THE REASON WHY!

The ever-increasing consumption of tea throughout the world-particularly of British Grown Tea-bas created a demand much greater than the supply, which among other causes, prevents really good tea being sold at former low.

Russia and Australia are buying fremendously of British grown teas in place of China teas, and the consumption in Great Britain is larger than ever.

The shutting out of over 15 million pounds of colored China Green Tea by the United States Government, the increased use of tea due to higher prices of coffee, the greater acreage given over to the planting of rubber in Ceylon, the shortage in the Japan crop this year and the labor problem in all tea-growing countries are all factors which account for the much higher primary markets.

The present revolution in China may also mean much smaller crops there next year and present indications are for still higher prices in the future. All these conditions either mean a lower quality at the same prices, or the same quality at higher prices.

Our experience shows that the tea drinking public pre-"HONEST TEA IS THE BEST POLICY"
