THREAT OF THE MAYOR THE DAY'S EPISODES SERMON TO STUDENTS

TO SUSPEND WATERWORKS COLLECTOR NEWLANDS

Because the latter refused to break a by-law and give his worship a refund for unnotified vacancy.

Because W. A. Newlands, city waterworks collector, refused to break a by-law and allow him a small amount of money for the time the water in one of his houses had been unnotified during part of the summer, Mayor Graham, on Saturday, threatened to suspend the waterworks official. His worship considered that he had the authority to order the water collector to strike the amount of his bill. Collector Newlands told the mayor that he was unable to comply with his request, as it would be a violation of the by-law and setting a precedent. The mayor has the power to suspend a city official or clerk for neglect of duty, but in this case there would be an outcry, and the city council would immediately reinstate the official for his courage in applying the by-law even to the mayor of the city.

It seems that over a week ago when the mayor asked for a refund, the collector told him he had no authority to make it, prior to the date of the notice given him of the vacancy. Mr. Newlands referred the matter to the waterworks committee, which met last Monday, and the committee refused to make any refund to the mayor, as others were often in the same boat. On Saturday, when the mayor repeated his request at the waterworks office in the city treasury department, he was again refused, and he became quite wrathful. The collector did not seem to mind what the mayor carried out his threat or not, as he knew what the city council would do when it heard of the matter.

Ald. Carson, chairman of the waterworks committee, when told of the matter, said to let the mayor go ahead and suspend the collector if he liked. He promised that the committee would send to the mayor and give him a lively time. Ald. Carson further said that at the meeting of the committee last Monday, Ald. Ross moved that the request of the mayor be not granted, and the committee carried the motion. By-law No. 35, respecting the waterworks, distinctly upholds the collector. It says: "Consumers vacating premises are required to give notice at the office of the waterworks department, otherwise they will be held liable for the water rate up to the time such notice is given."

JURY UNABLE TO TELL

Who Murdered Thomas Mills, of Kingston.

A Windsor despatch says: The coroner's jury appointed to investigate the death of Thomas Mills, murdered in the Michigan Central yards, here, on Saturday night, and returned a verdict to the effect that Mills came to his death through violence at the hands of some person unknown. A rider to the verdict stated that "evidence pointed to the conclusion that the guilty party was one Samuel Dalton, of Dalton, and we recommend that every effort be made to secure his arrest." Additional evidence was given by several members of the Windsor police force, who had questioned Dalton when he was arrested the first time. The negro declared he had spent the night in Detroit, but this was shown to be untrue by subsequent developments.

Will be Sent Home.

Charles Emmons, the lad who was confined to the general hospital, and who told a story about being "doped" on the train, by a strange man, has completely recovered from his illness and United States Consul Johnson is making arrangements to have him sent back to his home in Peabody, Mass.

One Kind of Poverty.

Though many may be rich in pocket, if their blood is poor they are sick, unhappy mortals. A palled face and wrinkled skin result from impoverished blood. Wade's Iron Tonic Pills make new, rich blood, tone up the system and nerves. Price, 25c., at Jas. B. McLeod's, drug stores.

Presented With a Bag.

Frank Birch, George street, who has been in the employment of H. J. Milne, Bagot street, left, Sunday, for Bahava, where he has secured a position. Saturday evening the Young Men's Club of Queen street Methodist church, of which he was a member, presented with a handsome travelling bag.

His Bicycle Disappeared.

Edgar Blakey, Princess street, is missing a good bicycle. He is attending Liverpool College, and left the wheel there one day last week and it disappeared mysteriously. As he hasn't the number, he has small hopes of finding it.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butte and children, of Houston, Texas, who have been visiting Mrs. Butte's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon, Wellington street, for the past month, left for their home on Sunday.

William Swaine, piano tuner, Orders received at McAuley's. Phone 778. The hymn for those at sea was sung in St. Andrew's church on Sunday.

Miss Alice A. Chown is writing articles on charitable themes for the Toronto Star.

Sheldon Joyce, of the G.T.R. ticket office, spent the week-end with his parents at Napawan.

H. Cunningham, piano tuner, 21 King street. Leave orders at McAuley's bookstore.

A Kingston golf club team went up to Napawan on Monday afternoon to play a friendly game. "Fresh goods for infants." Gibson's. Rev. Dr. G. A. Gibson, died on Friday in Stratford, Ont. He was an uncle of Prof. M. B. Baker, of Queen's.

Many friends of little Miss Mildred Smith are very sorry to hear she is in the hospital to undergo an operation.

"The home of high-class sweets." Gibson's. Thomas E. Ralph, Melcombe, has leased his farm to George Moore and intends removing with his family to Kingston.

The death occurred on Sunday in Prescott of Mrs. J. McAdam, sister of Mrs. George Richardson, University avenue.

"Baby cough syrups." Gibson's. Sympathetic references were made in the Methodist churches to the death of Rev. J. T. Piche, chairman of the Kingston district.

Miss Ethel Williams, eldest daughter of George H. Williams, formerly of Saskatoon, died in Saskatoon, Sask., during last week.

"The home of high-class sweets." Gibson's. Mrs. Thomas Lutherford and Miss Lizzy Gardner leave, Tuesday, for the west to join Mr. Lutherford, who preceded them some time ago.

"Strong horehound candy." Gibson's. It is expected that the new Methodist church at Odessa, now in process of construction, will be formally opened the first part of December.

The Kingston Health Association, without share capital, to establish a tuberculosis sanitarium and training school for nurses, has been incorporated.

"The home of high-class sweets." Gibson's. Richard Clark, formerly manager of the Kingston paper box factory, has returned home from an extended trip to Saskatoon and other cities in the west.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself, and when you build up you are building up yourself and your neighbor.

"Strong horehound candy." Gibson's. The Ottawa Journal has a cut of H. W. Bryan, M.A., principal of Renfrew collegiate institute, and adds that he is "elected as the next registrar of Queen's University."

Lieut.-Col. Frederick Ferguson, of Inverary, is being spoken of as the likely choice for Frontenac liberal candidate for the Ontario house, to oppose A. M. Rankin.

It is feared that the nine bells forming the chimera to go in St. Andrew's belfry, will be too large for the enclosure, where they are to be placed, and may have to be sent back.

"Strong horehound candy." Gibson's. A splendid story of an American soldier in the recent Mexican revolution is "A Touch of Soldierly Madness," by Frederick Palmer. It is in the Red Book Magazine for November.

Second Watson, a graduate of the Kingston Business College, and employed as book-keeper in a C.P.R. construction camp, west of Toronto, is visiting at his home in Hartington.

"Buy bath powder," Gibson's. F. Harrison went to Brockville on Monday afternoon to attend the Sunday school convention being held there three days. It is expected that about forty from the city will attend.

"The cough syrup that will cure any cough." Gibson's Red Cross cough syrup. George H. Hunter, Collingwood street, returned from Brockville, where he was visiting his son, Dr. Harold Hunter. A week ago Saturday he witnessed the opening game of the world's baseball series.

Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all, patronize your home institutions—including the printing office.

"Buy bath powder," Gibson's. Thomas Curran, formerly of Kingston, died in a tuberculosis camp near Watertown, N.Y., on October 16th, and was buried there. He was a nephew of Misses Marion and Mary Ann Clancy, of Kingston.

The Red Book Magazine for November contains another of John A. Meroso's real police stories. This time in "The Master Yegg" Mr. Meroso concerns himself with the attempted robbery of a lower Broadway bank.

Asked for it After Years. The other day Smith Bros., jewelers, were astonished to have a man call for a watch which he had lost eleven years ago. It was speedily located. The Smith Bros., as well as the other watchmakers of the city, have quite a number of watches on hand that will probably never be called for, owners having died or having forgotten where they left them.

Only Three Cases Left. There will be only three cases for Sir William Muxlock to deal with at the assize court which opens on Tuesday. The Youlden-Anglo-American insurance action is postponed for the fourth time. The case of Elmer Lawrence, vs. Mrs. Abbie George, over the George will, has been settled between the parties.

BY DEAN BIDWELL IN ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL.

The Dean Will Give a Series of Practical Discourses—He Preached on "Gallio, the Man of the World."

Before beginning his series of sermons to the students of Queen's, the Dean of Ontario, on Sunday evening, welcomed all members of the student body and expressed the desire of the clergy to help them in every possible way, and explained that while last year's sermons dealt with subjects, this year's themes would be more on the practical side of things with behind them the wish to be helpful in their daily life.

His subject, last evening, was "Gallio, the Man of the World," whose character is touched on in Acts xviii, and he drew many helpful lessons from the story of the Roman deputy or governor, Wellbred, as he is, respecting all the amenities of social life, easily tolerant, if not amuseously contemptuous of things religious, a man of whom his brother Seneca had said, "Dulcis omnibus," which, freely translated, means, "the favorite of all." The Bible being a book for all time, and all men, its characters have a perennial interest, illustrating parts of human nature constantly occurring.

When we speak of a worldly man the term is one of disparagement, but the term "man of the world" usually connotes high praise, denoting capacity for dealing with men and things derived from wide intercourse, with many people and grades, and men like to be thought to possess these qualities. But there is a reverse side—the guiding light of such a character is apt to be expediency rather than inflexible adherence to right, answering compromise, and social combinations are elevated into the place of divine laws and toleration becomes amused contempt for conviction or earnestness of any kind, especially when it is likely to bring discomfort to the person manifesting it.

Gallio was of this type and in later years history tells us that he became one of the ignoble throng of courtiers who surrounded the infamous Roman emperor, Nero, and finally committed suicide in disgust and disappointment, as was put to death at his royal master's caprice.

The modern Gallio is not uncommon, and he is a type peculiarly attractive to youth. Inexperience is often dazzled by a brilliance which disposes of religion with an epigram and by the "broad-mindedness" which receives all creeds with easy tolerance because it believes none. The modern Gallio points out that high ideals and aspirations hinder success, that they make us impractical, and to be popular we must be satisfied with the standards of conduct prevalent in society—we must avoid disappointment by a cynically low estimate of the characters, and motives of our fellow men.

Contrast this gospel of unlightened selfishness with Christ's gospel of the daily cross and of service to one's fellow man, and you see that the gospel of Gallio is a gospel of death, the gospel of Christ is a gospel of life. It is not the Gallio of history that the world owes its progress, but to the Pauls, not to the men of the world alone, however cultured they may be, but to the men of God. The Paul who stood as a prisoner, was an infinitely greater man than the Roman governor who dismissed with contempt. Of course by fixing the eyes on the difference among professing Christians, on the apparent incon-arrangement yet made. Ald. Carson, chairman of the waterworks committee, says that this sub-committee, consisting of the superintendent, the city solicitor and himself, have as yet been unable to arrange a meeting with John Donnelly regarding the latter's account against the city over work done at the intake Monday morning, sentenced by Magistrate Farrell, to six months in the Central prison. McGraine stole the wheel and rode to Gananoque. He was placed under arrest there, and brought back to Kingston, by Constable Arund.

McGraine has only been out from the old country six months. He came here from Toronto, and joined the battery. He claims to be a deserter from an old country regiment, and asked to be deported.

Infants' Home Sale. An innovation at the Infants' Home sale, to be held to-morrow, at Mrs. Steacy's, Johnson street, will be the floral table. Charming home-made dainties and beautiful and useful furnishings will also be leading features. All persons kind enough to be interested in this institution will be cordially welcomed. Tea will be served from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Set Fire to Leaves. By way of amusement some boys set fire to leaves in Macdonald Park late Sunday afternoon, and some of the people in the neighborhood fearing that it would have a serious result, as there was a very high wind, sent in an alarm to the fire station. Chief Armstrong investigated and had the fire extinguished.

Removed to the Jail. Herbert Johnstone, the young man sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for theft, was removed to the jail, on Saturday, and will be handed over to the penitentiary authorities by Sheriff Dawson. Johnstone will have about seven months of his old term to serve.

Death of Portsmouth Lady. Elizabeth Forsythe, widow of the late Joseph Forsythe, died at her home at Portsmouth on Saturday, at the age of eighty-two years. She was a Presbyterian in religion. She had lived in the country for many years. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at Cataragui cemetery.

Many Become Despondent. Many persons become despondent because they have been unable to find a permanent cure for eczema (scalp rheum) and kindred skin diseases, such as pimples and blotches. Wade's Iron Tonic Pills will positively cure these ailments and make the skin healthy.

Boys Acted Disorderly. Sunday afternoon, some boys acted in a disorderly manner in front of St. George's hall, and a call was sent in to the police, Constables Filson and Craig were sent to the scene, and put the youngsters on their good behavior.

Dust Was Awful. The dust on the down town streets, on Sunday, was simply awful. The sand on the new pavement was blown around in clouds and made it very disagreeable for people who were out driving and walking.

"Buy infants' foods." Gibson's.
