

WILL NOT GIVE

A Seaport to Ontario So Manitoba Decides

CONCESSION OPPOSED

BY ROBBIN, ALTHOUGH ROGERS IS AGREEABLE.

The Circumstances Surrounding the Alleged "Settlement" - Western Province Refuses to Please Sir James Whitney.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—The "settlement" of the boundary dispute between Ontario and Manitoba announced the other night with a great flourish at a banquet by Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Frank Cochrane, promises to be clouded with that other "settlement" by Mr. Rogers, who did not settle the coal strike in the west.

There is no doubt that the members of the commonsense from Manitoba are decidedly opposed to any concessions to Ontario, and have so notified the minister of the interior.

The circumstances surrounding the "settlement" seem to be these:—Among the issues forced to the front by the Ontario government extension of the Ontario government railway to the waters of the Hudson bay, and it became necessary for the Whitney government to make some demonstration in regard thereto.

Representation was made to Ottawa that it was necessary that something should be done, and consequently Hon. Frank Cochrane got busy, and had a conference with Hon. Robert Rogers, and suggested that it would do no harm, and would do good, if Manitoba were to promise to make some concessions to Ontario. The Hon. Robert acquiesced, and soon it was agreed that the announcement should be made that Manitoba was willing to give Ontario a part of the Nelson river.

The suggestion seemed simple enough, but it now looks as if the Hon. Robert had been taken into camp by his colleague from Ontario, because not only do the Manitoba members on both sides assert that they will not consent to any such arrangement, but Premier Roblin himself is understood to have intimated that he will see Ontario a good deal further off than it is now before he will withdraw one iota from his previous position.

The difficulty seems to be this: As soon as the proposed "settlement" was announced, some of the Manitoba members went to see the engineers who had been engaged in the surveys of the Hudson Bay railway, and discovered that it, as seems likely, the terminal of the Hudson Bay will be on the eastern side of the river, which would, under the proposed partition, be in Ontario, while all that would be left to Manitoba would be the western bank, upon which there could only be a sort of a mushroom town, and thus Ontario would obtain all the advantages, whilst Manitoba would get only the rough end of the deal.

It is further claimed that as all the traffic for the Hudson Bay road must come from the west, and as Manitoba is chiefly interested in the road, that the terminals must be under Manitoba control, or at least in Manitoba territory. Liberals say it is safe betting that after the voting in Ontario on Dec. 11th, little more will be heard of the "settlement."

Woman Who Helped Neighbor Gets His Estate.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Justice Trenchard has allowed the appeal of Mrs. E. A. Thompson from the decision of the local master at Brockville, who found that Mrs. Thompson had used undue influence to induce Alexander Gardner, aged 70, to execute a will in her favor, to will his entire estate to her. She was no relative of the old man, but had washed, baked and sewed for him without charge, and for his aged wife who pre-deceased him by a short time. Action was brought by Miss McGarrity, of Petrol, who said herself and some sisters and nephews were such old man's only relatives. Justice Trenchard refused to break the will, which disposes of an estate valued at $6,000.

St. Jean Baptiste Society Expresses "Utter Contempt."

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—The St. Jean Baptiste society of Holy Family Parish, Ottawa East, has passed a strong resolution supporting the French-Canadian Educational Association in its condemnation of Attorney-General Foy for his attacks on bilingualism. A section of the resolution reads:—"As citizens of Canada we look down with utter contempt at the narrow-mindedness of Mr. Foy. MONEY CANNOT ATONE FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Roy Brintnell, Toronto, Must Spend Seven Months in Common Jail

Toronto, Nov. 29.—"I do not impose a fine, we should not recognize that money can pay, even in part, for blood." This was the conclusion of a five newspaper column judgment in which Justice Riddell today sentenced Roy Brintnell, automobileist, convicted of wilful negligence in running down and killing Mrs. Eliza Beth Salter, of Whitley, on Yonge street, some months ago. The sentence was seven months in the common jail. This case caused a great deal of interest here, being the first conviction of an automobilist following many deaths from automobile accidents all over Ontario.

SAME RULES FOR FOOTBALL OVER DOMINION

Father Stanton's Ideas are Likely to be Made the New Rules

Toronto, Nov. 29.—If the Canadian rugby union will accept the proposals of Phil McKenzie, who refused Saturday's final for the Dominion honors, drastic changes will be made in the game. Dropping the two side scrummers; also the flying wing are most important of the advocated changes.

"Make football a sport that is played under the same rules all over the Dominion and you will give the game the greatest boost that it can possibly receive," are Mr. McKenzie's words in reference to the changes which he will place before the Canadian rugby union.

It is less than a year ago that Rev. Father Stanton, of Ottawa College, advocated the very same rules. In fact he brought them before the Intercollegiate but they were never acted upon. Now Mr. McKenzie has been authorized by the Canadian Rugby Union to prepare an amended code of football rules and they are every possibility of this gentleman's suggestions being adopted.

ARCHBISHOP-ELECT SPRATT.

Rev. Father Michael Joseph Spratt, who is to be consecrated Archbishop of Kingston in St. Mary's Cathedral on Thursday morning, is the eighth prelate to preside over this archdiocese. He succeeds Archbishop Gauthier, who was transferred to the see of Ottawa last January after thirteen years of rule at the archiepiscopal palace here. The new archbishop is a native of the township of Ops, near Lindsay, and was born in the year 1854. He was educated in the Lindsay schools, later going to St. Michael's College, Toronto. He took his course in philosophy and theology at Pointe Levis and the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and was ordained at Trenton in June, 1882. The new archbishop was ordained with him was the late Archbishop McEwen, of Toronto. After his ordination he assisted his brother, Rev. Thomas J. Spratt, at Wolfe Island for a time, and on Thursday, the latter is to assist in the consecration of his distinguished brother. For some time the archbishop-elect was curate at Prescott, and then he became parish priest at Killery. He labored there for several years, and made improvements in the parish. He built the fine presbytery at Totogdy and the splendid church and priest's abode at Elgin. He then succeeded the late Father Twomey as pastor at Trenton. Two years ago he was appointed, upon the death of Rev. Father Twomey, pastor of St. Michael's Church, Belleville.

The new archbishop is a man of great piety and prudence, and has been greatly loved by the various congregations over which he has been called to preside. The Whig has no doubt but that Archbishop-Elect Spratt will walk in the ways of his predecessor. Archbishop Gauthier, and perpetuate the harmony which he inaugurated and exhibited all through his residence in Kingston.

CROWDS GREET

Archbishop-Elect Spratt on His Arrival.

ESCORTED TO PALACE

BY BANDS AND A BIG PROCESSION.

An Address of Welcome Read in St. Mary's Cathedral by J. J. Behan, to Which the Archbishop-Elect Made Reply.

The ceremonies in connection with the consecration of Rev. Michael J. Spratt, of Belleville, to the archbishopric of Kingston, commenced on Wednesday afternoon, at the Grand Trunk station, when the archbishop-elect arrived from Belleville. The arrival of the future archbishop of the diocese of Kingston was marked by the attendance of large crowds, and although the train was not due to arrive at the station until 1.45 o'clock, large numbers gathered at the station at one o'clock.

The archbishop-elect was met at the station by the members of the diocese of the city of Kingston and members of the Roman Catholic societies and of the congregation of St. Mary's and conducted to the palace. A procession was formed, the order being the band of the R.C.H.A., Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Foresters, Catholic Mutual Protective Association, Young Irish Catholic benevolent association, men of St. Mary's congregation, band of 14th P.W.O. rifles. These were all on foot while the rear was brought up by the clergy, who rode in carriages.

The procession lined up on both sides of the road leading from the station along Ontario street to Brock, to Wellington, to Johnson and hence to the cathedral. Crowds lined the pavements, and business was suspended for the time being. Five hundred children were stationed on the steps of St. Mary's cathedral to welcome the new prelate, and the little ones stationed in front of the convent, the Hotel Dieu and the cathedral, waved small Union Jacks. All connected with the affair wore badges bearing the pictures of Archbishop-Elect Spratt and Mr. Stagni.

Upon the arrival of the procession at St. Mary's cathedral the clergy went to the archbishop's palace and the crowds filed into the cathedral. The clergy afterwards marched into the cathedral and the archbishop-elect taking the place of J. J. Behan, in behalf of the congregation, read the following address of welcome:

Address to Archbishop-Elect.

To His Grace, the Most Reverend M. J. Spratt, D. D., Archbishop-Elect of Kingston.

Your Grace: The congregation of St. Mary's cathedral unite with your faithful clergy throughout the diocese in extending to your grace our warm congratulations and cordial welcome to your future home.

Through the wisdom and foresight of the holy father you have been selected as chief pastor of the ancient see of Kingston. With this historic episcopate have been associated the names of many illustrious men, men whose hearts burned the zeal of the missionary life, men of profound erudition and renowned scholastic attainments, men of gentle culture and broad humanity. Thus in this diocese was laid wide and deep the spirit of faith; schools and colleges have been founded and hospitals and charities created and endowed. There is observed a devoted loyalty to authority, and at the same time a happy absence of religious intolerance and religious strife; all classes dwelling together in peace and unity.

May we not say to your grace that your life has been typical of the one you are called to govern. The trials and labours, the hardships and privations of the mission were yours, but no work was too great for your hand to overcome, the labourer was equal to the task, and so parishes were carved out, churches and presbyteries erected, and the entire range of pastoral duty discharged ably and well. Then followed promotion, with wider cares, with responsibilities greater and more diversified, with fast pressing, serious duties. All these difficulties you met with the same wise judgment, the same calm determination, and the same marked success.

Thus along your way of life stand monuments of your priestly labours, till now what wonder you are called upon to rule the archdiocese therein, for so many arduous years you served so faithfully, with such loyal devotion and with such distinguished success.

Educated and trained in your native province, labouring close to the lives and hearts of the people, you are by birth, education and experience preeminently qualified to discharge the high and important duties of your sacred office. With a stern sense of duty, with a broad view of human life, with wide toleration and respect for all classes, with gentle consideration for the frailties of human life, with these qualities your reign cannot but add fresh lustre and renown to Kingston's historic see.

Although a glorious work has been accomplished by your illustrious pre-
