DEATHS OUTSIDE CITY

THE LATE THOMAS SPOONER, FORMERLY OF SUNBURY.

Died in Chicago on Thursday—Rev. R. S. Forner's Brother-in-Law Passed Away in Toronto.

Thomas Spooner, a former resident of Sunbury, died at the home of his daughter, in Chicago, on Thursday. The deceased was about seventy-five years of age, and had been ill about five weeks. He was born at Sunbury, and lived there, following the occupation of a farmer, until eighteen years ago, when the family removed to Chicago, where they have resided ever since. He was married to Margaret Muir, who survives at Sunbury. The late Mr. Spooner was a Presbyterian in religion, well-known and highly esteemed in the district.

Deceased is survived by, as well as his widow, three daughters and one son: Mrs. P. T. Baffner, Johnson street, in this city; James Long, and Mrs. J. H. Potter, of Chicago; and Frank Spooner, of Saskatoon, Sask. One sister, Mrs. Robert Knight, of Inverary, also survives.

The remains will be brought to the city, Saturday, and the funeral will be held from his daughter's residence, Johnson street, to Sunbury cemetery, Sunday morning.

Died in Toronto.

Rev. R. S. Forner, rector of St. Luke's church, received a telegram, Friday morning, announcing the death in Toronto, Friday morning, of Frank Wooten, his brother-in-law, for years editor of the Canadian Churchman, a Church of England weekly published in that city. Mr. Forner left for Toronto at noon.

Municipal Coal Yard.

Ottawa Journal. Michigan, gained some little notoriety earlier in the winter by projecting a municipal coal yard. The socialist city council planned to supply the citizens of this thriving port with at least one necessity of winter life without the addition of middlemen's profits.

Unfortunately, the venture did not get properly started, else it might have provided an illustration either as a success to be emulated or a failure to be shunned. The municipal fathers were unable to get the supply of coal from the wholesalers, who had all they could do to satisfy the demand from their regular all-year customers in the coal business. A further difficulty was encountered in the claim that it was unconstitutional for a municipality to engage in the retail business. The whole sales, accordingly, were naturally cautious about opening an account on shipping coal for which they might be unable to collect later on.

Price of Food Soars.

Chicago Tribune. After the announcement of the acquittal of the packers to-day the price of provisions advanced all round. The rise was 15 cents for pork and bacon and 7 1/2 to 10 cents for lard. The addition to the cost of packing-house products was attributed to change to active covering by shorts and to sympathy with the bulge in the price of corn. Swift & Co. shares advanced 2 1/2 points on the Chicago Stock Exchange on a rumor before the verdict. After the jury had come in, a further jump upward occurred, making a total advance of 6 points.

Need More Pavements.

The fact that the city engineer had men engaged estimating off the pavement on King street early on Friday morning, was the cause of much favorable comment. "It's too bad the city has not more pavements," remarked a citizen to the Whig, to-day. "If there were pavements on all the down-town streets it would not take very long to get them into good shape after the snow disappears."

Crowds Turned Away.

WHITNEY IS FAVORABLE

To the Marriage Bill of Dr. Forbes Godfrey.

Toronto, March 29.—The government showed a half-way conversion toward the bills brought up by Dr. Forbes Godfrey (West York) last night, to prevent the marriage of insane persons and the pro-creation of degenerates. Dr. Godfrey was almost read out of court when one of these bills was up three years ago. After a brief discussion in the house last night, in which Dr. McQueen (North West York) supported both bills on the ground of public necessity, Sir James Whitney complimented Dr. Godfrey for a careful, illuminating address.

Some startling figures were presented by Dr. Godfrey in moving the second reading of his bill. Insanity was on the increase in the province. During 1909, 1910 and 1911 there were 1,824 male patients admitted to the asylums of the province and 1,782 females. In the same period 982 males were discharged and 570 to females. He submitted further statistics to show the number of patients discharged as "recovered, improved, and unimproved."

R. R. Gamey, member for Manitoulin, is to be a special commissioner of the government to take charge of a party which will investigate and report on the new territory to be added to the province by reason of the boundary settlement with Manitoba.

The prime minister introduced a bill into the legislature yesterday which will allow Mr. Gamey to take charge of the expedition and receive remuneration for his services without losing his seat in the house.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

Reformatories for Inebriates in Great Britain.

Dr. A. M. Roseburgh, of Toronto, on behalf of the Ontario Society for the Reformation of Inebriates, writes to the press of Canada, in part as follows:

The present seems an opportune time for calling attention to the liberal manner in which the imperial government favors the reformation of inebriates—an example which we, in Canada, might follow with profit.

King George V, when Prince of Wales, upon his return from his first visit to India, is reported to have said: "Wake up, England." When it comes to the knowledge of the vine-totent in Canada, that we have no public institutions here for the reformation of the unfortunate inebriate, it is quite conceivable that he might be impelled to say, with regard to this sad defect: "Wake up, Canada."

The Ontario government has already made an enviable reputation in the domain of prison reform. Its methods of caring for destitute and delinquent children is not merely up-to-date, but actually leads the world, and the extraordinary success that has attended the experiment of exchanging cell-life for farm-life for first offenders is the wonder and admiration of all penologists who have visited the prison farm at Guelph.

Nothing has as yet been done, however, in the direction of furnishing reformatory treatment for inebriates.

In the year 1898 an act was adopted in Great Britain called "The Inebriates Act of 1898." This act provides that when a reformatory for inebriates is established by a county or a group of counties and certified by the government inspector, it becomes a "Certified Reformatory" under the act, and the entire expense of maintenance is assumed by the government.

This generosity on the part of the government has accomplished what it was designed to accomplish—namely, it has promoted the establishment of reformatories in the United Kingdom in England alone there being now ten "Certified Reformatories," whereas there were two only before the act came into operation. Not only so, but two governmental reformatories have also been established—one for men and one for women—for the custodial care of incorrigible cases removed from the certified reformatories where they have failed to respond to reformatory treatment, and have not been amenable to discipline.

For a number of years the inspector of prisons and charities for Ontario has been urging the Toronto city authorities to make more adequate provision for jail prisoners. After this long delay, however, action has finally been taken. A farm of over 400 acres has been purchased, and will be fitted up as a reformatory farm colony for inebriates with special arrangements for scientific medical treatment.

This action on the part of the city—though long delayed—is most gratifying, as such an institution, properly managed, should be the means of restoring to useful citizenship a good percentage of the more hopeful class of cases, and moreover, should serve as an object lesson for other municipalities, and for the government, as well. The question arises, however, should the entire cost of a reformatory for inebriates fall upon the rate-payers of the municipality where it is established? Or should not the government, in this matter, follow the generous example of the mother country?

May we not hope that the present session of the Ontario legislature will not be allowed to pass without introduction, by the government, of an appropriate measure whereby efficient provision shall be made with a view to the reformation of indigent and police court inebriates throughout the entire province. We are also desirous that a substantial increase be made to the small grant now made to the Ontario Society for the Reformation of Inebriates.
