

ORANGE SENTINEL AND LE DEVOIR

Rejoice Over Laurier's Defeat—One Says He Was Tool of Papacy—Other Says He Sacrificed French-Canadian and Catholic Rights.

The Sentinel, of Toronto, the organ of the Orange order, in its first issue after the election, declared that chief among the other causes which operated to bring about the defeat of the government "was an aroused Protestantism." This is its summary of the situation:

"The obtrusive way in which the authorities of the Roman church have pushed their claims during the past five years was largely responsible for this. The surrender of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the ultra-montane, as discussed by the terms of the autonomy bills was the beginning. It offended thousands of liberals, which still sought for excuses for the government. But it stuck in their minds. And when the Eucharist congress assembled in Montreal the growing distrust of the government was strengthened far beyond the knowledge of the politicians.

"As the members of the government and the judiciary prostrated themselves before the emissary of the Pope the anger of the people began to grow. It increased to a formidable degree as Father Vaughan hurled his insults at all the Protestant churches and slandered the women of Protestantism. Following immediately after the re-temere decree was applied in different parts of the country in such a heartless fashion that Canadian manhood and womanhood was challenged to declare their opposition. The Protestants of Ontario accepted that challenge, and the result is recorded in the majority for Mr. Borden. . . . It was in that year (1904) the deal was made with the hierarchy by which the Laurier candidates received the support of the church and the church secured separate schools in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Ever since there has been accumulating evidence of the subservience to the ecclesiastics. . . . Why the priests in their cassocks were almost as numerous in the corridors of the parliament and in the gallery as were the members themselves. Protestant ministers were put out of their seats in the gallery which priests were who let drop one day this stinging and terrible sentence: 'M. Laurier has deceived me.'

"In the erection of the new provinces there was the same surrender, the same betrayal. And far from our profiting by French-Canadian prestige, a minister of our province, one Rodolph Lemieux, was found exerting himself in proving our inferiority, in denying the rights of our language, in placing it on the same footing as Polish or Russian in the provinces conquered by us for civilization, and where it had been until then constitutionally guaranteed. Whatever scraps of right and justice were saved from the shipwreck were owing to the energy and patriotism of the men whom the fallen ministerialists accuse to-day.

"If we are not forced to shut ourselves up on Sunday and submit to the yoke of an obsolete Puritanism to whom do we owe it? To Laurier or to Monk and Bourassa?

"When our compatriots, thanks to the energy of the admirable Young Catholics, rose en masse and addressed to parliament a petition covered with 500,000 signatures, demanding the simple equality of English and French in a province four-fifths French, what did Laurier and his satellites do? This touching and formidable demand for a most elementary right was received by some of them with indignation, by others with a roar of laughter.

"Whatever may be the future attitude of Mr. Borden with regard to the sectaries as well as our own nationality, it is not less true that if the prestige of Laurier is compromised, or ended, that of our province is increased. And why? Because our compatriots at least realize that their common interests ought to go before the glory of a single man; because in place of a troupe of slaves and voting machines, we have now an imposing group of deputies determined to stand erect against any attack on our rights. That is worth infinitely more than sixty deputies lying flat before a prime minister—although of our race—watching incessantly the compass card in order to turn with it."

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Pierce, Morristown, Friday, Oct. 6th, when their daughter, Maude, was united in marriage to Leland Ames.

"I won't marry you, Lester," she said irritably, "and I want you to stop asking me."

THE SPORT REVIEW

SOME NOTES ON THE WORLD'S BASEBALL SERIES.

Vancouver is After Toronto Lacrosse Players—Varsity II. Are Afloat of R.M.C. Rugby Team.

The Montreal A.A.A. will not back a professional hockey team.

The Varsity seconds are strong this season, but they admit that R.M.C. look mighty dangerous again.

The youngest man to go into the world baseball series is Melnes, of the Philadelphia Athletics. He celebrated his twenty-first birthday recently.

The Argonauts suffered a big loss, Tuesday night, when "Bill" Jarvis, their clever quarter back, had his shoulder-bone dislocated. This will keep him out of the game for the season.

"Eddie" Collins, the Philadelphia Athletics' star second baseman, once applied to Manager McFras for a try-out, but was turned down. He hopes to recall the incident to the New York Giants' leader in the coming series.

John Ganzel, manager of the Rochester Eastern League baseball team, set at rest reports to the effect that he was to manage the New York Americans next year, by signing a contract with the Rochester club owners for two years, with an option on his further services.

"Christy" Mathewson, familiarly known as "Big Six," who will be the New York Giants' mainstay in the world's series games, has pitched in six post-season championship games, and has won them all—a remarkable record, indeed.

The seating capacity of Shibe Park, Philadelphia, where the world's baseball series games will be played, is 25,000. It is expected that nearly 35,000 persons will witness the first game, however, as standing room in the enclosure will accommodate nearly ten thousand spectators.

The British Columbia Lacrosse Association, the professional organization in the Pacific province, is likely to expand next year to double its present size, the membership now consisting of only Vancouver and New Westminster. The new teams will be one in Victoria and a second team in Vancouver.

Two more Toronto Tecumseh players may join Vancouver's lacrosse colony before another season rolls around. President Con Jones, of the Vancouver club, was impressed with the showing made in the games there and at Victoria by Fred Graydon, the big defence felder, and McGregor, the lively home man.

Down in Gananoque, "Bob" O'Brien is tearing up the roads in training for the Hamilton Herald race. In a letter to a friend he says: "I will be in fine shape for the Herald race, far better than I was for the Ward. The Ward race was the first time that I ever ran over fifteen miles in my life, and in training for it I only ran ten miles once." O'Brien is doing a lot of walking to perfect his wind.

Hamilton Times: Gloom was thick in Tiger circles, as a result of the accident at the steel plant, which will rob the team of the services of Tony Loftus, the great little centre scrapper, and also place that popular player on the sick list for some time to come. Loftus was so badly injured that he had to be taken to the city hospital, and there is absolutely no chance of his getting into the game again this season.

Frederick K. Burnham, owner of the Dixie IV, the fast motorboat which took part in the Gold Challenge cup races at Eryonema during the summer, and which was later badly damaged when it dashed up the bank of the Niagara river, near Buffalo, has received a challenge for a race from John Wolf, of Portland, Ore., owner of the motorboat Oregon Wolf. Mr. Wolf's boat, it is said, can make forty-five miles an hour.

A Regina Dispatch says: The plans for the proposed professional hockey league included Calgary, Edmonton, Battleford, Prince Albert, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Regina. It is safe to say that neither of the last two cities will for a minute entertain the proposition. Amateur hockey has been good enough for us, and the public has been thoroughly satisfied with it. Saskatoon has already proclaimed itself as favoring amateur hockey. Whether or not the remaining four towns will go ahead with the project remains to be seen.

White Bread Eaters

Beri-beri! What's That?

A recent press dispatch from Paris to the New York American quotes Thomas A. Edison as saying that in France:

"They (the French) do not unbalance the wheat for the sake of appearance, but retain the gluten qualities in an extraordinary way. I think that most of the indigestion in America comes from the desire to make bread look pretty, and in so doing, unbalancing the wheat, taking from it qualities most essential to nutrition and health.

"It has been found in countries where that dreaded disease known as beri-beri flourishes (Beri-beri is a fatal disease attacking the nerves and nerve centres) that in the process of polishing and whitening rice, elements are taken from the food that, if allowed to remain and be fed to patients suffering from the disease, actually cures them."

"In the making of white flour, the vital elements of the hard, outer coat of the wheat are 'thrown away,' because they darken the flour. Nerve starvation is a natural result.

No one can 'beat' Old Mother Nature. She places in wheat and barley certain elements (Diastase, Potash, Lime, etc.) up under the outer shell. Diastase is the element which helps to transform or digest starch and make it useful for the body. The Potash goes to rebuild the gray matter in the nerve cells.

In the making of Grape-Nuts

these brain and nerve-building elements are purposely preserved, among them the valuable Phosphate of Potash (grown in the grain) the essential tissue salt of all gray nerve matter.

For growing children, for men and women who work with body and brain, there is no better food than Grape Nuts.

Grape-Nuts contains all the meat of the wheat and barley from which it is made. A dish of Grape Nuts and cream is the cereal part of the daily morning meal of hundreds of thousands of people all over the world.

THE LEAST FUEL, THE MOST SATISFACTION,

When You Burn Coal See That You Get the Value

It requires no argument to prove that the range you can use every part of, at the same time, is the range that will give you the full return for the fuel you burn. On the

HAPPY THOUGHT

Range you can use the oven and the top of the stove at the same time. While ironing you can have a batch of biscuits in the oven, and when baking you can prepare dinner without cooling the oven. This is the only way to keep down fuel bills and the only true range economy. The Patent Damper regulates the heat so that it can be used on any part of the range or on all the range.

Everywhere the Happy Thought, by its many labor-saving devices, is lightening the work of the housekeepers. Its efficiency is the result of the care taken to construct it, and it amply justifies anything said in its favor by those who have used it.

More than a quarter of a million "Happy Thoughts" are in daily use in Canada.
