BARRIEFIELD SPEECH

OF REV. J. P. McINNES, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

The Whitney Government's Policy With Respect to Justice, Education and Agriculture Assailed.

Rev. J. P. McInnis, the liberal candidate for the county of Frontenac, for the legislative assembly, has been meeting with remarkable success all through the campaign. The clearness and fairness with which he places his arguments against the Whitney government appeals to both conservatives and liberals alike, and all the liberals and many former conservatives are standing behind him and working hard. Mr. McInnis is a very fluent speaker, and if elected will make one of the strongest members that ever represented the historic riding of Frontenac. Personalities are absent throughout all his addresses, and he follows closely the arguments of the campaign.

Monday night, Mr. McInnis addressed a meeting of electors in the township hall at Barriefield, being received with the enthusiasm and listened to with the rapid attention that has been conspicuous throughout the whole of his campaign. Alexander Rieckey was elected chairman, and after a few remarks, introduced the candidate. In his opening remarks, Mr. McInnis said it was a matter of deep regret that the conservative candidate, Anthony Rankin, of his supporters, had not accepted his invitation to be present at some of his meetings, so that both sides of the questions of the day could be discussed. Mr. McInnis spoke of the confidence all had in their new leader, N. W. Rowell, K. C. Continuing, he said, Canada had had men on both sides of politics, such as Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Oliver Mowat, and all honor and respect to men of such far-seeing vision, who had the country's welfare at heart, and their work and memory was an inspiration to future generations. The speaker also voiced the confidence all have in Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when, at his recent defeat, was perhaps seen at his best.

"But," said the speaker, in addressing the free and independent electors of the county of Frontenac, "I have nothing harsh, bitter or sarcastic to say about the Whitney government, but liberals and many conservatives believe in their hearts that the present administration is at fault. Both parties placed Sir James in power, but, as we believe, his sins of commission and omission are innumerable. We do not want to detract from the work of Sir James, but want to draw attention to matters we are dissatisfied with."

To begin with, there is the department of justice. There has been used to have skilled leaders. But the premier wishes to maintain his own hold on all departments, and the minister must deal personally with him, or the "big stick" will fall. For this reason the department of justice is breaking down in Ontario. When Sir Oliver Mowat was attorney-general, law was law and the speaker refers, who enforced it. The speaker referred to several instances, such as the Kiraade and Orangeville cases, where the law was not properly exercised. The "Tammany boss" in the person of Beattie Nesbitt, who received the wink from the attorney-general, and fleeing the country, and no business method was pursued to bring him to justice. If such things are going on, what are we coming to?

School System Bad.
The school question was next touched on. Who is satisfied with the system today? The reeves and trustees have practically no power and cannot exercise their own opinions, and the system is all centralized in Toronto. The speaker said he was not opposed to higher education, but the standard in the rural communities was too high, with the result of a dearth of teachers. The removal of the normal schools turned the education department upside down. The liberal policy stands for the establishment of normal schools, and a certificate of permanency issued to teachers. Truly, the salaries are too low, but the government method of raising them is manifestly wrong. The prices of school books have been reduced, but the government bought the copy rights, works the machines and allows Eaton to publish them, thus serving as a bill board for the Eaton company. The liberal party advocates the government printing these books at cost, stamping them with the government stamp, and give retailers a profit, instead of the Eaton company. Mr. McInnis expressed liberal party's and his position regarding bilingual schools. There is no reason why the French tongue should be singled out, any more than German, Italian, Jewish, etc. Last season, Premier Whitney rejected a motion and appointed a commission to investigate the matter, and the appointee was Mr. Marchant, a man one year on his job. Now it comes to an election and no report is ready, and none in sight. At the present rate of procedure, for ten years. A foreign tongue is disastrous in any community, and when a boy starts out in life so speaking he is handicapped for years. The Rowell policy stands for one language, one flag, one throne.

Mr. McInnis spoke from practical experience with regard to New Ontario. If Hon. Frank Cochrane was up to his business, he would pull down the bars and let settlers come in. The farmer may plough his land, but the minerals and lumber are reserved, and if they sell lies to the railroad or pulpwood they are taxed. The liberal advocates having the minerals sold by contract, and where the land is heavily lumbered, reserved, but otherwise the farmer should be free. Reference was made to the fact that four members by redistribution. The reason for this was the bungling of the crown lands and the Rip Van Winkle administration of Whitney.

The question of good roads was touched upon, and we have a great deal to thank the government for in this regard in old Ontario. The consular labor, however, was not satisfactory, and in the country there was so much red tape in connection with them that only fifty per cent.

of the money needed really goes to the roads. The minister's budget was claimed that corporations are favored by the Whitney government, and the assessment act needs to be remodelled. Because some railways are government property there is no reason why they should not be taxed. Rich mica land in our own county is assessed as agricultural land. In regard to power a great deal has been done, but the province has been mortgaged to develop the Hydro-Electric. Toronto should not be the centre, and when towns are able to construct their lines the townsmen and farmers should get it as cheaply and at the same price as the big corporations at Toronto. Since Hon. John Dryden vacated his office the minister of agriculture the interest of the farmer has not been at heart. There should be more demonstration farms and agricultural colleges. The western provinces have taken over the telephone lines and settlers get a cheap rate. The Bell-Telephone company is more or less of a monopoly, and the government should either buy that line or construct independent lines, and this would be a great factor in keeping the boy on the farm. In closing Mr. McInnis appealed for the electors to support the liberal progressive policy, and to send strong men to arouse the Whitney government. In sending himself to Toronto they were sending a man who would support any measure for the benefit of Ontario and the farmers, regardless of politics, and the question should never be asked, "Who is the member for Frontenac?" The cheers, when Mr. McInnis took his seat, were loud and long and all through his speech he was interrupted with bursts of applause. At the close Reeve D. D. Rogers, of Pittsburg, spoke approving of the liberal platform, and of the fair and excellent work Mr. McInnis presented. The meeting broke up with cheers for the king and the candidate.

LAD NEARLY DROWNED.
He Jumped in the Y.M.C.A. Tank, But Couldn't Swim. Harold Leslie, a young lad living on Main street, had a narrow escape from drowning at the Y.M.C.A. Monday afternoon. He, in company with a number of juniors, was swimming in the tank about four o'clock. Some of his companions noticed him waving his hands and struggling but paid no attention to him, as they thought he was fooling. However, one of them noticed that he was sinking and pulled him out. He choked considerably and was dizzy for some time, but eventually came round. First he said that he could swim—but the water was too deep for him, his last said that he could not swim at all. But Had to Pay His Fine Just the Same. A man named O'Brien was on the carpet before Magistrate Farrell, on Tuesday morning, charged with drunk-driving. In a fearful condition he tried to move the magistrate's heart to pity and this escape punishment, but it was of no avail. Although he denied he had never been in court before, and would never appear there again, the magistrate required him to find two "bucks" or else be a guest of the city and county jail for a month. Two other drunks supported him on either side. One was from Harrowsmith and the other belonged to the city. They were invited to partake of the hospitalities of the jail for a month each, if they failed to find a "five spot" between them.
