

Children's Bank Accounts

Can be opened in either of two ways—in the name of the child, or in the parent's name, "in trust." By the latter method the parent controls the withdrawals.

In either case the child can make deposits and learn early the forms of banking and the value of economy.

Every child should have a bank account.

WERE LED TO VIOLENCE TO AID SANTA CLAUS—WHAT HAPPENED?

BY EXALTED IDEA OF THEIR DUTIES TO UNIONS.

What Harry Orchard Says—Further Arrests Are Expected in the Dynamite Case.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 4.—Henry Orchard, who is serving a life sentence for murder of Governor Stuenkel, claiming he did so at the behest of the Western Federation of Miners, said he was glad the McNamara had pleaded guilty as it relieved organized labor of a fearful stain. Like his own crime, said Orchard, the McNamara were led to violence, by the exceptionally exalted idea of their duties to their unions.

Los Angeles despatches intimate that further sensational arrests in connection with the dynamiting of the Times and other buildings and attempted bribery of jurors are hourly expected.

It Matters a Good Deal.

The Hamilton Spectator does not see that it matters much whether Ontario or Manitoba owns the ports of Hudson Bay.

Manitoba thinks it matters. Ontario, through Sir James Whitney, contended that it mattered a great deal while Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in office.

Ontario is building a railway system to Hudson Bay. The settlement that has been pulled off at Ottawa while Sir James Whitney's back was turned cuts Ontario off from the seaport, to which our publicly-owned railway was pointing.

Ontario can now do any one of three things. We can end the railway without reaching a port. Or we can let Manitoba share in the enterprise with us. Or we can spend the money of the province outside the province building docks and making a harbor in a Manitoba sea-port beyond the jurisdiction of the legislature which votes the money. None of these choices will be considered quite satisfactory.

Basketball Games.

There will be three games in the B. Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening. The first game will be between St. James and Bethel, the second, between Sydney and Brock street, and the last between Cooke's and St. John's. There was to have been a game between St. Paul's and Queen street, but it has been called off.

Made Daring Stop.

Gunner Hutchinson, of "A" battery, made a daring stop of a runaway, on Rideau street, on Saturday evening. A horse attached to a coal cart took fright and dashed along the street, when the gunner ran out in the middle of the road and grabbed the animal by the head.

M. R. Davis, government inspector of hulls, is able to be around his home after being quite ill. He will be out in a few days.

TO HELP HIM MAKE MANY HOMES HAPPY.

The Citizens Are Urged to Help Make a Fund That Will Bring Cheer and Gladness to Every Destitute Home.

The appeal made in Saturday's Whig for assistance so that Santa Claus might visit the homes where little ones reside and whose prospects for such a visit are not of the brightest, has found response in the hearts of many of the citizens of Kingston, and we are hoping that the contributions will be so generous that everybody, big and little, will have an opportunity of rejoicing at Christmas-tide.

Today the Whig makes its first contribution to the fund. It is for the duties that devolve upon Santa Claus. There is ample opportunity for every citizen to contribute, either large or small sums, to carry on the good work and to allow the little folks of Kingston, deprived through circumstances of poverty or otherwise, to be made the beneficiaries of this distinguished old gentleman. To-day we beg to acknowledge the receipt of the following sums:

The Whig	$5.00
A. B. Cunningham	5.00
J. G. Elliott	1.00
Whig composing room	3.50

ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL.

The Bishop and Rev. Dr. Smythe Were the Preachers.

Yesterday being Advent Sunday, the beginning of the church year and also the first day in the church's lesser season of penitence, St. George's cathedral was vested in violet and the altar was bare of flowers. The keynote of the teaching of the day, brought out in collect, epistle, gospel lesson and hymns, is "And knowing the time that now it is high time to awake out of sleep for now is our salvation nearer," and the Advent season is one of preparation for the Christmas feast.

The bishop of the diocese preached at high celebration, Dr. Paterson-Smythe preaching to young people at evening. His sermon was pathetic and yet vigorous, inviting to active work in the right way. His sermon was based on the incident of the widow of Nain, and he pointed out the sorrow that came to parents, especially mothers, when their sons became wrapped in the grave clothes of evil habits, and ended with an appeal to his youthful hearers to forsake any evil path down which they might have strayed and seeking strength in the holy sacrament, to turn once more into the paths of righteousness, and gladden the hearts of loving parents.

A PREACHER DECLARED

THAT THE BANK OF MONTREAL IS BEING RUN

For the Benefit of Officials and Employees and Not for the Shareholders—A Sensational Statement.

Montreal, Dec. 4.—"This bank is being run for the benefit of officials, and employees, not for the shareholders," declared Rev. G. H. Parker, of Lennoxville, Que., at the annual meeting of shareholders of the Bank of Montreal this afternoon. Mr. Parker's criticism was probably the most exciting thing that has cropped up at a meeting of the Bank of Montreal since its inception.

He pointed out that some years ago there were ten directors at a salary of $25,000 per year. Then it was considered necessary to add two to the number of directors, and the salary list was increased to thirty-five thousand dollars. Parker's remarks were greeted by a round of applause from other shareholders.

Sir Edward Clouston resigned from the office of general manager, and H. V. Meredith was chosen to succeed him.

THE DUCHESS FELL

On Stepping From Train, But Was Not Injured.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—Slipping on some ice on the floor of Broad street station on her arrival from Kingston, the Duchess of Connaught had a fall which might have proven serious, but for the fact that she was wearing a heavy fur coat. When the bystanders saw her royal highness fall to the ground, the eagerness evident on their faces for some few minutes previous to the arrival of the train, soon changed to deepest consternation. Several, including members of the city police force, rushed to assist her in rising, and all were happy to learn the duchess was none the worse for her tumble. Graciously, she thanked those who hurried to aid her and smilingly continued towards the motor car, accompanied by the duke and Miss Pelly.

COMMONS ADJOURNMENT

Will Likely be Settled on Monday Evening.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—A deputations of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association had an interview with Hon. G. E. Foster, this morning, with reference to amendments which they desire to be made to the Inspection and Seales Act.

There does not seem to be an official basis for the announcement that the House of Commons is likely to adjourn on Tuesday night, instead of on Thursday. It all depends on the day's progress. This evening ought to settle the question.

THE RECENT CHANGES IN THE BRITISH NAVY.

What Brought Them About—A Current Story of Some Interest—German Cruisers in an English Harbour—An Audacious Proceeding.

Ottawa Citizen. Winston Churchill denies that his radical reorganization of the upper works of the British navy conveys any reflection upon the outgoing lords who have been so suddenly steeled by the same. It will be regarded as supplying some color of truth to an interesting little story that has been circulating recently, but has never appeared in print, regarding an incident that is alleged to have occurred during the Moroccan crisis last July. During the few days in that month when diplomatic relations with Germany were undergoing a serious strain, the British fleet was holding manoeuvres off the east coast of Scotland, making its headquarters in Cromarty harbor. The story goes that the fleet returned to the harbor one evening and came to anchor. Later in the night a belated warship, which had been detained out at sea, noticed a number of suspicious looking craft off the mouth of the harbor with lights out. They were supposed to be fishing vessels, but suspicion was aroused in some way and a scout was sent out of the harbor to report on them. It is alleged that they were found to be a flotilla of German destroyers accompanied by a few cruisers, and were apparently engaged in taking soundings for the purpose of laying mines. Next morning they had disappeared. The matter was reported to the admiralty, and orders were issued to the fleet to clear for action the following night, and if any German warships were discovered being suspiciously off the harbor they were to be fired upon.

Needless to say they did not turn up again, but after that a portion of the fleet was detailed to guard the mouth of the harbor at night. Whether or not there was any truth in the story, it illustrates what might be accomplished in these days of hostilities without declaration of war. If the North Sea fleet were to be bottled up in a harbor, the mouth of which was closed with mines protected from the outside by a German squadron, the dawn of the following day would find Great Britain's sea power much less than seriously threatened. Certainly the sudden shake up in admiralty circles would indicate that something had happened.

HERE'S A ROYAL ROW.

Infanta Eulalie's Book Angers King Alfonso.

Paris, Dec. 4.—The Times prints the particulars of a right royal row between King Alfonso, of Spain, and his aunt, Infanta Eulalie, a princess with bold and unconventional views. The Infanta, who resides in Paris, received the following telegram from King Alfonso, dated from the palace at Madrid, Dec. 2nd:

"I am astonished to learn from the newspapers that you have published a book under the name of 'Countess Avila. I suppose this will cause a great sensation. I order you to suspend publication until I have taken cognizance of the contents and give my permission to publish."

This telegram the Infanta Eulalie replied to as follows: "I am greatly astonished that my book should be judged without being read. It is a thing which could only happen in Spain. Never having a thing of court life, from which I have always held myself aloof, I take this opportunity to send you my adieux. For, after this proceeding, which is worthy of the Inquisition, I consider myself, so far as my private life is concerned, free to act as I deem fit."

In communicating the telegram to the Temps the Infanta declared vehemently that after the treatment of her son, who had shown great patriotic devotion in fighting in Morocco without the slightest recognition, this was the last straw and she had given orders for the sale of all her estates in Spain, and would henceforth live in the strictest privacy.

"I shall be much happier so," said the princess, "for I can keep my personality."

While the book to which King Alfonso takes exception and which bears the title, "The Thread of Life," has the name of Countess Avila on the title page, the preface, in which the author takes the responsibility for the views expressed, is signed Eulalie, Infanta of Spain. The work is written in French. It is a sort of discursive, independent treatment on morality. The chapter headings include such subjects as "The Principal Causes of Happiness," "The Development of Will Power," "Complete Independence of Women," for the princess is a radical feminist, "Equality of Classes," by Education, Religion and Marriage.

The royal moralist makes a determined onslaught on the traditionalists. She is in favor of divorce, but thinks that it should be "a law based on justice, not, as often happens, on some agreement covering lust."

The princess holds that woman in principle is the equal of man and insists that she should become the useful collaborator, without ceasing to be the generous companion of man in the joys and labors of life.

A Workman Injured.

William Cassidy, of Lower James street, a carpenter in the M. T. company, yards, fell Monday morning, and received a severe shaking up. His right side and hip were injured, and it is a mystery that his leg was not broken. He was removed to his home in a cab, and attended to by Dr. Robert Hanley.

Clarence Hayes, Colborne street, was removed from his home to the Hotel Dieu, Sunday evening, suffering from appendicitis.

Arthur Thompson, Colborne street, has returned home from a trip to New York.
