PARCEL POST IN CANADA

The postmaster-general saw the wisdom of accepting the resolution of Mr. Maclean with regard to the parcel post. He saw that a division of members was likely to follow, and he could not afford to invite a second experience as painful as that which Mr. Lancaster caused on the marriage question.

It may be some time before the government can get definite information on which it can act, but the express business is growing in importance and rewards, and because now it is part of the railway business it is going to be difficult to handle. The enquiry which the railway commissioner made some time ago, when the companies' tariffs were revised, established the fact that the charges were outrageous, they were in some respects unequal and extortionate, and the only relief would come through the parcel post.

The business is under examination in the United States where a profit of forty-one per cent. is earned annually on the capital invested, and sixty per cent. on the business and for the railways with which they have contracts. The question is, 'Can the government carry the parcels by mail and cheaper than the express companies?' The post office is not a money-making institution though in Canada, under liberal rule, there was a handsome balance on the right side of the account every year. What kind of an arrangement can the department make with the railways which will enable it to share the business now monopolized by the express companies at lower rates.

Some years ago there was a movement towards a parcel post and it was dropped because representations had been made to the effect that it would contribute largely to the building up of the departmental stores. Does that argument not hold good to-day?

COPYING A FAILURE

When the reciprocity agreement was under consideration by the Canadian common conservative members, now occupying the ministerial benches, professed to see in the American tariff commission a very superior body. It is this commission the Canadian government now imitates, or professes to imitate, and hence it is important to note what the editor of the Review of Reviews remarks in the February number.

"The tariff board's report upon wool contained a large mass of interesting and useful information about costs at home and abroad. This is desirable for the purpose of reference." And, by the way, it is not confidential. It is not reserved for the use of the government. And the Canadian tariff commission is to be the whispering board of the minister of finance. "But," says the Review of Reviews, "the establishment of a revenue system for the government, and the modification of revenue laws, are matters of great public policy which are in a way touched upon by the work of the tariff board."

THE SIKHS HAVE RIGHTS.

The Aryan is the name of a paper through which the Hindus are pleading their cause with the Canadian people, and the leader of the race, an educated and eloquent man, is Dr. Sunder Singh. He tells us that a Sikh is a disciple, and of one man, Baba Nanak, whose teaching in India was in effect that there was no caste in the sight of God, that all people were equal. The Sikhs suffered on account of their faith or religion, very much as the original Christians suffered. They once fought against the British, but later fought with them, and it is said that the history of the Indian mutiny would have been different but for them.

The first Sikhs who came to Canada were some of the troops who visited London in connection with the Queen Victoria jubilee. Their report of Canada made many desirous of seeing of getting in it. The first immigrants arrived in 1905. They were followed by others in 1906, 1907 and 1908. In 1909 immigration from India stopped. Most of the men went on the land. Many own their own farms. They think it a great hardship that they can travel in America, in China, in any country in Europe. Why not in Canada? A Japanese has to exhibit only $50 on coming to this country. A Sikh must have $200. Why this discrimination? Other immigrants can reach their destiny as they please. The Sikh must make a continuous journey, and this is almost an impossibility. Those on the land have $2,000, 000 invested, all of it in British Columbia, and they cannot have their families with them, cannot, as they desire, "settle down and develop the country."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Bourassa wants the naval bill repealed, seeing that the Laurier government was defeated on the subject. But was it? The Whig thought reciprocity was the issue.

Mr. Borden has named the committee which is to enquire into the old-age pension system for Canada, and he omits from it the member who made one of the best speeches upon it, namely, Mr. Nickle, of Kingston. Now what do you think of that?

The tariff commissioners are to be paid $7,000 a year each, and their secretary $3,000. And all they do will be private so far as the people are concerned, the minister's confidential advisers; the men whom he can make scapegoats of as the occasion may demand.

A bill is going through parliament, which exempts from the operations of the Lord's day act "the work of musicians in churches, church parades, funerals, Bible classes, and other purposes of a like nature." Why not add tobogganing, skiing, and skating? Some Christians of Toronto suggest this.

To be Aggressive Minister.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 3.—Rev. Dr. James W. Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist church, has opened a business office in Spokane banking district, where he will be on duty daily, from 9:30 o'clock in the morning to 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Kramer has been installed as chief clerk and stenographer. Official announcement is made that "any one in the world but a drunkard or a worse person will be married with a license or short service." Dr. Kramer made this statement to-day.

"I shall mix with men, know men, be one of them, but never compromise with any of them in any way. In undertaking the policy of the aggressive minister I shall extend a welcome to everybody in my office, and as I personally pay the rent I can have privacy when desired, a thing that was out of question at my church office. I purpose making my downtown office the Baptist Moccasin, though men and women of other denomination are welcome. My wife has volunteered to attend to the correspondence, so there will be no paid stenographer in my employ."

PROFITS OF VICE IN CHICAGO.

Director Says They Reach $15,000,000 a Year.
New York, Feb. 3.—George J. Kneeland, director, of Chicago Vice Commission, who made an exhaustive study of the social evil in the city for the committee of fourteen in speaking of that subject at the west side Young Men's Christian Association, declared that more than $15,000,000 profit was made annually from the social evil in Chicago.

He said the segregation plan for the regulation of the evil had been tried with poor success, this plan, in some form or other being in force in thirty-three cities. Under it, he said, the evil was placed in the hands of the police who made their own rules and regulations for the conduct. He declared that the evil reached its most flagrant expressions in cases where police rule prevailed.

In Chicago he said men and women of high social position owned property which was used for disorderly purposes. He reminded a Chicago millionnaire once that his home was rented for an unworthy purpose. The millionnaire replied, "I know it, but that's business."

"Vice he said, 'often puts an artificial value on property. I have known property to increase from $300 to $700 in front foot. I know of a house in Chicago which ordinary rents for $1,200, but, put to a disorderly purpose, rents for $8,000. In the same manner a house renting for $10 a month can be made to yield $150 a month."
