Good Health Impossible with a Disordered Stomach.

There is nothing that will create sickness or cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge every one suffering from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Revall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine they are not satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of anyone who has not been benefited by them. Three sizes, 25c., 50c. and $1 a box. WOLFE ISLAND ITEMS.

A Branch Bank to be Established There—Which One?

Wolfe Island, Oct. 16.—The steamer Wolfe Islander made a special trip on Saturday night for the benefit of those wishing to attend the show. She carried over one hundred passengers. Frank Briceland shipped two carloads of cattle to Montreal to-day. Robert Holton, who underwent an operation in the hospital recently arrived home on Thursday. Charles Greenwood, Watertown, is spending a few days on the island. Charles Docteur, Rochester, N.Y., is also a visitor to the island. Mr. Daly, who has been session for the Church of the Sacred Heart, for over twenty years, left last week for Yonkers, N.Y., where he will reside with his daughter. Mr. Daly was an especial favorite and the good wishes of the community will follow him. James Berry will fill the place made vacant by Mr. Daly. Rumor says that Edward Payne will move to the village and occupy Mrs. Coyle's house lately made vacant, his intention being to further the interests of the International Harvesting company, of which he is an enterprising agent. It is stated that one of the local banks will shortly open a branch office here. It would prove very convenient, and it is thought a great deal of business would be transacted. The bans were published on Sunday of W. J. Bignem and Miss Maud, second daughter of Angus R. McDonald.

John Adams Thayer, in his personal page in the November Smart Set, comments pungently on certain phases of the publishing business, and incidentally states that before his ownership the profits of that magazine exceeded a hundred thousand a year. It is scarcely necessary for him to tell us that success is still coming his way. The prosperity of the Smart Set is very evident.

Peerless Peninsular

A DURABLE CAST-IRON RANGE WITH MODERN CONVENIENCES

You don't want to use a range as a step-ladder—not as the ordinary thing—but you do want a strong, well-built range. This picture is given here to show that the Peerless range is a firm, strong piece of construction in the Peninsular and it is typical of the whole make-up of this durable range.

Some people prefer a cast-iron range but want one or two features usually found only in steel ranges.

The Peerless is designed for just such people.

It has the perfectly-fitting doors and parts, the firm, substantial body and the cozy, homelike appearance peculiar to cast-iron ranges.

At the same time it has an oven made partly of iron and partly of steel—an oven that will heat quickly and evenly all over.

It has a large oven, two inches deeper than any other range of this same size—just large enough to cook four pies at once.

It has a drop oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

It may be had with a hot water reservoir and a steel warming closet with drop door.

The Part You Cannot See

These are all things that you can see—very important things, but not more so than the things you cannot see—the interior construction, which decides whether or not your pies will burn, whether your oven will be perfectly tight so as to keep out dust and smoke, whether it will wear.

These unseen points you can be sure of when you buy a Peninsular range.

Fifty years of building stoves—honest stoves—are behind every range that bears the name "Peninsular." That name says the materials are good—the fire arrangement is good—the oven is built to heat evenly—the range will wear.

There is a Peninsular range to suit every purse and to please every taste in range architecture.

"The Cost"

illustrates some of the more popular lines and explains why Peninsular ranges cost less in the long run than others. Don't buy a range before reading this book. It's free.
