

TRY TO EVADE THE LAW

IN ORDER TO ATTEND FIVE CENT THEATRES.

Lads Under Age Forbidden to Attend Unless Accompanied by Parents—"Hold Up" Citizens to Take Them Into the Shows—Try to Persuade Citizens.

"Please Mister, will you take me in?" Have you ever been passing one of the five-cent theatres in Kingston, and this question popped to you by some youngster, who is very eager to get on the "inside" of the theatre. He said that he was with a number of friends, and was about to go into one of the theatres, when he felt a tug at his coat. Looking around, he was very much surprised to find a little chap looking up into his eyes. The youngster had ten cents in his right hand, and holding it up to view, he said: "Say, Mister, won't you take me in; I've got the price all right."

The citizen felt sorry for the little chap, and would have liked to have taken the little fellow into the show with him, but he thought that he would not be doing what was right, so instead of buying the boy the necessary ticket to pass him into the show, he persuaded him that it was better for him to go home and get his father or mother to take him to the show. The boy promised and ran off. Perhaps he went home, and perhaps he did not.

This is only one story, but there are many others no doubt of a similar nature, and it goes to show how eager the lads are to go to the shows and what they will do to try and evade the new law.

Among the young ladies who took their vows in St. Joseph's convent, Toronto, on Friday, was Miss Fanny O'Driscoll, Pembroke. She will be known as Sister Mary, of Good Counsel. She is the third of this family to take the religious vows. Sister Mary Dorothy (mother superior of Sault Ste. Marie hospital), and Sister Mary Frances, of the grey nuns, Ottawa, are sisters. They are daughters of the late Michael O'Driscoll, barrister and Q.C., of Pembroke, and cousins of Mrs. E. W. Mullin, this city.

THE CHORUS LADY.

It Was Presented at the Grand on Saturday.

"The Chorus Lady" by James Forbes, author of "The Travelling Salesman," seen here last season, was the offering at the Grand Saturday, matinee and night. In this play an entire act is given over to gossip behind the scenes, in which the female members of the play take part; the male members do not figure in this, as they do not gossip. The story centres around the life of a young girl who had a craze for the stage, reached the stage, and was taken care of by an older sister. Edith Wall played the role of "The Chorus Lady" and was good. She has a part which is brimful of singing, and the way she got it off was indeed wonderful. The supporting company was good.

To-night Fiske O'Hara. The latest success of Fiske O'Hara, "Love's Young Dream," is booked to appear at the Grand to-night. In this play Mr. O'Hara gives us an excellent picture of life in Ireland during the early part of the eighteenth century, one of the golden ages of the country. This was the period in which the Irish gentleman of wealth and position lived on his own estate and took part in the rearing of his horses and then riding them, in the steeplechase. There is a real snap to the story for this was the age of dash and go, and the play would not reflect the spirit of the age if it did not possess this quality.

The Rosary. "The Rosary," written by the well-known author, Edward E. Rose, will be presented at the Grand on Wednesday, Jan. 10th, with John McLean in the leading role, that of "Father Brian Kelly." The book and the song of the same name have long been popular and the play has been a dramatic sensation since its first production.

"The Rosary" is a sermon, as good as has ever been preached.

BISHOP WORRELL PREACHED

In St. George's Cathedral on Sunday Morning.

The feast of the Epiphany, or the showing forth of Christ to the Gentiles, which always falls on January 6th, was observed as usual by celebrations in St. George's cathedral. Yesterday, the first Sunday after Epiphany, the gospel contained the story of Christ's manifestation of His power in changing water into wine for the marriage feast at Cana.

At high celebration the preacher was the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, whose theme was the church's children and the need for instilling in them the truths of Christianity. Christmas, he said, would lose its meaning were Christ left out, yet He practically is in all our Christmas celebrations. Our churches were decked in beauty and services are held, but instead of the Christ-child and His birth being the keynote of the day the figure of Santa Claus (or now and again a Teddy bear), is set up as a tutelary deity of the day.

None is more welcome to Kingston than Bishop Worrell. The greeting he receives is that which falls to the lot of a beloved parish priest.

Good Stealing Now.

When people awoke Sunday morning they were greeted with a heavy snowstorm. It was indeed a most welcome sight as the sleighs had been scratching for more than a week. The storm gradually became thinner and by noon had cleared all together, and the sun came out, in addition to making good sleighing it spoiled skating on the lake, which was good.

His Horse Dropped Dead.

As John Simpson, of Cataragui, was driving home from market, Saturday afternoon, his horse dropped dead near University avenue, on Princess street. The animal had been working as well as usual all day in fact had covered considerable ground and without apparently any cause dropped dead in the harness.

Had a Fine Time.

The members of the Orange order at Odessa, held a meeting last Friday night, for the purpose of initiating several members, and members from Kingston, Sydenham and Napanee, were in attendance. After the business had been disposed of, there were speeches and refreshments were served.

AT COOKE'S CHURCH

FIRST SERMON OF NEW PASTOR, REV. J. W. MCINTOSH.

Responsibilities, He Pointed Out. Were Just as Heavy on Congregation as Upon the Pastor—Warm Tribute to the Late Robert Laird.

"We stand at a very critical period in our history," remarked Rev. J. W. McIntosh, the new pastor of Cooke's church, in his first sermon to his congregation, on Sunday morning.

As a pastor, and people, we come together for the first time, with certain definite aims before us.

"Let us thank God for the expectations He permits us to pursue this morning. Let us not forget that there is something beyond all this enthusiasm, and that is the spirit of consecration, that will fit us for the great tasks before us; for the responsibilities on your part and on my part, in undertaking to discharge the responsibilities towards one another.

The responsibilities of the congregation are, just as those upon the pastor. He loyal to the different position you are qualified to fill. Look to God, for His support.

The speaker returned thanks to the congregation for the very warm reception which had been extended to him as pastor. His sermon was an eloquent one. The text was taken from I Samuel x, 9: "And it was so that when he had turned his back, to go from Samuel, God gave him another heart, and all those signs came to pass that day," also Ezekiel xxxi, 26: "A new spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you a heart of flesh."

The speaker referred to the life of Saul, which he characterized as most perplexed. It was a life which promised so much, and which yielded so little. The life of Saul had been a secluded one, and God gave him a larger vision of life. Saul heard the call, and responded enthusiastically.

Before the sermon, Mr. McIntosh stated that it was with sincere regret that he had received the sad news of several deaths within the congregation during the past few weeks. He made special reference to the death of Rev. Robert Laird, "the father of the Kingston presbytery," who had dedicated the church to him. He paid a warm tribute to his long term in ministry, and stated that his good work would live long in the memory of all who knew him.

Miss Edith Orser rendered a fine solo at the evening service. There were good-sized congregations both morning and evening, and attendance in the evening being very large.

THE LATE MRS. CONNELL.

Mother of Dr. Walter T. Connell, of Kingston.

Brookville Times.

The death occurred last Wednesday night, at Spencerville, of a life-long and highly respected resident of that place, Mrs. Martin Connell. Deceased had been in her usual good health and had got up Sunday morning and called to her daughter it was time to get up, and had retired to her room again. After some little time Miss Connell went to the bedroom and found her unconscious. Dr. Byers, of Spencerville, was immediately summoned and found it to be a paralytic stroke from which she never regained consciousness, and passed away in the above mentioned date.

The late Mrs. Connell, whose maiden name was Sarah Bennett, was born on the old Bennett homestead, seventy years ago, one mile from Spencerville. Some of her early years were united in marriage to Martin Connell, and went as a bride to the home where she died. She was a member of the Methodist church of Spencerville, and a life member of the W.M.S., and also a member of the Ladies' Aid Society. She will be remembered as a kind neighbor, one ever ready to help all those in need.

Surviving members of the family are, besides her husband, five sons and one daughter: John A. Algonquin; Prof. W. T. of Queen's, Kingston; Dr. James E. Indian Head; Frederick M. Toronto; Harold and Mrs. Gillies, at home. Mrs. Connell is also survived by one sister and one brother: Mrs. David Snyder and William J. Bennett, both of Spencerville.

The street railway sweeper had to violate the Sabbath owing to the snow storm. The sweeper was taken over the line during the afternoon. The police had a very quiet week-end. There were no arrests and as a result there was no session of the police court on Monday morning.

THE LATE JAMES DAVIS.

Passed Away After But Three Days' Illness.

James Davis, the Princess street shoemaker, passed away at his home on Sunday after three days' illness. Deceased had been well up until a few days ago, and was at work as usual. Death resulted from acute indigestion. The deceased was born in this city, and had lived here ever since, having kept a shoe repairing store for nearly thirty years. In religion the deceased was an Anglican, a member of St. Paul's church. He was unmarried, and had lived with his sister and mother for years. He is survived by two brothers and three sisters, Mrs. J. Thurston, of this city; Mrs. Thompson, of Duluth; Miss Minnie, at home; John, of this city; and William, of Kansas. ARCHBISHOP MAKES CHANGE

In the Financial System of St. Mary's Cathedral.

In St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday morning, Archbishop Spratt made the announcement that he had decided upon a change in the financial system of the cathedral. Heretofore, open collections, with special collections at Christmas and Easter, have been depended upon. These collections are to be abolished, and in their place an envelope system of weekly offerings, like that of the Presbyterian, Anglican and Methodist churches, is to be inaugurated next month. His grace announced that he himself intended giving five dollars each Sunday. He is anxious to have the debt on St. Mary's cleared off in two years, and expects that the people will contribute enough by the weekly offering system to do this.

Prayer Book Revision.

At the conference of the Trinity clerical alumni, at Toronto, Dean Bidwell, of Kingston, secretary of the committee on Prayer Book revision, made an announcement of many suggestions received, among them being special psalms for every Sunday, as reading the Psalms "in course" was as intended in the present arrangement; alternative burial services; permissive alternative evening services; special gospels and epistles for the marriage service; special prayers for family use.

Threatens to Make Trouble.

A resident west of Division street threatens to make trouble for a carter employed by a local coal firm for turning around in his yard Saturday afternoon. The carter had to back into the yard where he was to deliver the coal, and in order to do so had to turn around in this other man's yard. The latter was very angry, and reported the matter to the police. The carter, in return, time saying he was going to make things "hot" for him.

Harbor Frozen Solid.

The harbor is now frozen over solid and the boats are laid up for the winter. The steamer Plover, which went on the island route on Saturday morning to take the place of the Wolfe Islander, which ran ashore, but had to lay up, as the ice was too thick for her to go through. It will not be many hours before some of the Islanders will venture on the ice, which must be three or four inches thick.

Ice in the Harbor.

The ice has taken in the harbor, but it is not in shape yet for the boats to make the trip to Cape Vincent. Yesterday some of the cadets of the Royal Military College walked over from the college on the ice, and one ice boat made the trip over from Wolfe Island. Had the snow arrived before the cold spell the ice would have been far thicker.

Plumbers Worked Sunday.

Some of the city plumbers worked all day Sunday; but it is not likely that the Lord's Day Alliance will be after their scalps, as Jack Frost was responsible. The sudden cold snap on Saturday gave them such a rush of orders during Saturday that it was necessary for them to work on Sunday to clear off the slate.

Laid Up For the Season.

The steamer Island Wanderer made her last trip of the season on the Cape Vincent route on Saturday, and on Monday work was commenced in taking off her fittings and putting the vessel in winter quarters. Capt. Hudson, the veteran captain, had quite a long season. He was out on the job early in April, and stayed with it until Saturday.

Two Small Fires.

Carelessness on the part of people thawing out water pipes was responsible for two small fires. At 11.25 Saturday night the firemen were called to the home of Robert Wallace at 380 Barrie street, and at 9.25 on Sunday morning there was trouble at 133 in a house owned by John Carson. The damage in both cases was very slight.

Transferred Liquor License.

The county board of license commissioners met on Saturday afternoon, when the application of J. Whalen, of Fernoy, for the transfer of the license at the Lake View Hotel to William Potter was granted. The members present were E. K. Pudry (chairman), William Potter and Carscallen; also Inspector Morrison.
