THE BRITISH COLUMBIA ELECTION.

Not a liberal elected in British Columbia elections, the polling in connection with which occurred on Thursday. No one who knew of the circumstances expected any different result.

Verdicts. Sometimes they are secured—they were in this case—but the aftermath is always trying. In the British Columbia campaign, though rushed, even prominent conservatives publicly reprobated the deals of the government and lamented that the party was given to corruption and waste.

The Melbride government is running things with a high hand while they can. It does not pay, politically, to hold hasty elections and seek snap verdicts. Sometimes they are secured—they were in this case—but the aftermath is always trying. In the British Columbia campaign, though rushed, even prominent conservatives publicly reprobated the deals of the government and lamented that the party was given to corruption and waste.

GETTING MORE EXACTING.

Dr. McQueen has withdrawn his aid which aimed to provide hospital accommodation for the sick poor at the municipality's expense, and he did this at the suggestion of the provincial secretary, whose new act respecting hospitals and charities seems to be so comprehensive. There are some features of this new measure which, by the way, affect the local institutions. The aid is seven cents per day during the calendar year. The grant for each indigent in actual attendance is dependent on the condition that every requirement of the act is complied with; and section 14 of part I, says that where the receipts are equal to or exceed the expenditure for maintenance, without reckoning the aid referred to in this act, no aid shall be granted unless the lieutenant-governor so directs.

communicable diseases, and the municipality must pay for his care, and if he dies his burial expenses, except, as in Kingston, a fixed annual payment is made in lieu of all liabilities. The clerk of the municipality must be notified of all admissions, and this clerk must, within a specified time, notify the hospital whether or not he is a resident of the city or town. There is one defect here. The hospital should notify the city when non-residents are released, so that as may see they are passed on to the municipality to which they belong, and not become, like some cases in Kingston, a burden on the municipality.

THE ISSUE OF LICENSES.

The Ontario Medical Council is indirectly on its trial when there is any reference to criminal cases in which men have participated, calling themselves doctors but submitting no evidence, and not being called upon to do so, that they have qualified for medical service.

aggressive and impartial as it ought to be. And now there are reports in the papers about an alleged college, the operations of which are to be investigated by the courts.

SOME SIGNS OF PEACE.

The voting proceeds among the miners of England, and it will be some days before it is known whether the ballot favours a return to work even with the assurance of a minimum wage. Meantime, with thousands suffering from extreme want, there is a desire of many to return to the mines, and the union leaders forbid it.

will not do, that the friction between the mine owners and miners will continue, there is only one alternative, namely, to purchase the mines and run them as a state enterprise. Some years ago, Sir George Elliott, a mine owner, estimated that they were worth £120,000,000, and his idea was that this sum should be borrowed at an annual interest of £6,000,000, and that £3,000,000 out of the profits or earnings should be put aside on account of principle. In forty years the mines would be paid for. It may come to this, and the figures herewith quoted are an evidence of the hugeness of the project.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is estimated that the desired increase in the miners' wages would have amounted in the year, in Great Britain, to $29,000. The refusal of it has involved a loss of $30,000,000 at the very best, and the end is not yet. The nationalist cause is waning, and the leader of it is evidently disgusted. The climax came when the senate refused to coerce Manitoba. No wonder Mr. Bourassa wants to go somewhere. He will seek repose, recreation, rest, in Europe.

The legislature had better annul the law against licenses than amend it so that it is without check or effect. If open and ruinous competition between the municipalities, for industries, is to come let us have it in the open, and not a lame or impotent affair.

There are two sides to the Grand Trunk railway question. The company must be allowed to run its business without government interference. The Grand Trunk may not be an ideal institution but the present government would have more consideration if it were not what is called "a grit institution."

Mr. Bourassa is going to Europe for a rest, or for purification, as he puts it. He has been living for a long time amid the odors of Quebec, and wants to get away from them. Later he will tour the continent. For two whole years will the people of Canada rest, and they ought to be very thankful.

THE GREAT LAKES ICE REPORT.

Observers See Little Change From Last Week.

The United States government report for this week shows little change. There is much more than there was a year ago and it seems very slow in breaking up. The following is the detailed report on Lake Ontario:

Niagara—Small fields of ice in the lake shifting with the winds. Toronto—Thickness of harbor ice twenty-four inches; ice breaking at east end of bay.
