life, with an unflinching trust in her Saviour. As she lay in death and was viewed by her many friends, there still lingered on her face traces of the sunny smile so common with her in life. In her death the community has sustained a loss, and showed many tokens of sympathy. Besides her aged father and mother, she leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Wagar, of Enterprise, and one brother, John, of Perth Road. The funeral was held at the Methodist church, Perth Road, conducted by Rev. J. A. Waddell, of Harrowsmith, Ont. Highest esteem for the dead, and tender sympathy for the living, was expressed by the large company present. Many friends came with their love tokens of beautiful flowers. The minister spoke from the text St. John xii-7: "Jesus answered and said unto Him, what I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter." The choir sang the familiar hymns, "Asleep in Jesus," "Don't You Know He Cares," "Only Trust Him." In the presence of many friends, the remains were laid to rest at Wilbur cemetery.

Mrs. C. W. Leadlay has returned from a lengthy visit with relatives at Toronto. Quite a number from here are going to Parham fair. A baby girl has arrived at the home of councillor James McCrever. Lewis Yanness is erecting a shop on the corner of his lot here. Joseph and Harrison Vandewater have gone to Cobalt. Mrs. R. E. Carl is visiting in Montreal. Miss Wright, Perth, has charge of the military department at T. H. Craig's general store. W. Stanford, Kingston, is visiting here. Henry McMullen, J.P., has a thoroughbred imported sow that lately gave birth to nineteen pigs in one litter. Miss Moreland, Sharpton, has resumed her classes in music here. Peter Bilmore, will soon be back from Niagara Falls to reside here again. Campbell's threshing machine is busy in the neighborhood. T. A. Albertson, V.S., has left here to reside in Kingston, where he will assist Dr. G. W. Hill in his extensive practice. He will be greatly missed in this community. Mrs. R. Williamson, visiting for some time at E. Martin's, has returned home to Syracuse, N.Y.

The total receipts from gate and stand for the four days of the Ordsburg fair amounted to $10,175.55 and the total attendance was 23,000. The excess of gate and stand receipts over last year was $1,508.35. Tony de Bruzen was fined twenty dollars and costs for selling liquor without a license in Belleville. The liquor was confiscated and destroyed.

MANY DISASTERS

In the History of the French Navy.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The explosion of the magazines of the battleship Liberte is the climax of a long series of disasters which have marked the history of the French navy.

The battleship Liberte was the type ship of the so-called Liberte class in the French navy—a boat of 14,900 tons displacement and an over-all length of 452 feet. She carried a crew of 793 men and bore four 12-inch guns, and ten guns of the French 7.6 inch type. She also had twenty-three small guns and four torpedo tubes. She was completed in 1907 at a cost of about $7,000,000.

The Liberte class battleship include the Democrati, the Justice, the Verite and the Liberte, all 18-knot vessels of the most modern type. They corresponded approximately to the five American battleships of the New Jersey class, including the Virginia, Georgia, Nebraska, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

The recent history of the French navy contains a series of disastrous accidents, most of them caused by explosions, and several occurring at Toulon, the scene of to-day's catastrophe. On March 12th, 1907, the battleship Iena was almost destroyed by the explosion of her magazine and 107 officers and men lost their lives. Until the Iena disaster stood as the greatest recent calamity suffered by the French navy in times of peace. Like the Liberte, the Iena was blown up in the harbor of Toulon, but the loss of life was less, mainly because the Iena remained afloat.

An investigation in an official report that it was due to spontaneous combustion of powder in a magazine where the temperature was too high on account of the proximity of the dynamo compartment. The report severely censured the organization of the navy and said: "The real cause of the disaster was the absence of accord, as well as the divisions and antagonisms existing in the different branches of the service. The distressing weakness of the central power explains the progressive weakening of our naval forces. Where will it lead us?" A Parliamentary committee appointed in 1907 presented a report scathingly condemning the naval administration of the past ten years, and recommending a complete reorganization with special attention to the elimination of red tape and the distribution of responsibility. Other notable French naval disasters of recent years were: October 10th, 1906—Submarine Lutin lost off Bizerta; thirteen dead. February 2th, 1907—Explosion on torpedo boat No. 339; nine dead. February 19th, 1907—Cruiser Jean Bart lost off the north-western coast of Africa; no deaths. August 13th, 1908—Gun exploded aboard schoolship Couronne at Toulon; six dead. September 23rd, 1908—Gun exploded aboard cruiser La Touche Treville at Toulon; thirteen dead. May 27th, 1910—Submarine Pluvios remained submerged after diving in the harbor of Calais; twenty-seven dead. September 20th, 1911—A gun exploded on the French armored cruiser Gloire at Toulon; one man was killed and thirteen others injured, five fatally. The Liberte, with the battleship Verite and the flagship Justice, represented the French government at the Hudson-Fulton celebration at New York two years ago.
