TOWN OF GANANOQUE

KINGSTON GUN CLUB TO MEET GANANOQUE.

A Young Lady Injured on a Rink—Rev. Melvin Taylor Accepts the Call to Grace Methodist Church.

Gananoque, March 4.—Miss Marian Mullins, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mullins, met with a severe injury at the Park rink on Saturday evening, while skating. She fell striking the back of her head on the ice, and had to be assisted home, where medical aid was summoned.

Arrangements have been made for a squad shoot, six men to the team, between Kingston and Thousand Island Gun Club, at Grasshopper Park, next Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

A game of hockey has been arranged for this evening at the Park rink between the Shamrocks and No. 7 teams of the junior championship of the town. The Donsboro team that trimmed the Beavers in that town a short time ago has also arranged for the return match at the Park rink this week.

Quite a number of young people from town went down to Lansdowne, Saturday evening to attend the fancy dress carnival there.

Rev. Melvin Taylor, Arnprior, to whom a unanimous call was extended by the officials of Grace church, on Wednesday evening last, has notified the board that he will be pleased to accept the pastorate of Grace church, subject, of course, to the approval of the stationing committee.

Miss Robertson's class of St. Andrew's Sunday school held a driving party, Saturday evening, after which they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Mitchell.

At the evening service in Grace church, the musical part was furnished by a male choir, assisted by Grace male quartette, consisting of Messrs. George W. Scott, Thomas Scott, Robert Allan, and William Allan. Master Wilfrid Sine, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine, presided at the organ.

Dennis Latimer, son of the late Solomon Latimer, of this town, located for some time past at Curry Hill, has purchased the Ore farm near Willesloshome, and moved his furniture and stock there.

A report has been circulated that the Studen property on King street, between Belle's and Hallidays, is being negotiated for by a Greek gentleman, who purposed erecting a business block with an opera house in connection. The rumor is a pleasing one, but so far has not been satisfactorily confirmed.

Miss Myrtle Wright, spent the weekend at Ivy Lea, guest of Miss Lena McNeil. Mrs. W. F. Laque, spending some time with Kingston friends, has returned home. Hubert Carson, Kingston, is spending a short time in town with relatives. George Lucy has been spending the past few days with Kingston friends. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. ### ANGLICAN MISSION DAY

OUTSIDE PREACHERS IN THE VARIOUS CHURCHES.

The Work of the Laymen's Missionary Movement Was Referred to People Urged to Give and Pray.

Sunday was observed as missionary day in the Anglican church of the city. In the morning at St. Paul's church Canon Starr and H. M. Rose, of Tecumseh, secretary of the Anglican branch of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, gave short addresses on mission of missions in this generation, the missionary theme of the day.

Canon Starr spoke of the advance. The missionary cause of to-day is one of the most striking things. All churches have felt the great need of mission effort and have responded to the call and are sending out money and also men and women to the work.

Mr. Rose spoke on the same theme. He took the Laymen's Missionary Movement as the response of the people of the twentieth century to God's call. The Laymen's Missionary Movement is without doubt the best religious movement in existence. The object of this movement is for the evangelization of the world in this generation.

AT St. John's Church.

The sermons at St. John's church Portsmouth, on Sunday were both along missionary lines. Rev. A. J. Wade, of St. Peter's mission, Great Slave Lake, gave a very interesting account of the work among the Eskimos at the morning service.

In the evening, to a good congregation, R. W. Allin, assistant secretary of the M.S.C.C., spoke very forcibly, dealing almost entirely with the Canadian field. Mr. Allin said easterners very often have a mistaken idea of the west and the hardships of the settlers who go out there. Too many people look upon it as a land flowing with milk and honey, and lose sight of the religious aspect. The speaker dwelt at some length on the great need of the gospel to these people of different races and creeds. In many places, for a year at a stretch, the people never get a chance to attend a religious service. Mr. Allin said the young men who were needed for this great work were, not the weaklings of the east, but the educated, healthy, strong-willed men.

IN St. George's Cathedral.

A graduate of Queen's Medical college, and remembered with affection as a curate of the Rev. F. W. Dobbs, at St. John's, Portsmouth, Canon Sidney Gould, M.D., comes back among friends when he returns to Kingston. Always a convincing and inspiring speaker, Canon Gould has added the grace of eloquence, and as was truly said after his sermon at the high celebration in St. George's cathedral, on the second Sunday in Lent, "had Canon Gould spoken so inspiringly in a hall, he would have been cheered to the echo."

Canon Gould's theme was the Canadian nation that is to be and the responsibility the obligation, the opportunity, the privilege of this day and hour.

The tide of immigration which is setting in toward the Canadian west constitutes the profoundest movement in the world's history, said the canon, and he then quoted the cry of the east and the cry of the west as he had heard it in his recent journey from sea to sea. In the east they say that the flower of their countries is going west, lured thereby by dazzling prospects. "How then," say those left behind, "shall we properly accomplish our task of assimilating the newcomers, the aliens?"

In the west they say: "Why should the so-called churchmen who come to us from the east be the most difficult material with which we have to deal? They come to us with the history, with the ideals of the church behind them and know that her call is to service and sacrifice. Why then should they be caught in the avalanche of the desire to attain?"

Zangwill in "The Melting Pot," called Canada "God's crucible." Across every sea and from every nation came those who are to make the Canada of the future. They came from conditions which make every statesman and every churchman shudder. Are we going to reproduce in this country conditions of life which send men and women to the lowest hell here and now? Is the faith of our fathers to prove impotent in moulding the nation's future? The history of the United States is a huge warning. In parts of that country there are places practically pagan because the church failed. The call of the hour is upon us, the opportunity is at our doors. The making of a righteous nation concerns us more than it did our fathers more than it does our children. Shall we make it a nation noted for its purity and grace of its womenhood, a nation discharging her trust to the other nations of the world?"

"On the shores of the Endless lake of this our day stands One Who says in the same voice He used of old:

CONSUL HOWARD D. VAN SANT

Hopes to Get a Three Month's Vacation Shortly.

In a letter Howard D. Van Sant, United States consul at Dunfermline, Scotland, and formerly consul in Kingston, says that he hopes to get leave to come home this summer for a three-months' vacation, because of the continued illness of Mrs. Van Sant. The climate at Dunfermline, which is on the banks of the Firth of Forth, is very trying, because of the cold, damp winds from the North Sea. Mrs. Van Sant is better now than she was some time back, and they hope that she'll enjoy this summer in the mountains of Pennsylvania, her home country, will bring her around again, all right. Their little daughter, Gretchen, is well and thriving.

Consul Van Sant is hungry for decent food. He says he has not tasted an oyster fit to eat in three years.

He has his menu made out, and if he gets home will revel in Barnegat Bay food and sailing.

Dunfermline is the birthplace of Andrew Carnegie, who has given great sums of money to improve the town.

Mr. Van Sant says he has met Mr. Carnegie on numerous occasions, and finds him a very pleasant companion.
