

SALOON vs. LABOR & HOME

Labor Speaks Strong

John Mitchell, the foremost labor leader of America, puts the Bar Room in its true place.

Mr. Mitchell has made several pronouncements at various times in regard to labor's attitude toward the Bar Room, but one of his recent deliverances is as follows.

"I have said that the saloon is contrary, is opposed to the labor union. I now go further and say that the saloon is the labor union's mortal enemy and that unionism will never rise to its proper place, will never stand erect in pride and power if it allows the liquor traffic to hang around its neck and strap upon its back this cursed thing which men call the saloon."

For unionism as I conceive it, stands for brotherly help. Saloonism stands for brotherly robbery. Unionism stands for self protection. Saloonism stands for self destruction. Unionism stands for self and brotherly benefit, Saloonism stands for self and brotherly injury. Unionism stands for conservation of strength and increase of wage. Saloonism stands for the dissipation and diminution of both. Unionism stands for the full dinner pail. Saloonism stands for the empty larder. Unionism stands for a pocket full of beer checks. Unionism stands for better homes and the highest standards of workmanship. Saloonism stands for wretched homes and ruined workmanship.

The striped beast, the saloon is labor's mortal enemy. For it gains only by labor's losing; it fattens only by labor's wastings; it lives only by labor's death.

"You profess to be the laborer's friend and yet you vote for the saloon which murders countless laborers every day. You profess to strive for higher wages, and yet you vote for the saloon which murders wages in a thousand different ways."

You profess to be willing to work, to live, to die for the emancipation and salvation of the laboring woman. And yet you vote for the saloon which has squeezed the heart's blood out of more women than unionism has ever numbered.

"You profess to be the friend of our little ones and to co-operate with us in keeping them at school and giving them a chance for the higher life. And yet you vote for this cursed thing which has stunted more growing intellects, robbed more children of their birthright, sent stupid through the world, tied up to the warper, the spooler and the spinning frame, more half-grown, half-developed little ones than unionism can ever count."

"O Labor, Labor! March with heads erect, proud of your calling and your cause. But if you ever stamp upon your unstained banner the mark and sign and seal of the striped beast of the saloon, then march with heads bowed down, ashamed of your calling and your traitorous cause. But this perversion of the natural order shall never be effected. For the saloon lusteth against labor and labor lusteth against the saloon, and these two are contrary one to the other."
