AT MERCY OF WAVES

CAPT. ALEXANDER POTTER HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Started Out in Rowboat, which Filled—Drifted Towards Shore, and Then Jumped Into the Water and Landed.

Capt. Alexander Potter, mate of the steamer Pierpont, had an experience on Monday, which he will not forget for some time. He went down to Anglin's Bay to bring up a row boat belonging to his son, and intended taking it to the Kingston Foundry wharf. There was a heavy sea rolling, and everything was all right until he reached the elevators. At this point the waves started to come in the boat, which soon filled. The only thing left for the captain to do was to remain in the boat and be drifted on wards or jump into the water and swim ashore. He jumped into the water just a few yards from the pier wharf at Richardson's, and managed to get himself and the boat in safety again. It certainly is very fortunate he was as near shore, or else he might have been drowned. When he got ashore his clothes were frozen.

Sitting on the Lid.

Toronto Star. When Sir James Whitney shelved the discussion of bilingualism in the legislature by sending Dr. Merchant away to secure material for a report, nobody knew when he was told to return or whether he was told to return at all or not. He just faded from view, and all the members of the government denounced it as a sin to mention his name or whisper a word about bilingualism.

But we know where Dr. Merchant is. He is sitting on the lid, and Sir James expects him to sit on it until the elections are pulled off.

Joseph Oliver, for two years mayor of Toronto, and for many years minister in a popular member of the city council, will be a liberal candidate for the legislature against the Hon. J. J. Foy in North Toronto.

Johanni Passo, an Italian, has been liberated from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, Montreal, on a pardon signed by the Duke of Connaught.

CONSERVATIVES LIKE CHILDREN WITH NEW TOYS.

Liberals Are Coming to Hand—The Transfer of Rooms—The Debate on the Speech to be Brief.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—The precincts of parliament are taking on their seasonal aspect, quite a few of the members having already arrived to locate their seats and attend in the private rooms assigned to them. Conservatives who sat in opposition, last session, are acting like children with a new toy. They took possession of their new seats bright and early and stayed there, welcoming old pals with boyish enthusiasm and plotting new members through the buildings, introducing them around and generally giving them good advice.

The liberals are dropping in by degrees. Chief Whip Pardee came, this morning and has been very busy looking after the transfer of the various rooms and other changes which the turnover necessitated.

It has not yet been decided if the debate on the address will go on on Friday, but it is likely to occur till Monday and then proceed until ended.

It is not likely to occupy many days, indeed it may be finished in one sitting.

The opposition will have a number of questions to put on the order paper and promises to elicit some very interesting information, but they will naturally, be on defensive so far as acts of administration of the late government are concerned for some time to come. Thus it promises to be quite an interesting session, although it may be brief.

The Ford River left this morning loaded with felspar, for Charlotte, but had to get in shelter at Snake Island on account of the high sea that was rolling.
