Address by Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald in Calvary Church—Two Other Week of Prayer Meetings.

One of the meetings for the week of prayer was held, Wednesday evening, in Calvary Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. H. D'Arcy Whitmore, presiding. The speaker for the evening was Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, of St. Paul's church, who spoke of "Christ in the Nation," or "Christian Citizenship." He chose as his text two phrases from Mark xiv-41, 42: "Sleep on now, and 'Rise up,'" and "How easy it is," said the speaker, "for anyone, even a Christian, to fall in the hour when needed most. To be asleep, as it were, at our task, only to awaken and find that the enemy has been at work while we slept, as it was that day when Christ found His three disciples asleep in the garden of Gethsemane. No wonder that tender rebuke, sleep on now, passed the lips of our saviour, for when He most needed their sympathy they failed Him. Let us not be found asleep when the opportunity to do something for Christ presents itself, but let us be up and doing, for when the opportunity is gone it is gone forever.

Rise up! was the next command from Christ and by this we see there is still something to do. Christ never in all His teachings said sink down, but rise up, or, I say unto thee arise. Let us arise to every opportunity as it presents itself, to make this fair land of ours a better nation. This Canada, with all its richness and beauty, is a gift to us from God, and we must rise up to the task of making and keeping it a Christian nation, by being a true Christian ourselves and helping others to become one. We have just entered upon a new year, which opens before us with a bright future and many possibilities. If you have failed in the last year do not let that hinder your usefulness throughout the present year. The past is irremediable, its opportunities are gone never to present themselves again; let them sleep on, they can do no more harm to you, but let us rise up to the available future, which looms up before us bright and clear, and resolve that God helping us, we will make 1912 a year of Christian service to our God, our nation, and our city.

Princess Street Church.

At the meeting of the week of prayer held in Princess street, Methodist church, Wednesday evening, there was a good attendance, and fervent prayers and helpful addresses were given by Rev. E. L. Rice and E. C. Lockett. The pastor of the church, Rev. F. G. Robinson, presided.

Rev. E. L. Rice's topic was "Peace in the Nation," or "International Arbitration." The speaker said prayers ought often to be said for God's guidance in the affairs of our nations, and especially mentioned the international arbitration movement between England and the United States. If the principles of Christ were carried into the national life war would be impossible. War was a sin because it wasted the best life of a nation and enormous amounts of money. "Cripples and old men are left to become the fathers of the future generations."

The last excuse for war had been taken away with the establishment of The Hague tribunal in 1898 and the court established by which national grievances could be submitted for settlement. In closing the speaker urged the need for prayer for speedy consummation for world-wide peace.

F. G. Lockett, in his address, dwelt on the need of prayer for those in authority. When we sing "God Save the King" in should in reality be a prayer. Those in high positions greatly need the in-dwelling presence of Christ. Mr. Lockett asked for prayer for our members of parliament, mayors, aldermen, school trustees, etc. He closed with an appeal for aggressive effort of Christians to make our city and nation what they ought to be.

At Cooke's Church.

Another of the Wednesday night meetings of the week of prayer was held in Cooke's church with an encouraging attendance. Rev. J. W. McIntosh, the new pastor of the church, presided and read the scripture lesson. Rev. Dr. Macgillivray, Rev. T. W. Neal, Rev. Mr. McCallum and George Pound led in prayer.

Rev. John Webster, pastor of Brock street Methodist church, on the subject, "Christ in the Nation," gave a good address. The backbone of a nation is its Christian men and women. Christ works from within the individual, establishing His kingdom in the nation. The kingdom manifests itself in the fruit of the spirit. The speaker then touched on the individual in the church. God works in the church, by the church, and through the church, to save the nation.

Had Abraham found ten righteous men Sodom would never have been destroyed, so that pious men become in a sense, the saviours of the nation, and the safety and prosperity of a nation is wrapped up in the individual units that make a nation.

After the address was given, was thrown open for discussion. Rev. T. W. Neal said he believed the greatest thing needed to-day was a revival of righteousness in civic and parliamentary affairs. Our best institutions are the fruit of the labors of Christian men and women who have passed away. Rev. Dr. Jordan said he was heartily in sympathy with what Mr. Neal had said.

Rev. Mr. McKay, Presbyterian missionary from India, will probably speak at the week of prayer meeting in St. George's hall this evening.

ABERNETHY'S

BOLDT DAMAGE SUIT

CASE AGAINST MILLIONAIRE HOTEL KEEPER CALLED.

Plaintiff Injured While Employed as Engineer on Defendant's Yacht. Brings Action to Recover $10,000.

George C. Boldt, millionaire proprietor of the Waldorf-Astoria, is the defendant in a $10,000 lawsuit which was called in the supreme court, at Watertown, N.Y., with Samuel J. Porter, formerly an engineer on the Boldt yacht, the Louise, as plaintiff.

The action is the result of an accident at the Thousand Islands during the summer of 1909, when a boiler tube on the yacht burst as the boat was nearing Clayton. Porter was badly scalded, being taken later to an hospital an Ogdensburg, where he was under a doctor's care for more than one hundred days.

The fireman and Porter, who were in the engine room at the time of the explosion, sprang into a room back of the engine room, and attempted to reach the deck by means of the emergency hatchway. It is claimed that they were unable to get out on account of not being able to raise the hatchway because of trunks and luggage which covered it.

It is the plaintiff's contention that the trunks were piled on the hatchway by order of the yacht captain, who had been duly authorized by the defendant to manage the boat. In the denial of any liability, it is alleged and contended that Porter was injured through his own negligence, and likewise the negligence of a fellow servant on the boat.

MAN DRUNK IN A SLEIGH.

Asked That He be Taken to the Police Station.

"I'm drunk, all right, please take me to the police station."

It is not very often that a person makes a request to be taken to the lock-up, but there was one man in the city on Thursday, who was very anxious to get to the police station.

The man who made the above request was very drunk, sitting in a sleigh, in the yard of a local hotel, when Police Constable "Harry" Filson, came across him. In a few minutes the man was in the lock-up.

He is a Swede, who has been employed on construction work, but his name is not known. He was too drunk to give his name when arrested. Had he not been taken to the station, he would have perished with the cold.

Working at Elevator.

Richardson's elevator was working to-day, taking the grain out of the schooner Ford River. The Ford River was used to take part of the cargo out of the steamer Prince Rupert, one of the last vessels to arrive in port. Last winter, the elevator ran as late as February.

Welding the Axe.

London Advertiser.

A batch of postmasters has been dismissed in North Simcoe without any reasons being assigned.

It seems, however, that the dismissals all over the country are not hazardous, but obey a definite rule. This rule is the ipse dixit of government candidates. A conservative member of parliament or defeated candidate has merely to pick out the victims, and the government does the rest. The postmaster-general, the minister of public works, and the minister of customs have won a pre-eminence in the use of the axe which has made them the heroes of the spoils brigade.

Mr. Borden still talks piously of civil service reform. If he talks long enough, his wicked partners may have all the liberals out of office, and then the patronage system may be abolished with a fine show of virtue.

City Property Committee.

The city property committee had a meeting on Wednesday afternoon. Owing to the absence of the chairman, Ald. Harrison, the chair was taken by Ald. Clugston, Stroud, Litton and Armstrong. The committee regretted that it could not place the Ontario hall at the disposal of the Poultry Association for its show, as it is occupied by the Oddfellows. The room just vacated by the city auditor was given to City Engineer McLelland for a private office.

"The Rosary" Was Good.

A fair-sized audience greeted the production of "The Rosary" at the Grand Opera House, on Wednesday evening. The show was deserving of a much larger house. John Meahan, in the part of "Rev. Father Brian Kelly," was very fine.

Richard Gorman, the young man who kicked in the windows of the Anglo-American hotel in Belleville, on Saturday, will spend the next year in the Central prison.
