

tea is the result of care and experience in blending - must be the combination of fine flavor, smooth strength and richness. Because all these elements are so generously included in Red Rose Tea it well merits the term "good tea."

DISCARDED SWEETHEART OF A PASTOR

Took Poison in Error to Change Her Physical Condition, Says Physician.

Host's Mass., Oct. 21.—Investigation by Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner, has convinced him that Miss Avis Linnell, who was thought to have committed suicide, last Saturday night, because the Rev. Clarence Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge, had deserted her to marry Miss Violet Edmonds, a wealthy Brookline girl, died from the effects of cyanide potassium, which she believed was a drug which would bring about a change in her physical condition. She was found with her bare feet in hot water in a bath tub after having swallowed the cyanide.

Jeremie Barreault of Montreal was a proud great-grandmother the other day, when at the age of 105 years, she held in her arms a one-day-old child, which was christened at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Five years ago she held in her arms the youngest of a family of great-grandsons, when he was christened at a church in Point St. Charles. The eldest of that family has now been married over a year, and only a few days ago a representative of the fifth generation was born.

REGION OF WARMTH.

Hot Springs Are Reported to be North of Porcupine.

Superintendent A. E. Snyder, commanding the Royal Northwest Mounted Police at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, reported to the commissioner in 1909 that from north of the now famous Porcupine district in northern Ontario there had come repeated rumors of the existence of a wonderful "tropical" region which was still inhabited by mastodons, says the Success magazine. "The Indians," concludes Superintendent Snyder, "report having seen the gigantic tracks of these animals."

But little attention was paid to these stories, until in November of last year Mr. C. J. McIntyre and two companions reported a most amazing discovery north of Porcupine. They were traveling by dog-sledge, with the thermometer at forty below, when to their astonishment the temperature began to rise so fast that within a space of two hours they had thrown off their garments, and the snow was soft underfoot.

"It seemed," said Mr. McIntyre, "as though we were suddenly passing from winter into spring."

Soon after they came upon the first of numerous hot springs, the snow disappeared entirely, and dense vegetation took the place of the stunted bush and timber of the plains. Because of necessarily slow travel on foot the explorers were not able to determine the extent of the wonderful oasis in the far northern wilderness. They found several good-sized rivers flowing with warm water and teeming with fish, and the country was alive with bear, caribou, ducks, pheasants, wild geese, and other game, and gold was found in a number of creeks.

First House in Halifax. The distinguished geographer, Sir Clements Markham, K.C.B., F.R.S., has entered upon his eighty-second year. He comes of a family famous for its antiquity and valour. A very interesting record of the Markham's history, edited by Sir Clements, was compiled by his father, the late Rev. David Markham, sometime Canon of Windsor. The house has given many gallant sons to both army and navy. Major William Markham, born 1698, who served in Spain under Peterborough and Stanhope, is said to have built the first house in Halifax, Nova Scotia. He is buried in the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey, where also lie the remains of his eldest son, who became Archbishop of York. The archbishop's second son entered the navy, rose to the rank of admiral, and twice served as a Lord of the Admiralty.

Sir Clement has been both secretary and president of the Royal Geographical Society, and recipient of one of its gold medals for research.

Kitchen Hints. When hanging meat it is well not to put the meat hook through the meat itself, but through a loop of string tied on to the joint.

To preserve jam for a length of time bury them in a box of sawdust. In this way they will keep fresh for several months.

To remove a grease spot from wall paper hold a piece of blotting paper over the spot with a hot flatiron for a few moments.

In order to beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth quickly, add a pinch of powdered sugar and fine salt and beat on a dinner plate with a broad-pointed knife.

Wood ashes are excellent for cleaning linens. Writing a cloth out of warm water, dip it in the ashes and with this scour the things; then rub off and polish.

To remove unpleasant odors from the hands dash a spoonful of sugar on the hot stove and hold the hands over the fumes. Ground coffee answers the same purpose.

Duke's Escort. The Canadian Military Gazette, Ottawa, says:

The escort for the Duke of Connaught will be the same as for another Governor-General, namely, 39 of all ranks under the command of a captain. It was thought that since the duke was a member of the royal family, he would be entitled to a major's escort of 57 of all ranks, but the British War Office has informed the Canadian department that the position of Governor-General supercedes his position as member of the royal family, and he is entitled to the captain's escort instead of the major's. It is a fortunate thing for the duke that the escorts are all drawn from A Squadron, which would not have been large enough to supply the major's escort, nor would there have been enough ceremonial uniforms to go round.

Praise for Canada. General Sir Walter Kitchener has been in Montreal with his daughter, who is to attend McGill. The general thinks that Canadian education is so far ahead of that of Oxford or Cambridge that he is having his son and daughter educated here.

He himself would have made Canada his home, but at the time that he was preparing to come, the war in Egypt broke out, and he spent years in campaigning after that. He was in command of the Strathcona Horse and the mounted rifles in South Africa, and says that the Canadians were as good soldiers as he ever saw. Sir Walter has returned to the Bermudas, of which he is governor.

A Proud Old Lady. Jeremie Barreault of Montreal was a proud great-grandmother the other day, when at the age of 105 years, she held in her arms a one-day-old child, which was christened at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Five years ago she held in her arms the youngest of a family of great-grandsons, when he was christened at a church in Point St. Charles. The eldest of that family has now been married over a year, and only a few days ago a representative of the fifth generation was born.
