QUESTIONS EASILY ANSWERED.

Two questions have been put, in connection with the new hotel scheme, and they can be easily answered. The first is, Why should the voting upon the scheme not be deferred until the municipal elections? For the very good reason that the men who are interested in the scheme, who purpose to put their capital into the enterprise, want to begin operations in the fall, and as soon as possible. They can make excavations, get out their materials and supplies, do considerable shop work during the winter, and get ready for building early in the spring. They would like to get at their plans and preparations before the date set for the voting, but they have to abide certain legal and other formalities. Then why should the city guarantee the bonds? That is easy. The lot, the building and the equipment will cost, it is estimated, over $200,000. The city is not asked for any money. It is asked to give its credit to the extent of $100,000. This means that the company can borrow money for four and one-half or five per cent., and this is much lower rate than any private corporation can expect to provide a loan for. The city is protected by a first lien on the property and this lien will remain until the liability of the city has been completely liquidated. The bonds will be issued only as the work proceeds, and in certificates from some one who will be acting independently and in behalf of the city. The new hotel may be the beginning of a new civic era. An imposing hostelry—no meeting every requirement and taste of the people—will be the means of advertising the city, and very much to its advantage. The success of the venture depends upon how 2,600 of the property owners regard it. If the majority of them will vote for it the new edifice may adorn the park on King street in the spring of 1912.

VERY SERIOUS WARNING

The Ottawa Citizen warns the Canadian protectionists to be satisfied with what they get, in a moderate tariff, rather than agitate for higher duties, and eventually bring about a reaction such as now prevails in the United States. The wool business is cited. It is estimated that, with the protection they have, the American woolen manufacturers last year collected a toll from the people of $104,000,000 above a decent profit. This is the result of a tariff that means 78 per cent. above the import price. Nor does the country get much out of this—not more than $15,000,000. The balance $79,000,000, goes into the pockets of the manufacturers, and represents, we are told, "the added price placed on home grown and manufactured wools in order that they shall sell at the price of the foreign ones after the seventy-eight per cent. duty is added to their selling price." The Citizen then gives the Canadian manufacturers some serious talk. It is to be content with what they have, a tariff against which there is no protest. There is no lower tariff sentiment, even among the farmers. The lesson is obvious. To let well enough alone. Otherwise there will be in Canada what there is in the United States, the demand for a change, and it cannot be resisted. The democrats are in power across the way, and there is going to be something doing when congress again meets. The woolen manufacturers will have to be content with less than 78 per cent. protection, and with considerably less than $104,000,000 of an annual tax. The Canadian manufacturers may be impressed with this warning, and they may not. At the recent convention in Toronto there was great rejoicing. The Anti-Reciprocity League had triumphed in the election—their barrel helped in influencing public opinion—and its work is done for the present. But an increase in the British preference was not desired, nor closer communion with the farmers, while the tariff revision committee was revived. All this means that the C.M.A. will be getting busy and it will want to do something. The Citizen warns them lest they forget.

MAKE A REASONABLE DEMAND.

There is one thing about the license reduction which should be surely guarded against. It is the unreasonable demand which some persons favour. They want a sweeping change, and "sweeping" properly describes the suggestion that ten licenses be cut off. The temperance reformers may be anxious to reach certain concessions quickly, but this is a movement which cannot be rushed. Certain things must be examined, and in an honest and candid way. First, the license reduction involves a financial loss which cannot be overlooked. From each license fee the city is entitled a specified amount, and the revenue from this sum in the past has been considerable. The council has to make up by direct taxation for the wants of the city, over and above the sum which is derived from all other sources, and the hotel and saloon men have paid their due proportion to the cost of municipal government. The rate of taxation has been advancing slowly but surely. The Whig remembers when it was seventeen mills on the dollar, for general purposes. It is now twenty-three mills on the dollar, and it has taken years to make the increase from one figure to the other. It is still below the rate of other cities in Ontario, but they are cities that have more to show in paved streets and other improvements than Kingston. There is quite a margin before the limit has been reached in "high taxation," but it is not desirable that the limit should be reached at a bound, and there would be an approach to this experience if ten licenses were cut off at once. Then there are the "vested rights" of the hotel or saloon men. These cannot be ignored. It may be said that they are in a bad business, and that the sooner it is discontinued the better. But the proposal that ten men be deprived of the chance to realize upon their investment or gradually dispose of their property, will not appeal to most people. It will be sufficient to cut off three licenses at a time. It involves enough loss and enough disturbance to the business interests of the city, and if the demand is for larger things it will hardly be sustained at the polls.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Fancy Sir Mackenzie Bowell's feelings when he reads that Mr. Foster, of the alderine nest of tractors, is acting as premier during Mr. Borden's absence. The asphalt brick pavement, of which several blocks are being laid, may be the best, but the merchants cannot very well go out of business while it is being laid. A speaker of the Essex convention admitted that Hon. Dr. Reaume was no angel. Still he had won three elections. If he failed now to make good he might "look out." Hon. Mr. Hanna, provincial secretary, is quite sure that the Whitney government will be sustained by a large majority in the next election. Would anybody expect him to say anything else? Sir James Whitney would not stand for it. The Ottawa Journal is being reminded that it spoke of Mr. Monk last July as "lost," as "neither loyal nor competent." How does it reconcile his call to the office of minister of public works in the Borden cabinet? The liberal record shows a surplus for the last year of $30,000,000. The thing for the new government to do is show that the surplus is not real. It remains to be seen whether the new finance minister is equal to the job. Dr. Merchant, the local government's special commissioner, is said to be preparing his report on his bilingual schools. He had better hustle and complete his job. Sir James Whitney has promised to legislate as the situation demands, and the people have a right to know, now, what that situation is. Some good ranges cheap, also hardware and tinware. TO GIVE A BANQUET

AT GANANOQUE TO HON. W. T. WHITE.

The Nomination to Fill Vacancy by Resignation of George Taylor Will Take Place on Monday Nov. 6th.

Gananoque, Oct. 27.—The political conditions in South Leeds have taken on recently a decidedly interesting aspect. George Taylor, by the resignation of his seat, has made a way of escape open to Premier R. L. Borden and his financial minister, W. T. White, of Toronto. Mr. White is to speak in Lansdowne on Thursday next, and at the opera house, Gananoque, on Friday evening, and will be nominated at Delta on Monday, November 6th. George Morry, of Delta, has been appointed returning officer. It is generally conceded that Mr. White will be returned without opposition. Along legislative assembly lines, the conservatives of this municipality will hold a meeting in Turner's hall on Wednesday evening next, for the appointing of delegates to attend the convention at Delta on Friday next, November 3rd. Among those aspiring for the position at present held by J. R. Dargavel are mentioned: R. G. Harvey, of Lyndhurst; Dr. Bercy, of Westport; and also Dr. Elliott, of Seely's Bay, while Mr. Dargavel also desires to retain his seat.

The board of trade will hold a special session this evening to discuss the matter of tendering a banquet to Hon. W. T. White, on Saturday evening, November 4th. The annual meeting of the Gananoque Water Power Co., Ltd., is being held here to-day. St. Andrew's church has cancelled its morning service on Sunday next, Oct. 29th, to permit their congregation to attend the memorial service of Rev. J. T. Fitcher, in Grace church, which is to be conducted by Rev. Dr. Ryckman, of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Robeson, who have spent the past six months at Reston, Man., have returned to town. Mrs. William Pratt, King street, left during the week to join her husband, who has located in Brockville. Robert Sheppard is spending a few days this week with relatives in Brockville. Messrs. A. W. Taylor, R. Tullock, W. Stairs and C. C. Skinner are enjoying a week duck hunting at Snake Island. Miss Pearl Latimer, spending the past five months with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Beattie, Vancouver, B.C., has returned home.

PUBLIC OPINION.

We Understand.
Montreal Herald. Sir Mackenzie Bowell was not among those who called to compliment Mr. Foster on being acting premier of Canada.

Hamlet Without Hamlet.
Ottawa Citizen. The Canadian House of Commons without Sir Wilfrid Laurier would be almost like the play of Hamlet with the melancholy Dane under eclipse.

An Unkind Cut.
London Advertiser. The unkindest cut of all is the conservative Montreal Star's assertion that in Mr. Borden's cabinet, "the ministers with clean records are easily in a majority."

Allan's Only Opponent.
Hamilton Herald. Allan Studholme is in the field, and as he surveys his surroundings he can see only one possible opponent, and that one has only one leg over the fence.

Taft After Cochrane.
Toronto Telegram. And Hon. Frank Cochrane did no more to open up the Temiskaming country in the last six-and-a-half years than the untutored aborigine did in the previous six-and-a-half centuries.

A Conundrum.
Toronto News. The whole system of patronage giving is a Babel of rottenness. Once a cabinet minister permits his course to be dictated, or even affected by patronage considerations, he has opened the door to a host of evils.

The Rotteness of Patronage.
Toronto Star. The Borden government begins its career with a fielding surplus of $30,000,000. If it took Mr. Fielding fifteen years to develop Foster deficits into a thirty-million surplus, how long would it take the Borden government to get back to the deficit again, if left in power by the people of Canada?

Woman Tied up by Burglars.
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—Upon the return home at midnight of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waldmeyer, they heard groans in the basement, and found their daughter, Miss Martha, aged twenty-eight, bound and gagged, and her head covered with bruises and gashes inflicted by two negro burglars.

The Duke of Connaught has appointed for his honorary A.B.C., Col. Joseph Landry, son of Senator P. A. Landry, president of the senate. The new A.B.C. is the commandant of the 10th brigade. Col. Sam Hughes, minister of militia and defence, leaves on Sunday night for the Pacific coast on an inspection trip. The minister will be accompanied by Maj.-Gen. McKenzie, chief of the general staff.

WANT THE PAY.
Senator Had $30,000,000, so Should Pay It.
Milwaukee, Oct. 27.—Because Senator Isaac Stephenson was reputed to be worth $30,000,000, some of his political workers thought they ought to be paid for their time and that was the reason it cost the senator so much to secure the nomination at the primaries in 1909, according to testimony before the senatorial investigating committee, to-day.
W. R. Keeli, of Milwaukee county, testified that as Stephenson's campaign manager in the county, he expended $11,800.
"Why did you have to spend so much money in one county," asked Senator Heyburn, the chairman.
"Because the other candidates were spending a lot. We felt we had to meet them. If Senator Stephenson had been a poor man, his workers might have campaigned for him for nothing, but as he was said to be worth $30,000,000, it was thought only right that those who worked for him should be paid."
Robert J. Shields, of Superior, who had been said by witnesses to have worked as an employee of Edward Lines, the lumberman, in Stephenson's behalf, on the stand denied having taken any part corruptly in the distribution of money to legislators.

She Needed No Divorce.
San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 27.—Samuel Pedro, oyster opener, and Miss Lena Alby, dye house employe, obtained a marriage license, framed it artistically, and gave it the place of honor in their sitting room collection of gems from the Sunday papers. For five years they lived blissfully, believing the license made them man and wife. Then a quarrel came and she sued for a divorce. A judge almost had to draw a diagram to convince her that she did not require legal action to make her mistress of herself.
