THE GREAT COAL STRIKE COMES TO END AT LAST

Miners Ordered to Resume Work on Monday.

VOTE OF FEDERATION

UPLIFT THE RECOMMENDATION OF EXECUTIVE

By 440 to 125—Reactionary Leaders Wanted to Have Strike Continued Indefinitely, But Were Overruled For Good Reasons.

London, April 8.—The miners' federation on Saturday afternoon accepted the recommendation of the executive committee that the men should resume work as the result of the recent ballot and the miners will be ordered to return to the pits forthwith.

The vote by which the action of the executive committee was upheld was not unclose. The entire action hinged on whether the committee had been right in its construction of by-laws to make a two-thirds vote necessary to continue a strike. By upholding this principle an independent precedent has been established for future use.

The decision was a great victory for the "peace with honor" party in the ranks of the miners. There had been much bitter criticism of the action of the executive committee in deciding that a third vote was necessary to continue the strike, and the radical element went to the meeting prepared to force the federation to override the committee.

The leaders, however, plainly told the advocates of continuing the strike that such action would absolutely prevent the men from returning to work generally. This advice was accepted and the miners will resume with complete forces on Monday.

The decision of the federation was reached after a two and a half hour controversy, which at times was intensely heated, the extremists charging executive pusillanimity in recommending that the men resume work before the district boards had decided to the miners' schedule of minimum wages.

The moderates, however, finally carried the day. Some of the fire-brands had to acknowledge that with 60,000 men already working and with double that number ready to resume work on Monday it would be hopeless to attempt to carry on the war, and a sufficient number of delegates broke away to enable the executive to carry the resolutions calling off the strike and to send out instructions ordering that work will be resumed immediately. The resolution accepting the recommendation of the executive committee was carried by a vote of 440 to 125.

Some of the extremist delegates threaten that the colliers in the north who still have plenty of funds in the union treasury, will break away from the federation, and refuse to resume work until the minimum wage schedule has been granted. Even if this is true it does not alter the fact that the coal strike is now ended, but it would mean a breach in the solidarity of the miners' federation which has enabled the colliers to paralyze the trade by the united kingdom for the past month, causing misery to millions of persons at a cost to the colliers themselves of some $50,000,000.

BERNER DISAPPOINTED.

He Won't Get a Trip to the Arctic This Year.

Ottawa, April 8.—The government steamer Arctic will not go to the far north this year to the disappointment of Capt. J. E. Bernier. For some reason this year's sailing for the Arctic is not approved of by the government, and it is unknown if Bernier will visit his ice haunts again. There is, however, a doubt if Canada reaped much advantage from the expeditions of the Arctic and this matter is evidently being reconsidered by the conservative government. The crew and captain of the Arctic will share the disappointing news, for some of the trips have been fairly lucrative in the way of furs in exchange for civilization's products in the north as well as gotten as trophies of the hunt.

PRISON FOR ORPHAN BOY.

Given Six Months For Taking a Piece of Meat.

London, Ont., April 8.—George Rendell, a seventeen-year-old orphan boy, who went to hunt sparrows in a barn near Allis Craig, and took a piece of meat that he found there, has been sentenced to six months in the Central prison. Considerable comment has been created by the severity of the magistrate, particularly as the boy had always had a splendid reputation.

Not Made Public.

Dr. E. H. Young of the Rockwood Hospital for the Insane, speaking in Toronto, said that the work of the insane institutions was not made public sufficiently. He startled the audience by telling that in the Rockwood asylum four nurses and two orderlies attended to forty crazy men and there hasn't been an accident. Dr. Young maintained that the public didn't know what good work was being done in these institutions.

"Why, oftentimes," said he, "a man with incipient insanity is sent to the world to look at cathedrals, and if you would treat a case of incipient typhoid that way, you'd be laughed at or charged with malpractice. The patient should be put on his back in bed." (Laughter).

A CHILD'S LEG BROKEN

IN A RUNAWAY CRASH SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Harry Kay, Upper William Street, the victim—Farmer's Horses Ran Away When He and His Little Brother Were in Wagon.

The cries of children brought many of the residents of Division and Johnson streets to their front doors shortly after three o'clock, Saturday afternoon, and they saw a team of frightened horses, pulling a street car with two small children clinging to it, at a furious rate. One of the children, Henry Kay, about six years old, was thrown out on Johnson street, above University avenue, with the result that his left leg near the thigh, was broken and he also received some bruises about the head. His younger brother, stuck to the rig, until the horses broke loose from it at Alfred street. He was thrown out, but uninjured.

The runaway started from Upper William street, when the owner of the outfit, S. A. Lyons, a farmer, from Latimer, was delivering some produce at the home of Henry Kay, 35 Upper William street. He knew the children well, and warned them not to get into the wagon, while he was in the house. The children must have mounted the forbidden vehicle, and in some way or other started the horses. The animals moved off at a lively clip, along Division and up Johnson streets, and very likely their fright was intensified by the cries of the young lads behind them.

The horses were thrown out of the street by the team, which completely demolished the front right wheel. At the corner of Alfred street the animals became detached from the wagon, breaking the other wheel, one pole, whiffletree, and they had gone many blocks before the injured boy was picked up and carried to Medley's grocery store, where Dr. Keys temporarily bandaged the fractured member, and had the leg removed to the general hospital, where he set the leg.

Mr. Lyons, the owner of the team, felt the accident keenly. He said his horses were not a restless team.

The injured lad showed remarkable pluck, when being carried to the grocery store and while waiting there, and hardly whimpered. It is almost probable that both boys were not killed. If a car had been coming along Alfred street at the time the result can best be imagined.

ENGLISH ACTRESS COULDN'T UNDERSTAND OUR PAPERS

Miss Horriman Says She Can Manage French, But Not American.

London, April 8.—Miss Horriman's theatrical company, of Manchester, reached home last evening after their Canadian tour.

"There are hardly any native Canadian plays," says Miss Horriman. "Most of them come from New York, and not even the best of the New York plays are seen by Canadians. Occasionally they see English plays under curious circumstances."

There is plenty of culture among Canadian audiences, but we missed the social background of applause which comes from the English pit and gallery. Two other things I missed dreadfully, the morning and evening papers, written in English or in some language I could understand. French and German I had managed, but not American. Oh, no."

BELFAST WILL PROTEST AGAINST HOME RULE

ANXIETY AT OTTAWA

Over Spring Freshets—Hope Cold Weather Will Continue.

Ottawa, April 8.—A drop of some few inches from the unprecedented flood level which the Rideau river yesterday reached, as the result of the quick thaw, and rain fall, is the only cheering feature in the conditions in Ottawa, and the district to-day, and which may, work serious damage unless the present cold snap is of sufficient duration to hold the spring freshets in check. Fortunately, Hoggsback dam, which it was feared would collapse under the pressure of the swirling flood, has so far held, and while hundreds of acres of land on the outskirts of the city are still submerged, so far little damage, other than that caused by the flooding of a few cellars, has resulted.

GREAT FARMING YEAR

Is Propheced for Ontario—The Outlook is Promising.

Toronto, April 8.—Fall wheat in most parts of Ontario is further advanced than ever before at this season, and the prospects are that following the severe winter and the quick-stepping spring, this is going to be one of the best years on record for the agriculturists of this province.

This was the opinion given this morning by an experienced farmer who just stepped off the train after a quick trip from one end of the province to the other and back again. He said the farmers all through were very hopeful, and the prospects justified their greatest optimism.

WOULD COMPEL WOMEN

London, April 8.—Replying to parliamentary critics of his administration, John Burns, president of the local government board, maintained that his policy of removing the children from the poor families had proven remarkably successful.

"Increasingly both rich and poor are adopting poor law children," he said. "If I had my way I would make it compulsory for all women who keep more than two cats and one dog to have a poor law child on which to divert some of the cash and a good deal of the wasted sentiment which many people put upon animals to an extent which is absurd."

FLOOD DANGER IS OVER

For the Present at Least in Western Ontario.

Brantford, April 8.—Mayor Hartman, City Engineer Jones and a dozen men spent an all-night vigil on the dykes which hold back the Grand river from flooding West Brantford, with its two thousand homes and big population. This morning came the welcome news that all danger was over for the present. The timely change in temperature, freeing over the surface of the water and the mud near the banks of the river gave the flood a chance to subside.

Several factories here are unable to resume work to-day owing to the flooding. The gas supply is cut off from the whole city, owing to the breakage caused by floods in mains.

The Waters Subside.

Toronto, April 8.—Reports this morning from all parts of Western Ontario where floods yesterday were very serious, indicate fortunate subsidence in the waters caused by the change in temperature. The damage has already been very serious in the low-lying towns and farming districts.

Paris Suffered Greatly.

Toronto, April 8.—From all accounts the heaviest sufferers from the Grand river floods in Western Ontario was Paris. Owing to the floods and the grounding wires Paris could not be reached till this afternoon, when the "Grand" reached a higher level than in sixty years. The business section is flooded and thirty families were rescued by a boat during the early hours of Sunday from the submerged residential district known as the Flats. All Saturday night and Sunday every available man was engaged building a sand bag dyke to prevent the river breaking its bank rear the dam. Thousands of sand bags were used with success. Pennants, Limited, lost 1,000 tons of coal. The break in the natural gas main caused material inconvenience. The municipal street system of lighting is partially submerged and out of business. The total loss is estimated at $250,000.

Higher Standard for Nurses.

Monster Meeting to Be Held on Tuesday.

WILL BE 130,000 MEN

IN FOUR PROCESSIONS THAT ARE ARRANGED.

The Great Gathering to be Addressed by Bonar Law, the Unionist Leader—The Orangemen are All Well Drilled.

London, April 8.—Belfast is to have another great anti-Home Rule demonstration on Easter Tuesday, two days before the date set for the introduction of the home rule bill in the house of commons. This time there will be no necessity of moving troops into the city, as was the case when Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, held his now historic meeting in the chief town of Ulster. An Irish member, to make sure that Belfast would not again be put under practically what amounted to martial law, to enable a prominent politician to speak, asked the question in the house of commons the other day. The reply of Augustine Birrell, the Irish secretary, was that he thought the Nationalists could be depended upon not to interfere with free speech.

The head and centre of the demonstration is Andrew Bonar Law, the leader of the unionist party. While he will be speaking before the bill is introduced in the commons, the scope of the bill is now fairly well known. The bill itself will not be issued until after the prime minister has delivered his speech in introducing it. Strictly speaking, this introduction is a formal application to the house for leave to introduce, and although the commons never releases this leave, the bill is not issued until this has been granted.

The demonstration, in which 150,000 men will take part, will be held at the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society's grounds. Since the beginning of the year meetings have been held all over Ulster to protest against home rule, and the meeting on April 9th will be a climax to the series. The men have been carefully drilled so that the parades and march past shall pass off with any hitch. The main portion of the participants will be drawn from the unionist clubs of Ireland and the Loyal Orange order. The unionist clubs organized to fight against Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill of 1869, the greatest of the anti-home rule bills, after the last election home rule having been placed as a plank in the liberal platform, the clubs were reorganized, and there are now 266 of them.

The Loyal Orange order is an older and more powerful organization, and is, besides, permanent. It is estimated that one person in every thirty in Ulster is an Orangeman, while one in fourteen of the Protestant inhabitants of the province belongs to the order.

The men from the shipyards of Belfast, 5,000 in number, will also take part, for, although the head of the greatest of the shipbuilding concerns, Lord Pirie, a native of Quebec, is for home rule, his employees are against it.

There will be four distinct processions, two approaching the grounds from the city and two from the country side. In the grounds, four platforms will be erected, sixteen men, almost one being occupied by Mr. Law, Sir Edward Carson, Walter Long, and other leading Scottish and English members of parliament.

The four processions will meet at the entrance to the grounds and enter the enclosure, and the march past will then begin, sixteen men, almost one being occupied by Mr. Law, Sir Edward Carson, Walter Long, and other leading Scottish and English members of parliament.

It is expected that it will take ten hours for the procession to pass. At the conclusion of the speeches a resolution expressing the sentiments of the gathering regarding home rule will be put.

In other parts of Ireland nationalists will hold home rule meetings, not because their constituents need conversion, but to keep interest in the question. There will also be a number of meetings in England, Wales and Scotland.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

Toronto, Ont., April 8th, 10 a.m.—Ottawa, Valley and Upper St. Lawrence—Strong north-west winds, fair and cold. Tuesday, fair, with a little higher temperature.

THE SOCIALISTS ARE AROUSED IN SPAIN

Over Sentence of Eight Years Meted Out to Editor For Offensive Cartoon.

Madrid, April 8.—Pascua Melia, editor of the Socialist Magazine, Vida Socialista, has been condemned to pay a fine of $400 and to serve eight years in prison for publishing a cartoon which, it is asserted, reflects on the personal character of King Alfonso.

The cartoon in question was sent to the magazine by S. Pablo Iglesias, a socialist deputy, who received it from an unknown artist. The central figure is an extremely thin man with excessively thin legs. Iglesias cannot be prosecuted, because of his official position, and Melia was thus made to bear the brunt of the whole affair, which is likely to have a sequel.
