

THE SPORT REVIEW

THE MATERIAL FOR QUEEN'S HOCKEY TEAM.

A Summary Given of Those Who Will Form the Line-up—The Tri-color Team Plays McGill in Montreal Friday Night.

(Continued from page 2.) It has been with infinite pains that Coach Hart, Manager Marshall and last but not least, Physical Director Bews, have been preparing the squad from which seven men will be picked to defend the senior hockey honors of Queen's University during the coming season, and the opening game with McGill, Friday night, in Montreal, will show how they have succeeded in their work. Queen's will have "some line-up" the above mentioned officials have gathered together such a band of hockey players this year as will make all the fans sit up and take notice. Starting at the defence, there is Daniels, the star performer of two years ago. As an opposition to the output of the rubber factory, Daniels has his end of the game worked down to a science, and nothing less than a battering ram will put the small round sphere past him. Leo Trimble as an advance guard to the cage wut-her, is a brilliant player. His rushing is spectacular and he is a pretty stick handler. As leader of the team, he is certainly in the right place. Next, Blakely can use his body to good advantage, and rushes well. He and Trimble on the back position can break up rushes in effective style. "Greg" George, as partner to "Bert" Hunt, is starting out this winter with the avowed intention of saving pucks as souvenirs. His scoring capacity is appearing already, and he is after a record of three goals every game, then he gets the puck.

So much for the back division. These men are practically certain of the positions they now occupy. For centre, there is Hunt and Box. Both good men and true, but Box lacks the weight. Hunt has it, and all the other qualifications necessary. The left wing is a hard man to beat out for the left wing. He is inclined to mix things up a little bit, but will undoubtedly conquer this falling. Smith, the Halesbury man, seems to have captured the right wing job. With such a lineup as this, the fans have "doped" it out about like this: Queen's cannot fail to do something this year, and, as Dr. Hart predicted during the first part of the season,

TO MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO GIVE G.T.R. COMPANY THE POWER IT ASKS

For Its Drilling Plant Near Kingston Mills—The Civic Utilities Committee Has the Matter in Hand.

The civic utilities committee will do everything possible to give a supply of electrical power to the Grand Trunk Railway company for quarrying on this side of Kingston Mills. The feeling among the members of the committee present at its first session on Tuesday afternoon at the light, heat and power works, was that even if the Hydro-Electric Commission could not supply power to the city as early as April 1st, an effort should be made to give the railway company a supply for the time being. The G.T.R. chief engineer stated that from 750 to 1,000 horse power would be required, but maybe a much smaller amount would suffice for some months until the city's drilling plant was fully installed.

It was intimated that Dr. Ross, M. P.P., was in Toronto, interviewing Hon. Adam Beck with regard to power for this district. If the Hydro-Electric Commission buys out the Seymour company, Trent power connection will be had in Kingston, as a consequence, and the distance from there to Kingston is only twenty-five miles. Power could be given the G.T.R. from the sub-station which will have to be erected, probably at the east end of the city.

If hydro-electric power cannot be secured before the summer, the city will try and give the G.T.R. a supply direct from the present power plant. A 300-horse power generator now lies idle at the plant. This could be used to supply 300-horse power to the railway as a day load. It would cost perhaps $8,000 to build the line, but a five or seven year contract will pay the city well. The utilities committee does not intend to allow this matter to slip by. Manager Folger has the matter under consideration.

The committee was unfortunately at its first meeting in not having a quorum of members present. A meeting had not been expected so soon after the council's inauguration. Those present were Alds. Higney (chairman), Harrison and Hartley. Mayor Hoag was also in attendance to keep in touch with the affairs of this new committee, which is to direct the power and water plants of the city. The chairman said that it would be well for the committee to get a full statement of the water works business at once. The water works business system should be made as similar as possible to that of the light and power plant. Manager Folger will take up this matter as soon as possible.

There are thirty-one members in the Scottish Curling Club, which will pay a visit to Kingston on January 19th and 20th, and in a fine booklet, which was issued by the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, regarding the visit of the visitors, the latter are given a few timely tips about their trip to Canada and the United States.

The line-up of the junior Frontenacs to play against Belleville to-night was announced in the club rooms Tuesday evening after the practice. It will be unchanged from the last game save Little, who goes with the team as spare man. Cook; defence, Stanton and Campbell; rover, Purcell; centre, Thornton; wings, McGuire and Gunn. Little will play centre with Thornton.

The senior Frontenacs will have another workout at the rink to-night from eight to nine o'clock in preparation for the game Thursday evening with the inter-provincial team in Brockville. Cook will act as goal keeper as Portuguese is out of the city, defence, Hyland and Nicholson; rover, Brouse; centre, Reid; wings, Weicker and Boyer.

Eight authorities all over the continent are of the one opinion, that there are four boxes who stand as a bulwark against the present flood of white hopes. Little Thinks on G.T.R. The Grand Trunk railway system have issued a little booklet entitled, "Politeness Pays," the contents of which were written by the well-known litterateur, Elbert Hubbard, who has jotted down a number of things thought on a little journey over the Grand Trunk. The text is epigrammatic in style, and interesting, as all this well-known writer's text and epigrams are. It is printed in the Roycroft style on hand-made antique paper, with a four-page cover, printed in a light blue and black on a sepia deeded stock. There is not only good advice in his booklet to the railroad man, but to the public. A copy of the booklet may be had free on application to any of the Grand Trunk offices.

He Squared For His Dinner. A man stood before Archibald Anderson one day recently. "Are you the man?" questioned he. "who ran the dining hall at the fair a year or two ago?" Mr. Anderson admitted that once upon a time he had given himself the pleasure of looking after the proper feeding of 1,500 or so of people at the fair grounds. "Well," marked his interlocutor, "I got a dinner up there without paying for it, and it's bothered me since. Here it is." So he handed over the quarter, which has now found its way into the fair's strong box.
