TO AID SANTA CLAUS

TO HELP HIM MAKE MANY HOMES HAPPY.

The Citizens Are Urged to Help
Make a Fund That Will Bring
Cheer and Gladness to Every Destitute Home.

Since Christmas is a children's festival, it becomes apparent that the poverty and want which robs the festive season of its festivity turning the good will into mockery and the joyous greetings to satire, has its particularly poignant effect upon the little ones.

The youngsters' imaginations are inflamed by the brightly lighted and gorgeously decorated store windows, their hopes raised by the legend of old Saint Nick, and their expectations made sanguine by the stories of joys in store for their more fortunate playmates. A season which promises so much and fails to fulfil is an embarrassing influence indeed.

It was with the idea of alleviating to some extent this most poignant sorrow of childhood that the city fathers endorsed the plan now in operation.

The Whig has been in receipt of a large number of letters addressed to Santa Claus, in which the wants of the folks are set forth. For instance one dear lad wants a slate and pencil, books, double, skates, engine, train and train track, a drum, mouth organ, a bugle, horn, knives, an automobile, box of tools, flying machine, a watch, two pucks, sweater and pants, a napkin ring, candy and nuts. This is a pretty good contract to be filled.

Another writes: "Dear Santa: We are glad the Whig is finding out all the poor children's addresses. I suppose that is why lately we have not had as happy Christmases as our elder brothers and sisters had when they were living on another street. Santa Claus' pack is empty before he gets here. We would be glad to see him."

A little girl, from Hartington, asks for a great many things and suggests that Santa might bring some of her friends, whom she names, some toys, a dolly, picture book and cards. She seems anxious to please Santa Claus, because she intimates that she will have a plate of apples, on the table when he can take all he wants, and she will hang her stocking over the register. Some little girls, she says, "tell me there is no Santa Claus; there is only Mrs. Santa." She wants to know where there is one, is a real woman's person.

Five little folks in one family and all of them quite young, ask to be remembered by Santa and enclose a list of what things would satisfy them, and, indeed, they are very simple in number and would add greatly to their happiness if Santa sent them. The Whig asks all its friends to remember to send a small donation so that the wishes of so many little ones, and so many of them in very poor circumstances, may be gratified. The Whig acknowledges up to date $48.80. E. L. H. .... $2.00

HELD UP AT BRIDGE.

Two Men Accosted, But Ruffians
Secured Nothing.

Two young men, employed as servants at the Royal Military College, reported to the police, to-day, that they had been held up by a couple of men, near the Catawpa bridge, late Monday night.

The young men were on their way home from the city when they were stopped by a couple of rough looking fellows and asked for money. One of the two held up, managed to make his escape, and it was lucky, too, that he got away, as he was the one who had money. The other fellow, who was detained, did not have even one cent on his person, and when the ruffians had finished searching him, they were in a very angry mood, but did not assault him, although they remarked that if the matter was reported that they would do him bodily harm.

This is the third or fourth hold-up, reported at this place recently, and some of the men who have to go over the bridge late at night are anxious to be given permission to carry a revolver in order to protect themselves. This privilege, of course, they will have to secure from the police authorities.

Queen's Quarterly Editor.

Prof. J. F. Macdonald, M.A., has been appointed editor of Queen's Quarterly.

The magazine has been edited by a board of editors since the death of Principal Grant, whose trenchant editorials on Canadian public questions made Queen's Quarterly famous throughout Canada. Prof. Macdonald, the new editor, is connected with the department of English in Queen's university and is a vigorous and scholarly writer. It has also been decided to increase the size of the Quarterly and devote more space and attention on to the book review section.

Death of Martin Meagher.
Martin Meagher, an old resident of Kingston, died suddenly of apoplexy, on Tuesday morning, at his home, 79 Bagot street. For years he was employed on the R. & O. boats, and lately at the locomotive works. He was a member of St. Mary's cathedral and a liberal in politics. He is survived by his wife, who has the sympathy of the community in her sad bereavement. A solemn requiem mass will be sung in St. Mary's cathedral at 9.30 o'clock, Thursday morning.

Did Not Want Jury Trial.

The court of general sessions, and county court opened at the court house on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. The case of J. Esford, charged with assaulting George Wormington, was to have been tried by a jury. Mr. Esford wished, however, to be tried by the judge without a jury, so his case will be heard at three o'clock by Judge Price.

At the court of general sessions sitting, Tuesday afternoon, the Campbell stabbing case was adjourned until Wednesday morning.

Wilfrid Young, twenty-two years ago, was convicted, at Belleville, on Monday, of raising a cheque from $252 to $5.02. Sentence was deferred for a week.

LOOKS FOR ACCLAMATION.

Mayor Graham Demands the Conservative Nomination.

Mayor Graham is looking for an acclamation for the chief magistrate's chair for 1912. At a meeting of the conservative leaders of the city last night, he sought the party nomination and intimated that he could get an acclamation, just as Dr. Ross did a week ago. His worship does not want to step down and out. The conservatives do not take kindly to the mayor's proposal, which they regard as a "hold-up," but intimate that he holds the trump cards on them.

Two others are mentioned in connection with the mayoralty, the nominations for which take place a week from Friday next. One is Ald. Toye, who has been asked to enter the field by leaders of both sides. If he will not run Ald. Hoag is the other probable candidate, and the latter's friends say he will take the field against Mayor Graham.

REV. FATHER CARSON.
Appointed parish priest of St. George's Church, Picton, in place of Rev. Father Kilmer, who has been promoted to Belleville.
