SOCIAL MISSION WORK PREVENTION OF CRIME GIVEN A LONG TERM

IS WHAT IS NEEDED IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON.

Address Before the Presbyterian Woman's Home Missionary Society by J. C. McConachie, of the Children's Aid.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Woman's Home Missionary Society was held on Monday afternoon in the old arts building, Queen's University. The chief feature of the meeting was an address by J. C. McConachie, who spoke on "Kingston City And Its Missionary Environment."

The speaker stated that mission work was of two kinds—the one concerned with people's souls, the other desirous of promoting the welfare of their bodies. The mission work to be done in the city of Kingston is first of all social work; much may be accomplished to improve existing conditions—such as the establishment of a day nursery, where small children may be cared for while the mother, who, in such cases, is the wage earner, is at work.

Mr. McConachie suggested that some sort of settlement work should be undertaken among the girls and young women of the city, and an organization like the Woman's Home Missionary Society, should be able to take large share of such work. He urged that denominational distinctions be laid aside, and that an effort be made along the broadest lines for the benefit of our own community.

DR. DANIEL PHELAN SPEAKS AT OMAHA, NEB.

He Says Certain Immigrants Are the Curse of the Country—Canada Should be Careful in Receiving Them.

Dr. Daniel Phelan, surgeon of the provincial penitentiary at Portsmouth, and for some years past the recognized criminologist of the Canadian justice department, read a paper on "The Prevention of Crime and Insanity," before the American Association of Prison Surgeons, at Omaha, Neb., on Tuesday, and he pointed out that fully one per cent. of our population is either insane or defective from birth, and these conditions are increasing at a rate much faster than the rate of the increase of population. The weakling, the ne'er-do-well, and the fool, are in the hotel and in the slums, larger families than do the healthier, stronger, and more intelligent class of citizens in more comfortable homes. Checking, therefore, as far as possible those sources of disease and degeneration, it would seem ought to be the future lines to work upon. The influence exercised by these degraded classes upon their surroundings is incalculable.

If we desire to lessen crime, insanity and other forms of degeneracy, Dr. Phelan said we should hesitate to accept the low class of emigrants from foreign and other nations without due care and consideration.

They are the curse of the country. More than one generation would be required, despite the most favorable conditions, social and religious, to transform a man other than he is; it would, indeed, require fully three or four generations to eliminate the tendencies of a certain class of emigrants, and make them industrious, peaceful, and law-abiding citizens. The tide of immigration, therefore, must be checked by a careful and searching inspection of all those landing in the country, by a competent physician delegated for the purpose.

The greatest amount of crime is from disease, either mental and physical, and it is a question how much of it can be prevented. A prolific source of degenerative diseases may be found in the case of consanguineous marriages, which should be prevented, if possible. These marriages with relatives are no doubt the prolific source of many of the morbid phenomena in connection with mental life, as idiocy, epilepsy, imbecility, etc. They certainly have a tendency to accentuate the defects of parents upon their progeny. If there is any degenerative disease in the family tree on either side in such cases, it is sure either to manifest itself direct, or there may be transmitted that predisposition which renders the children susceptible to some form of mental enfeeblement.

In the field of criminology, Dr. Phelan pointed out, that there is great scope for profitable work. Amongst the most careful investigators the opinion prevails that crime and insanity can be lessened or prevented by this class of work. In the case of the juvenile offender a careful examination of him for mental and physical defects should be made by a competent physician before his fate has been determined by the juvenile court, which in every case should be established. Amongst older and hardened criminals it may not be possible to remedy these crime-producing defects. The number of juvenile criminals who suffer from unhealthy conditions, malformations, and hereditary defects, all of which have a depressing effect upon their minds, is quite large. Many of these, if not all, can be remedied by medical or surgical intervention, and it would be safe to say that future transgressions would be prevented. The insanity of youth, now so much in the ambient air, should not be overlooked, as it is of great importance in dealing with this class. It has, therefore, been repeatedly advanced, with much emphasis and considerable approval, that every youthful prisoner should be examined in the juvenile court before trial.

RETURNED TO ITS OWNER.

Police Captured a Dog Belonging to Cape Vincent.

The police had a little cocker spaniel pup as a prisoner on Tuesday. The canine is owned by a man named Davis, living in Cape Vincent. Three or four days ago the pup was down around the wharf, and while no person was taking any notice of him, he slipped on board the steamer, and was brought to Kingston. Upon arrival in the city the little stray-away did not know what to do, and followed a police constable around the city. The constable took him to the police station, and later they received word from Mr. Davis that he had lost his dog, and that he believed it had got on board the steamer America. On Tuesday afternoon Constable Filson took the little prisoner to the Cape boat, and he was sent on his return trip.

LEAVING ST. MARK'S CHURCH.

Rev. A. H. McGree Appointed Assistant.

Rev. Arthur McGree, rector of St. Mark's church, at Barriefield, has resigned to accept the charge of assistant at Christ Church cathedral, Montreal. He will leave Kingston the latter part of November.

Rev. Mr. McGree has been at St. Mark's Church for a little over two years, and during that time has been an able and hard worker, beloved by his congregation, and his going away is deeply regretted by all. His farewell sermon will likely be preached on the 19th of November. He is deeply interested in rifle shooting, and is one of the best marksmen the Kingston rifle association has.

Shingles Caught Fire.
Shortly before two o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon, shingles on the roof of the house occupied by G. A. Davis, 428 Johnstone street, caught fire, and the flames were given a run, but there was practically no damage. It was not necessary to use the hose, a few pails of water being sufficient to extinguish the blaze.

SEVEN YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.

Talented Accountant, With Promising Career Before Him, Could Not Resist Temptation, and so Fell.

Chatham, Oct. 17.—Richard P. Caning, convicted of uttering about $2,000 worth of forged cheques on the local branch of the Dominion bank, was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary by Magistrate Houston. Caning's career is one of patriotic interest. An accountant and mathematician with an international reputation, he twice previously served long terms in Sing Sing prison for forgery. On both occasions he had his terms shortened for good behavior, and he established a system of bookkeeping in Sing Sing that is in existence in that institution to-day. It was while in Sing Sing that he conceived the idea of coming to Canada and making a clean start in life. Walking the streets of Hamilton, Ont., without a dollar in his pocket, the ex-convict got a menial job in one of the largest factories in the ambitious city, where his ability was at once recognized and he was promoted to one of the highest positions of trust in the factory office. When he came to Chatham, where he acted as accountant for the Bent Goods company, it was here he met his third Waterloo, on the eve of accepting a high position with the biggest manufacturing institution in the western peninsula. He ran short of funds and forged the names of friends, Canning blames, in fact everything and everybody but himself, for his downfall.
